THE A B C OF LOVE.

He.
In the gloaming, oh my darling,
When the lights are dim and low,
That your face is powder painted,
How am I, sweetheart, to know?
Twice this month, I've had to bundle
Every coat that I possess,
To the cleaners—won't you, darling,
Love me more and powder less?

She.
In the gloaming, oh my darling,
When the lights are dim and low,
That your cheeks are sharp with whiskers,
You can bet your boots, I know,
If I powder, I must do it,
Or else suffer great distress,
Buy a razor, won't you darling?
Lather more—I'll powder less.
—Polson Ivy.

FABLEGRAM.
(With a Bow to Aesop.)

The Goose With the Golden Egg.
By the merest chance one day,
A goose happened to lay an egg on a hot stove. In doing so the egg cracked.
When the farmer came into the kitchen he found the egg already cooked for his breakfast. This pleased him so much that he tied the goose on the stove, fully expecting that it would lay another omelette.
But all it did was to cook his goose.

THE ORDEAL.
She offered him the Ambrosial delights of Paradise and commanded him to choose! What would you have done?

She spoke to me from the depths of those black pools of ineffable mystery which were her eyes. "Choose!" she seemed to say. And there was in her voice that which made me know that the moment had come when I must decide.
How could I choose between the deliciously delectable delights which she offered me? I felt that I must yield—and something within me whispered that it would be sweet—so sweet.
"Choose!" she pleaded.
How could I decide?
"Choose!" murmured her eyes, and there was in them a note of yearning tenderness of desperate appeal.
"Curse the woman," I cried in my soul, "why must she tempt me?"
And, eyes as I cried, I yielded.
My throat was parched; my lips
trembled pitifully.
I lifted a shaking finger and pointed.
"Give me that chocolate eclair," I blubbered to the waitress, as I sank back into unconsciousness.
—H.W.F.

The Secret Safe.
With Stella I stood in the hall, where the light
Was properly dim, as I noted with bliss;
And I made up my mind, when I bade her good-night,
I surely would steal from her lips
a sweet kiss.
"Oh, what would my dear girl's mamma think," I said,
"If she knew a bold man were caressing you here?"
"Oh, my," she replied, with a drop of her head,
"She never would hear of your kissing me, dear."
—Roy Farrell Greene.

The Great Fear.
She: "Do you believe in woman's intuition?"
He: "No, but I'm afraid of it."
—Myron Reel.

THE BATTLE AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

What we want if we are to save the yearly waste from preventable and treatable tuberculosis, is not so much long treatment sanatoria, which would need to be of vast size to be adequate, but where as they are at present we might well educate patients for short periods so they might better care for themselves at home. Neither do we want diagnostic clinics with their highly educated, highly efficient, highly paid staffs, waiting for the cases they will never see unless we have universal, compulsory examination.

What we want is to be able to show a man, that for the duration of his inability to earn, he and his dependents will be cared for, not as paupers, not as a burden, but by the State as assets.

Many if this is done, those now working on against their better sense driven by fear of want and its consequences, will gladly seek the care they know they need.

In order that the above be not misunderstood, it is well to say that 15 per cent. of the active cases at present needing treatment for long periods could be cared for in the sanatoria we have. The most enthusiastic advocate of sanatorium treatment cannot expect a debt burdened country to undertake so vast an expenditure. Much may be said both for and against home treatment, but in view of the fact there is little choice.

It is hard to see the real value of diagnostic clinics as planned, unless regular examination of every individual were made compulsory their undoubted value in detecting incipient cases could not be taken advantage of.

The average patient only goes to his doctor when he knows by his feelings he has good cause for seeking care and attention. His disease has by that time reached a point where recognition is easily possible even by the family doctor not even an expert. Treatment might well be left in the doctors hands it may be under supervision of some sort, just as the Workmen's Compensation does now.

Too many experts like too many sanatoria, mean expense, and a top heavy staff of officials, like many another line of public endeavor now well known.

April 12.—Rev. A. J. Hanley arrived in town Thursday evening to take up his permanent residence here. Are Dodd's Kidney Pills When You Are Suffering From Kidney Ailments.

Madame A. Roussy tells how Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved her from pains in the back.

Dack Cote Nord, Que., April 11. (Special)—Of many persons praising their tribute of praise to Dodd's Kidney Pills, it is noticeable that the great majority are women. The reason given for this is that nearly all of women's ills come from the kidneys.

The following statement comes from Madame A. Roussy, well known and highly respected resident here: "I can certainly tell everyone that Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me a great deal of good. I was suffering from pains in my back. I have only taken six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am completely relieved of my trouble. I will never be without them in the house."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Healing and strengthening them, they enable the kidneys to strain all the impurities out of the blood.

Pacific Blindfold.
The damage of pacifist propaganda is done during peace time in encouraging resistance to measures of preparation for the ordeal of war. There are few persons who are real non-resistants, few who would really prefer to submit to the outrages of invasion and foreign rule. There are few even who would approve a tame acceptance of foreign insult or aggression. But there are many who will oppose preparation for defense and seek some moralistic excuse for refusing to accept the sacrifices involved in such preparation, either in the form of effort or money. The sacrifices of war, the sacrifices imposed by want of preparation for war, are quickly forgotten, and we hide the lessons of experience behind an easy optimism.—Chicago
