Bad Blood Pimples and Boils
Banished by Burdock Blood Bitters
Miss Irene A. Matthews, Stayner, Ont., writes:—"I thought I would write and tell you of the experience and benefit I have derived from Burdock Blood Bitters.
Some few months ago I was troubled with bad blood which broke out on my face in the nature of pimples, boils and ring-worm, and I got so bad I really did not know what to do.
I was ashamed to go anywhere, and the itching and burning caused such a terrible sensation I could get no relief day or night.
One day a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I used one bottle and felt quite a relief, and by the time I had taken 3 bottles I was completely relieved.
I cannot praise B.B.B. enough and I hope anyone afflicted like I was will get the same benefit I received."
Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Attended the Funeral.
Sampson Wood left Watertown, N.Y., last Tuesday to accompany the remains of the late W. R. Keiler, who passed away while on a visit to his daughter there. The remains were laid at rest at his old home at Arden.

Already in Ruins.
The Toronto Telegram of Thursday has the following editorial comment: "Highway on the Kingston road, between Oshawa and Cobourg, suggests that a thorough investigation into the good roads system as administered by Hon. Frank Biggs will reveal an appalling condition of waste and extravagance.
"A so-called permanent highway constructed at a cost of $35,000 per mile, in use less than a year and already shot to pieces, indicates that either the whole idea of permanent highways is a delusion and a colossal piece of folly, or the province has been very badly served by those who were paid to protect the public interests—probably the latter."

Did Successful Work.
W. B. Ferguson, formerly of Concession and Picton, has been very successful in the western department (Calgary, Alberta) of the New York Life Assurance Company. He led the department in volume of completed and mailed business to the home office during the thirty-one days of January. He sent $77,000 to the head office. Mr. Ferguson is a son of the late Charles Ferguson, Picton, and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blakely, Concession.

Want a Street Paved.
The residents of John street, Nanawate, want the street paved from the C.N.R. station to Dundas street. Engineers furnished these figures: Complete job from Dundas street to the station, $32,000. Cost to property owners from Bridge street to station, 48c per running foot. Cost to property owners from Dundas to Bridge street, 51c per running foot. Before anything further is done a petition will be circulated, when the property owners will be asked to sign either for or against. If a majority are in favor of the work will be done this summer.

Teacher Must Pay.
At Peterboro, as an aftermath of Judge Huyke's decision compelling Vera Squire, a resident of Peterboro, who teaches school in Seymour township, to pay income tax in that township, City Solicitor Joseph Wearing has notified the local tax collector that he must collect, forthwith Peterboro income tax from all local school teachers not resident in the city. This will affect scores of Peterboro school teachers and have provincial-wide results.

New W.M.S. Organized.
A very pleasing event took place on Thursday afternoon when a delegation from Kingston met with the ladies of Zion church, Pittsburg, for the purpose of organizing a Women's Missionary Society. The first part of the programme, consisting of a devotional period, addresses by Mrs. Ernest Cooke, of Cataract, assistant district superintendent, and Mrs. J. K. Curtis, was presided over by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Doggett. After a beautiful and appropriate solo by Mrs. R. O. Patterson, the district superintendent, Mrs. W. D. Gordon, proceeded to organize the new Auxiliaries. The nomination resulted with the following officers: President, Mrs. Thomas Hyland; first vice-president, Mrs. William Gordon; second vice-president, Mrs. Samuel Woods; recording secretary and treasurer, Mrs. John Hyland; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harry Woods; strangers' secretary, Miss Elsie Woods; mite box convener, Miss Ada Witte; organist, Miss Elsie Woods; assistant organist, Miss Wilkie. Tea was then served at the parsonage and a pleasant social hour spent.

Bishop Bidwell's Address.
Addressing the graduating class of Trinity College, Toronto, Rev. John Bidwell, Lord Bishop of Ontario, stated that there was a decided need for leaders among the clergy today. The faith of the church was being challenged in many quarters, and there was the need for men who were still prepared and able to defend it. When so many other professions of a more remunerative nature were open today, he thought it a fine thing to see so many coming forward to take up the work of the Christian ministry.

Urging the graduates to do everything in their power to make their ministry successful, the speaker yet cautioned against the adoption of methods that were merely designed to attract attention. There was a strong temptation, he said, to adopt such sensational methods, but, unless there was spiritual power behind the man who adopted such methods, he was more to be pitied than anyone he knew.
The best preparation for success in the larger fields of the Christian ministry, Dr. Bidwell declared, was the faithful discharging of the duties that might lie to their hand in some little backwoods town.

COULDN'T SLEEP HEART WAS BAD NERVES A WRECK
Mr. H. A. Reid, Upper Musquodoboit, N.S., writes:—"I am very thankful for the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.
When I came home from overseas, in 1920, my heart was very badly affected by concussion, and my nerves were a dreadful wreck. I was very short winded, and could not possibly sleep at night. In fact, I was in such a condition I felt as if I did not wish anyone to speak to me. I thought I would try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had taken two boxes I could enjoy a good night's rest as well as anyone.
There are lots of returned men who are suffering the same as I did, and I feel sure that if they would only try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they will receive the same relief that I have.
Price 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
Enormous efforts along this line have been made, a new preparation is now being tested out but the results are not reassuring. But we can, if we would, enormously reduce the opportunity for the spread of the tubercle bacilli by the early isolation of cases which do develop and in that way remove from the midst of the population a breeding and distributing centre of tubercle bacilli. At the same time if adequate sanatorium provision is made, this isolation will in the majority of cases, greatly enhance the patient's own opportunity to recovery.
If state or municipal sanatoria and diagnostic clinics can be so arranged that they will be voluntarily sought out by the people as havens of hope rather than places of commitment as a penalty for disease, then we may hope to effectively exterminate a check on the spread of tuberculosis and generally assist to recovery of those who become infected.

THE BATTLE AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS
Ninety per cent., or possibly slightly more, of all tuberculosis is caused by the human type of tubercle bacilli. Protection against this distribution is by no means as simple as the milk control problem vexed as that may appear. These bacteria are primarily associated with the human body and except under special treatment in bacteriological laboratories they are unknown to grow and multiply outside the body. Herein lies the most significant feature of the distribution of the disease—the bacteria for the production of a fresh case come more or less directly from a previously existing case. In the majority of instances the transfer of the causal bacteria from the sick to the well is without doubt direct.
Although there has been much discussion concerning the different methods of infection there appears to be little doubt that inhalation is the usual means of infection. In coughing, sneezing or expectoration small droplets of fluid, in which many kinds of germs are found (in tuberculosis patients usually the tubercle bacilli) are sprayed into the air and these may be inhaled, i.e., drawn into the nose and throat or down into the lungs, of people in close contact. The striking distance of this droplet infection is usually not very great, the droplets with their contained germs settle or evaporate and the germs suffer from desiccation. It is therefore the continued contact with tuberculosis patients, untrained in protecting others, which is most likely to result in infection by this method.

capable of remaining alive for a considerable period, longer than most other disease producing bacteria and owing to this may be distributed by dust. Droplets of moisture coughed from a tuberculosis patient may infect dust, and more particularly the sputum of these patients, which usually contains enormous numbers of the bacteria, may dry to powder and still contain viable bacteria. Such dust drawn into the nose and throat or into the lungs is capable of producing infection. The dust season which we have just been experiencing in Kingston and which appears to be characteristic especially of small cities, between the melting of snow and the time it is deemed wise to start the watering carts, has a twofold effect; not only does the dust carry living tubercle bacilli as well as other sorts of germs but the mechanical irritation of the dust in the throat and lungs makes conditions more favorable for the initial growth of the bacteria.
In addition to inhalation the human tubercle bacilli find their way into the body to some extent by other means, next to inhalation probably most frequently through the digestive tract. Such infection may take place through direct contamination of foods in being handled by tuberculosis patients.
Early Isolation.
How are we to prevent this spread of the tubercle bacilli? Leprosy has been almost eliminated from civilized countries. In Norway in 1856 with a population less than two millions they had 8,270 lepers. In that year adequate isolation of lepers was adopted and by 1900 though the general population had increased by one third, the number of lepers decreased to 577. The prevalence of leprosy in the East is due in a large measure to the fact that no active measures are taken to prevent it being prevalent. Small-pox also is gradually being eliminated as a result of the combined effort to isolate all cases of the disease that do develop and keep them isolated as long as they are infectious and to produce immunity to the disease through vaccination. What are we doing about tuberculosis? We have no vaccination or other means by which we can hope to immunize the population at present. Enormous efforts along this line have been made, a new preparation is now being tested out but the results are not reassuring. But we can, if we would, enormously reduce the opportunity for the spread of the tubercle bacilli by the early isolation of cases which do develop and in that way remove from the midst of the population a breeding and distributing centre of tubercle bacilli. At the same time if adequate sanatorium provision is made, this isolation will in the majority of cases, greatly enhance the patient's own opportunity to recovery.

If state or municipal sanatoria and diagnostic clinics can be so arranged that they will be voluntarily sought out by the people as havens of hope rather than places of commitment as a penalty for disease, then we may hope to effectively exterminate a check on the spread of tuberculosis and generally assist to recovery of those who become infected.
