ON PARLIAMENT HILL

By a Member of the Parliamentary Press Gallery

Ottawa, May 12.—The Budget debate is gradually making for itself a reputation for wearisome reiteration. Every second member of parliament seems to have heard a call to place before Canada his particular ideas upon the hundred-and-one matters that come under the aegis of the Budget and the result is a prolongation of the discussion beyond reasonable lengths. It had been hoped that last week would see an end of talk, and the division; now, it is fairly certain that the better part of this present week will be devoted to the Robb proposals. Speeches, for the most part, have been needlessly long, two hours having come to be regarded by the average member of the House as a sort of standard for oratorical effort.

Implement Industry Not "Ruined."

Distinctly disconcerting to the Conservative Opposition was the publication, last week, by the Massey-Harris Company of an extremely optimistic statement in respect of the farm implement business of that huge Canadian concern. The manifesto intimated, simply and in so many words, that the Massey-Harris Company was going to carry on "Business as usual" and, more than that, that the company was preparing to pass on to the farmer, at once, the saving in cost price that was made possible by the Budget. This statement coming gratuitously from Canada's greatest implement manufacturer just at a time when Conservative members were bemoaning daily the inevitable ruin of the implement industry in Canada, was, as Mr. Motherwell said "a sad blow" to the opposition gloom dispensers. A similar silence was the highly optimistic vision of the future of Hamilton as the home of industrial concerns, as painted in the press, two weeks after the budget had been tabled, by Mr. Kirkpatrick, Industrial Commissioner of the "Ambitious City." Political theories of impending blue-ruin are of little avail, after all, when concrete evidences of prosperity and the will to "carry on" are being put before the public by the very interests for whom the untimely obsequies were being prepared by too-easily-persuaded friends.

Stained Glass Windows.

Of more than passing interest to the public generally was a remark dropped by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, at the annual dinner of the Parlimentary Press Gallery. Making eloquent reference to the place made for themselves in Canadian history by the early French explorers, Mr. Lemieux intimated that, in the not far distant future, he might present to the House of Commons its first stained-glass windows. The subject of the decorative window, the speaker added, would be the landing on Gaspé peninsula of Jacques Cartier.

More Light in Home Bank Affairs.

For the first time in a generation, or longer, a prime minister of Canada has appeared before a Royal Commission of Inquiry. Right Hon. Mackenzie King, appearing last Friday before Mr. Justice McKeown, in connection with the Home Bank failure, repeated on oath the evidence he had previously presented to parliament regarding the "midnight deputation" of Home Bank directors to Ottawa, three days before the institution closed its doors, to secure, if possible, a substantial governmental deposit. Mr. King's presence in the witness box had one very significant result: It allowed him, on behalf of Right-Hon. W. S. Fielding, to contradict flatly a statement made in the Commons, recently, by Sir Henry Drayton, namely, that he (Sir Henry) had notified Mr. Fielding, on leaving office in 1921, of the grave condition of the Home Bank and, further, of the presence in his office of a "secret file" relating to that situation. Sir Henry's statement in the House (some weeks ago) as preliminary to an amplification of the same, a fortnight ago, before Justice McKeown and, at the latter time, it caused a sensation in Canada. Needless to say, the repudiation thereof by the veteran Minister of Finance (who is still not sufficiently recovered to be present at the inquiry to speak for himself has given a new turn to events and makes an even greater sensation than did the utterance of which it is the denial. The next move is Sir Henry's—or will the Commission undertake to secure at his residence on oath, a statement from Mr. Fielding.

And the feature of interest in connection with the inquiry was elucidation of the fact that, two or three days before the Home Bank closed its doors, Sir Thomas White, former minister of finance, received from the directors of that bank a cheque for $1,500, in payment of "professional services rendered."

ADDRESSED KIWANIAN ON TUXIS MOVEMENT

Kilborn Upton Tells Them About Boys' Work—Must Be Foursquare.

The Kingston Kiwanians "sat up and took notice" at their regular meeting in the Rotunda Hotel on Monday at noon when Kilborn Upton, Kingston member of the Ontario Boys' Parliament, addressed them coolly and confidently for twenty minutes on boys' work in general and the Tuxis movement in particular.

Kingston's junior member of the provincial legislature had a good command of himself and of the situation and no better tribute could be paid to his address than the fact that no fewer than eight of the members spoke to the vote of thanks.

The boys of to-day will be the men of tomorrow and on their education and training depends the future of the country. With similar words to these Kilborn Upton opened his remarks. He told what Canada is doing to produce better boys and many clubs for boys. But they have been lopsided. Some give attention to athletics only, some only to literary matters, some only to religious matters and a great many to purely social matters. Thus only one side of a boy's life is developed by his club. But the Tuxis Clubs give attention to all these phases, and no boy is considered graduated or finished until he is proficient in all. He must be "four-square."

He explained the significance of the name "Tuxis." The "T" stands for Christ with "U" and "I" on either side and only Christ between us. The "L" and the "S" stand for training and service.

The clubs are started anywhere feasible and run by the boss with an older group to keep an eye on things. They establish county councils, city councils and their own parliament at Toronto where they meet and deal with the problems confronting boys much as the senior bodies deal with the problems of the people. They are taught confidence and self-reliance and the most important things that go to making good citizens. At the last session the boys were fortunate enough to have Premier Ferguson, Hon. W. F. Nickle and Speaker Thompson assisting. Camps are established each summer where special training is given.

In Kingston there are several clubs and co-operation from the senior clubs would help them out. The Kiwanis Club in particular could do a lot.

Frank Anglin and T. A. Kidd moved the vote of thanks to the speaker and it was enthusiastically received. Hugh Nickle, Sir Archie Macdonell, Harry Whider, Elmer Davis, Murdock Johnston and others expressed appreciation. It was moved by Jack d'Esterre and seconded by Ken Crawford that Kilborn Upton be made an honorary member of the club during his term of office and the connecting link between the Kiwanis and the Tuxis boys. It was carried enthusiastically.

Kiwanian "Jim" Sowards was made chairman of a committee to look after the trip to Belleville on Thursday night, the first anniversary of that club. A large deputation will leave the Board of Trade rooms at five o'clock (Kingston time) and will let the countryside know they are passing through.

Sir Archibald Macdonell, invited the Kiwanians to the boxing competitions at the R.M.C. and was thanked for his thoughtfulness.

J. H. Sutherland, of the well-known shoe store, was the booster and there were four prizes. Jack d'Esterre, William Jackson and George Van Horne were the lucky Secures His B.A.

It is a pleasure with which we "take up our pen," says the Carleton Place Canadian, to congratulate Barnet Dulmage on his accession to the ranks of the B.A.'s of Queen's University, Kingston, just achieved.

Barnet is a native of Appleton, but lived so long in Carleton Place as to be known by nearly everybody, not dropped from local memory by residence for some years in Kingston, his mother settling there for his college course. Barnet is winging his way into the latitudes of the law, and of course will reach that lofty range.
