What is the charm of the dear old story of "Cinderella," which not even the people of the jazz age of the twentieth century can fail to feel? On Friday evening it once more held an audience in thrall when the St. George's troop of Old Guides played it in St. George's hall before a good audience. Miss Mary Dench was Cinderella, Miss Edith Ashcroft a typical stepmother, Miss Elizabeth Murray and Miss Pat Rowland, the cross sisters, Miss Jean Taylor was Prince Charming, and the father's part was taken by Miss Mildred McCammon. Miss Katharine Wolfe was the lady-in-waiting, Miss Jessie Orr, Dame Truly, the fairy godmother. The councillor was Miss Jessie Ward and the lieutenant Miss Louise Wilger. The herald and the page were Herbert Kidd and Miss Mildred Macdonald, and the gentlemen-in-waiting, Arnold Fair and George Taylor. The play was splendidly put on, and Mrs. H. P. Lowe, who was largely responsible, received an armful of pink tulips from the Guides. Miss Marion McFayden sang charmingly, Miss Mildred Scruton recited, and Miss Eleanor Rowland played several piano numbers, as well as for the pretty dance in the ball room scene when the prince falls in love with Cinderella. Rev. W. E. Kidd spoke of the splendid troop of Guides formed in St. George's by Miss Helen Patterson, who had so thoroughly done her work as a captain that she left two able Guides, Miss Margaret Stafford and Miss Edith Allard, to carry on when she was suddenly called away. A committee of ladies assisted these young girls, Mrs. H. P. Lowe, Mrs. F. E. Dench and Mrs. J. F. Patterson.

The Editor Hears

That Queen's girls are going home. Everyone knows it, for at the doors of residences and boarding houses all week have stood carter's waggons and trucks piled high with the belongings of these girls who will miss very much and to whom we wish a happy summer. And such a collection as they have packed into their boxes! Books and frocks, their new spring hat, skates and snowshoes, their fur coat and their year photograph. And still there is more to come for skis are to be checked or sent by express, and all sorts of odds and ends, which the trucks refuse to hold are packed into the ever ready suit case till it too, is full to overflowing. But no one cares and they are all counting the hours till they are once more within the family circle. It is worth while to go away if only for the pleasure of coming back.

That the infant daughter of the Earl and Countess of Minto has been christened Willa. Lady Willa Elliot is named after her grandmother, Mrs. George W. Cook, Montreal.

That "Tut's Tomb," as the new Bank of Montreal building has been named locally, has one advantage (?) over the old banks. It will admit baby carriages. Everyone doesn't know this, and on fine afternoons the passerby might think it was a creche from the rows of baby carriages on the walk. It remained for one cautious mother to lift the carriage, baby and all up the steps and through the black doors which are largely responsible for the bank's nickname.

That old Scotland is rivaling Egypt as a leader of fashion. Listen to this: "American stores are echoing the Paris craze for the tartan. Many of the smartest Fifth avenue shops are featuring the hats adorned with plaid and gay scarfs inset with plaid to match. Tartan hosiery was seen on the Board Walk at Atlantic City, but surely one would be Scotch indeed who would choose the latest ear-rings on sale there. They are an enamel in red, green and yellow tartan!"

C. W. A. Annual Meeting. The annual meeting of the Church Women's Aid of St. George's cathedral was held on Friday when most encouraging reports were read. The following officers were elected: Hon. president, Mrs. Burton, B. Smith; president, Mrs. E. J. B. Pense; vice-president, Mrs. G. A. Robinson and Mrs. Henry Wilkinson; treasurer, Mrs. George McGowan; secretary Mrs. W. J. B. White.

MOTHERS And Their Children

Don't Stress the Task. One Mother says: I find that my children are more willing to do little tasks about the house if I do not stress the fact of the task. Instead of saying, "Now pick up all your toys," I say, "As soon as you've picked up these toys we're going for a walk," making the task to be done a mere side issue. I always try to show something beyond the task itself.

AUNT HET

"I never had but one child that was impudent to me, and he got that way while I was under the influence of a smart woman who came to the opy house and lectured on raising children."

Buying an Antique Oriental Rug. A Reader Friend has written to ask for an article on how to tell an antique Oriental rug from an imitation. Of course the expert way is to have an expert on these rugs choose one for you. Many of the rugs now being made in Oriental factories are "antiqued" by a process of bleaching which softens the colors, thus making it very difficult for the inexperienced to detect their fraudulent nature. These imitations are also rubbed with glycerine, or with a chemical composition, to give them a silky sheen like that of an old rug. They have not the beauty or durability of a genuine antique; for, if the bleach has not been washed out thoroughly—and it seldom has—the rug will wear through in spots, and after a few weeks' wear the glycerine gloss will disappear.

Of course there are some imitations which are better than others, and I am a firm believer in buying a good imitation when one cannot afford the real thing. But one naturally does not wish to buy an imitation for the real thing, at an extravagant price. How, then, is the housewife to know the new from the really old? Here are a few suggestions which will help her:

In the first place, it pays to make a study of the texture, design and color of priceless Oriental rugs in museums. Then go to the shops and note the difference. For instance, you may observe, in the shops, rugs in which some of the colors have run, so that there are places where they have spread from a pattern into a lighter pattern or into a background; this spreading of the colors is caused by the use of cheap, crude dyes, which have run in the bleaching process. You may also notice that some of the dealer's so-called antique rugs have soft, dull colors on the surface, but sharp, bright colors on the back; separate the threads and look closely to discover this flaw. Another way of telling a new "antiqued" rug is to wet a piece of cloth and rub it on a part of the rug (of course you would have to make this test at home); if the rug is an imitation you will catch the smell of chloride of lime which was used in bleaching it. Then, too, a genuine Oriental antique rug will be hard and shiny on the back, from years of rubbing on floors—just as an office worker's wool suit becomes hard and shiny from rubbing against desk or chair. Also, an old rug is usually more closely made, with knots tighter and closer together than on a modern rug.

Dull Spotted Teeth Bleached White Quick - Safe Way

To whiten dull, yellowish, stained teeth, all you need now do is brush teeth with a few drops of a mild, harmless liquid—then use a special paste—and watch stains disappear. This new method is called Bleachodent Combination. The liquid softens the stains—the paste not only gently removes them, but prevents formation of new stains. Fine for removing green stains from children's teeth. No effect on enamel—its mild ingredients are intended to act only on surface stains. Bleachodent Combination is the formula of a group of prominent dentists who used Bleachodent on their own teeth for four years with highly beneficial results before offering it to the public. Millions of teeth have been whitened this new, safe way. For the sake of your teeth, and to avoid disappointment, always insist on Bleachodent Combination, the SAFE treatment, and avoid cheap liquid imitations, which may do serious damage. PIMPLES SPREAD OVER FOREHEAD Inflamed and Itched Badly, Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with a breaking out of pimples at the edge of my hair which soon spread to my forehead. At first the pimples were very small, but became larger and were inflamed. They itched badly for a while and were so embarrassing that I had to go out. My hair fell out. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and in two or three weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Georgia McMillan, 1913 Summit Blvd., Spokane, Wash., July 10, 1933. Use Cuticura for all toilet purposes. On Thursday afternoon the various branches of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. James' church gave a display of their work and a tea as the closing event of the season for the seniors who were the hostesses. The fund-raiser had their neatly made articles for the Door of Hope mission in China on view, and the seniors have prepared a splendid ball for the Gordon schools in the west. Miss Jean Wilton gave a paper on the International conference of the Christian Volunteer Movement held this year in Indianapolis, at which she was a delegate and which was much enjoyed. An interesting musical programme was given and a tea committee, of which Mrs. W. Linton was convener, provided home-made dainties for the guests. Miss Frances Wilson made tea at the table centred with pink tulips.

A goodly number of old friends enjoyed a surprise party, on Friday evening, to mark the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford, Barrie street. Beautiful flowers were sent in during the day. The daughters of the house, Mrs. Harold Singleton and Mrs. Stuart Crawford, carried out the happy event with rare grace and tact.

The principal, the trustees, the staff and the Alma Mater Society of Queen's University have sent out invitations for an "At Home" on Tuesday evening, May 5th in Grant Hall and Kingston Hall, also for the Convocation closing exercises of the eighty-third session to be held on Wednesday, May 5th at 3 o'clock.

In search of a rest, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, with her four adopted children, leaves Toronto on Tuesday evening next for the Bermudas, where she will take up residence for several months in the City of Hamilton. Miss Christabel Pankhurst will not accompany her mother. She is on a lecture tour in the United States.

The marriage will take place in Montreal on May 20th of Miss Grace McMartin, daughter of Mrs. John McMartin, to Dr. Joseph P. Gilhooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gilhooley, Ottawa.
