 What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

MYSTERY MAKES FINE NEW GRIFFITH FILM
 For his latest motion picture sensation, "One Exciting Night," which has been announced as the feature attraction for four days, commencing Monday, April 14th, at the Grand Opera House, D. W. Griffith, master-maker of photoplays, has taken for his cue the increasing popularity of the last two or three years of the stage melodrama and has produced a mystery picture par excellence.

In this newest of Griffith films, a United Artists Corporation release, the great director gives five of the six elements that go to make up an effective mystery—secreted treasure, personal disappearance, puzzling homicide, hidden identity, and the return of the avenging spirit. And with it all he gives the spectator an altogether marvelous assortment in the way of actual entertainment.

Of course no Griffith picture would be truly Griffithesque without its great climax scene. And "One Exciting Night" has it. This time it is a storm, that type of mid-summer thunderstorm with which everybody everywhere is familiar—a torrential down pour of rain coupled with hurricane winds, low-sweeping clouds, split asunder every second by bolts of tree shredded lightning. Trees are uprooted and flung about like matches before an airplane propeller; houses are unroofed, demolished, and crumble beneath the tempest. And in the midst of it the boy and girl find their love story come true; the villain is captured; the mystery of the half million dollars cleared.

Carol Dempster has the feminine role and seldom does a theatregoer see a sweeter or daintier characterization than she gives. Other players in the cast are all of widely known popularity and ability.

"BARNEY GOOGLE AND SPARK PLUG" COMING
 Theatregoers who fail to find out anything new or entertaining in the theatre these days will have to admit they are wrong. The Cartoon Amusement Co. is presenting a new cartoon, musical comedy called "Barney Google and Spark Plug" made from Billy Debeck's comic cartoons of the newspapers' comic supplements and brought to the stage by William K. Wells who is also author of George White's Scandals, Ted Lewis' Revue and the new Greenwich Village Follies. He has done his work well, for the transition from the newspapers to the stage has only served to emphasize the fun of both Barney Google and Spark Plug. It's a play for kids from six to sixty, and whether you are a blissed, tired business man or a busy housewife, you cannot afford to miss the opportunity of seeing this really funny play when it comes to the Grand Opera House on Good Friday and Saturday, April 13th and 14th. Bargain matinee daily and evening performances.

It's for the kiddies, too, so bring them along by all means; but it is fun in the sort that can be appreciated to the fullest extent by the grown-ups as well. And besides, it contains two scores of jingly song hits, composed by Con Conrad, who is also the author of the year's biggest song hit—"Barney Google."

And the chorus! Well, we will let you judge for yourself. They're peaches, and no mistake.

DANCE FEAST OFFERED BY DENISHAWN DANCERS
 When Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers come to the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening, April 24th, they will offer a dance feast calculated to suit every note. The many phases of the Denishawn choreographic art, the variety of the gorgeous costumes made of rich brocades, silks and satins, shot with gold and silver and jewels of barbaric splendor, the spell of the transforming lighting effects, the bewitching personality of Miss St. Denis, the virile strength and dramatic powers of Mr. Shawn, the youth and beauty of the dancers that support them—all these and more will make her programme the most artistic and satisfying ever offered by a company of dancers.

The first group of Miss St. Denis' programme is called Music Visualisation and includes Beethoven's "Sonata Pathétique," Chopin's "Revolutionary Etude," Schumann's "Soaring," Brahms' "Waltz, Liszt's "Liebestraum," and Maza Zucca's "Valse Brillante."

To second group includes a Spanish

The third section of the programme is entitled "Orientalia" and offers dance groups of China, Crete, Siam, Japan, Java and Egypt. The Hindu group will again give Miss St. Denis an opportunity to do her famous Nautch Dance and her "Dance of the Black and Gold Sari."

In addition to Miss St. Denis and Mr. Shawn, the company includes Martha Graham, Pearl Wheeler, Betty May, Lenore Schaffer, Julia Bennett, May Lynn, Louise Brooks, Peggy Tallor, Charles Feldman and Paul Mathis, with a symphonic quartette conducted by Louis Horst.

EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD BILL AT THE CAPITOL MONDAY
 "The Fighting Coward," produced by the man who made "The Covered Wagon," James Cruze, and featuring Ernest Torrence, Mary Astor, Noah Beery, Phyllis Haver and Cullen Landis, will be the feature attraction at the Capitol theatre the first half of next week.

It's a story of a man and a young fellow who bluff everyone along the Mississippi, the idea being to convince folk that the youngster is about the dangerous gun-fighter thereabouts. And the whole thing is just one long thrill.

Cruze has established for himself a reputation of being the one director-to-day who can take a screen story in this case an adaptation by Walter Woods of the stage play, "Magnolia," by Booth Tarkington, and get out of it every possible element of humor. "The Covered Wagon," a tense western drama, as produced by Cruze and some of the finest comedy touches of anything ever made. And he's done even more with "The Fighting Coward."

You'll get a good laugh out of the scene where one of the characters engages another in a gambling game and relieves him of even his clothes.

Torrence is at his best in the character of Gen. Orlando Jackson, and Cullen Landis handles the leading man's role to perfection, while Noah Beery gives his usual excellent performance in a heavy role. Mary Astor and Phyllis Haver are well cast as the sisters, Elvira and Lucy.

And there's a thoroughly capable supporting cast.

Another good vaudeville act is booked in conjunction with the regular programme. Haskell and Butler are an exceptionally good team, who sing and present many musical novelties.

LOIS WILSON AT STRAND
 "Icebound," which opens at the Strand theatre on Monday, is a story of a pretty girl who inherits a wild young fellow in a will, making a real man out of him because she loves him.

It's a William de Mille Paramount production, an adaptation of the Pulitzer prize play by Owen Davis.

Richard Dix plays Ben Jordan, a shiftless lad on a New England farm. Lois Wilson is the girl.

When old Mrs. Jordan dies, leaving her goodly fortune to Jane Cray, her ward, played by Miss Wilson, her last request is that the girl take Ben in hand and make a man out of him. There's a flapper cousin (Vera Reynolds) who does her best to win Ben over. She even succeeds for a time until Jane, heart-broken, is about to leave and Ben is brought to his senses.

"Icebound" is a human story of everyday people, a typical de Mille production that will stand alone for a long time to come before its equal in heart-interest and appeal is seen on the screen.

It's a great picture no matter how you look at it—acting, direction, photography all approach as near perfection as is possible to attain.

SPLENDID SOLOISTS FOR "THE MESSIAH"
 To Be Presented by the Kingston Choral Society Next Tuesday Evening.

The Kingston Choral Society are to be congratulated upon the splendid calibre of the soloists which they have secured to take the principal parts in their production of Handel's "Messiah" on Tuesday evening. The tenor and soprano soloists are both Toronto vocalists with enviable reputations in the Queen City, and are both strongly recommended by Dr. H. A. Fricker, Mus. Bac. F.R.C. O., conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir.

Of the soprano soloist, Mrs. Gladys Read, Dr. Fricker says "she has a voice of good power and excellent quality, both clear and brilliant, she sings very attractively and her work is always well studied."

Mrs. Read has been a member of the Mendelssohn Choir for the past two seasons and is soloist in the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, and as such has made an enviable reputation.

Of the tenor soloist, Mr. Allen McLean, who is also soloist in the Metropolitan Choir of Toronto, and who made a great impression in "Stainer's Crucifixion" last Sunday in Toronto, Dr. Fricker says "his future should be one of real usefulness in the musical world. He has a genuine tenor voice of good quality which he uses with sympathy and effectiveness." Mr. McLean is also a member of the Mendelssohn Choir, and is to sing the part of Narrator in Bach's "St. Matthew Passion" on Good Friday in Toronto, a very difficult part and one requiring great control and mastery of the upper range.

The contralto soloist, Mrs. H. Horton of this city, needs no introduction to Kingston music lovers being very widely and favorably known as a vocalist who can be depended upon to sympathetically and impressively render any part. Mrs. Horton, before coming to Canada, received an honors certificate in solo work at Trinity College, London, and the personal congratulations of Sir Frederick Bridge. She has an enviable reputation as a soloist in the Midlands of England where she has sung at the matinees of the Royal Society of Artists. Mrs. Horton also scored a success while on tour in France, Belgium and Italy during 1912.

The bass soloist on Tuesday is to be Mr. E. Hees, a recent addition to musical circles in Kingston who will be remembered as making his first public appearance at the last concert of the Choral Society. Mr. Hees, in his home-land, was a member of the Zurich Mixed Choir of over 500 voices, and took part in all the most famous oratorios. He also studied the "Messiah" under Dr. Broom while a member of the Toronto Oratorio Society before coming to Kingston. He has an exceedingly wide range and his voice has a carrying quality which enable him to make himself heard with no appearance of strain.

The whole production on Tuesday promises to be one of the most enjoyable musical evenings that Kingston has had for many years. The orchestra of over twenty-five pieces, is extremely efficient and effective, while the chorus, composed of 100 voices drawn from local singers of all walks in life, are the very last word in efficiency.
