MOTHERS And Their Children

An Easy System.

One Mother Says: I use the flat construction system in making all my daughter's clothes. I sew up the underarm seams last. When putting on a lace band or ruffle, instead of sewing it on after the dress is put together, I sew up one side of the dress and then lay it out flat on a board and sew the lace on. This is a much easier method and insures its being put on straight.

The Editor Hears

That the bright young girl who teaches sewing at the Y.W.C.A. to the large class of little girls who gather in the clubroom every Saturday afternoon, began to learn to sew herself five years ago at the V.O.N. sewing class at the Welfare Station. It is so help along this kind of good work that the tea and sale advertised in the "Coming Events" column on this page is being given.

I have received the following in response for Danish recipes: Mrs. G. P.: "Real Danish Apple Cake: Sift three teaspoons of baking powder with one-half pound of flour, then stir into this one pint of sweet milk, the yolks of two eggs, one tablespoon of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of either lemon juice, orange juice or a little almond extract, a little cardemon, and, last, fold in the two stiffly-whipped egg-whites. Cook on top of the stove in iron pans with cups in them. These pans cannot be bought in this country, I am afraid—in plenty of butter. When done they resemble apple fritters—although they contain no apple whatsoever."

"Danish Apple Cake (Mrs. G.): Mix together one teaspoon of baking powder and one pound of flour; add one quart of sweet milk, four beaten egg-yolks, a little sugar, one teaspoon each of salt, lemon extract and cardemon, then fold in the four egg-whites. Cook in the Danish pans which stand on top of the stove, and contain little cups (or, if you haven't one of these, you might use muffin-pans stood in a larger pan). Have plenty of butter in the cups. Pour the dough from a pitcher into the cups, filling each cup well was discovered when in the county police court Mrs. Darina Pickering accused her son of stealing a motor car, her property. She stated that her husband died five years ago, and she took in washing. She had bought the car on the provision that her son would buy the car back at a later date when he became part heir to his share of his father's estate of $9,000. The Judge dismissed the case.

That the Kingston kiddies and their parents will rejoice at the action of the city council in the matter of playgrounds. The petition that they be well supervised is a timely one. Better no playgrounds than unsupervised ones, which would be a menace rather than a boon to the children of Kingston.

That La Salle Chapter, I.O.D.E., held a successful rummage sale at the corner of Princess and Clergy streets on Tuesday. The rummage sales have become as much a sign of spring as the first robins.

That the gardeners are hard at work. The fine weather has put the soil into good condition and the sooner seeds are in the ground the better. Let us have as many attractive gardens in Kingston as possible and have a few bird boxes to encourage the birds that will feed on the insects that destroy the plants.

Why She Laughed. When the young mistress of the house entered the kitchen she carried herself with great dignity. She had, incredible as it may seem, come to call the cook to account. "Mary," she said, "I must insist that you keep better hours, and that you have less company in the kitchen evenings. Last night I was kept awake because of the uproarious laughter of one of your women friends."

"Yes, mum," said Mary cheerfully. "I know; but she couldn't help it, mum. I was telling her how you tried to make cake yesterday morning."

only half full, and when cooked on the bottom, turn the little cakes so as to cook the top part. Serve hot with applesauce, each little cake sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. "Sour-Milk Apple Cake (Mrs. N.): Take two heaping cups of flour, one teaspoon of salt, mix together, then stir in a little sour milk or buttermilk. Now add the beaten yolks of two eggs, stir well again, and add more sour milk if necessary to make a soft batter. Dissolve one scant teaspoon of baking powder in a very little cold water and add this as well. Also add two stiffly-beaten egg-whites. Put iron pan over fire and, when hot, put one tablespoon of batter in each greased cup. When cakes are brown, turn them with a steel knife or fork. Serve hot with jelly."

"Yeast-Raised Apple Cakes: Heat two pints of sweet milk to the scalding point, then cool slightly. When it has become luke warm, add to it one cake of compressed yeast which has previously been dissolved in one-half cup of tepid water; also add one tablespoon of sugar, one cup of melted butter, four lightly-beaten eggs, a little cardemon, and enough flour to make a soft batter. Stand the mixture in a warm place for two hours, to rise, then cook it on top of the stove in iron pans containing greased cups."

is made in both Cake and Powder Form

Made in Canada

Do you know that Bon Ami comes in two forms—cake and powder? Both are made from the same ingredients—both have the same wonderful gift of cleaning and polishing without scratching.

For some purposes you'll want the Bon Ami powder in its handy, sifter-top tin—it's so easy to shake out on a damp cloth. For other uses you'll prefer the solid Bon Ami cake that you can rub on the cloth like soap.

Most housewives keep both the cake and powder always on hand. These two "Partners in Cleanliness" are unequalled for cleaning and polishing many things about the home.
