A GOOD HOUSE FOR A NARROW LOT

With unlimited ground space, or with a wide lot, the type of plan adopted for the house may assume one of a variety of forms, but for the restricted frontage of the narrow lot, the problem of the plan arrangement becomes more serious; the fixed width requires a plan that is deep from front to back and results in ill-proportioned rooms unless due allowance of study has been given the layout.

The architects have planned the accompanying house to give generous accommodations for the average family, and at the same time, a house that is really suitable for a narrow lot.

The house proper measures but twenty-one feet six inches across the front, with the entrance porch projecting three feet six inches on one side, making a total over all width of twenty-five feet, allowing nine feet for a driveway on one side and six feet for a yard on the other side, gives a lot width of forty feet. This width of lot would give a proper setting for the house with ample yard space.

The plan layout which the architects have arranged allows the entrance porch, the cellarway, the service entrance, access to the coal bin, all from the drive, a very desirable feature.

The living-room extends across the entire front of the house, it is of good proportions, has three sides exposed and is provided with a generous open fireplace in one end; it is a cheerful, livable room. A large living porch opens from the living-room.

The entrance porch is at the side of the house and a small compact hall serves directly the living-room and the dining-room, while the kitchen is reached through a short passage where hanging space for coats and such is provided.

The second floor provides three bedrooms, a bath and the required closets. A generous attic and a cellar are provided.

Cost about $7,200.
Complete working plans and specifications of this house may be obtained for a nominal sum from the Building Editor. Refer to House A-59.

EGG MARKET REVIEW.
Ottawa, April 11.—The market is inclined to be nervous and unsettled and as yet a safe basis for storing seems to be difficult at which to arrive. The general feeling, however, would indicate that within the next week, production will have increased to such an extent that holders will be obliged to dispose of their surplus to the storage or otherwise.

Give your roof the attention it deserves—

You expect your new house to last a lifetime. And naturally you want a roof that will last—a roof that won't rot or rust—a roof that never needs painting. Fire-protection is another important advantage of Barrett Shingles. Sparks and blazing embers falling on their mineral surface burn out harmlessly. Yet Barrett Shingles are surprisingly low in cost. Ask the Barrett dealer to show them to you. There are also several types of roll roofings.
