Eye Comfort and What It Means

It means the ability to do close work for reasonable lengths of time, and to see well in the distance without any undue strain on the eyes. Freedom from eye strain means freedom from headaches and many other ills that come as a result of it, so that eye comfort means more than freedom from pains in the eyes. If you need eye attention, my service awaits you.

JUBILEE ANNIVERSARY

Of the Bethel Congregational Church Was Celebrated on Sunday.

Sunday, May 18th was the jubilee anniversary of Bethel Congregational church, it being organized in 1874, and giving to the people a half century of continuous service. Rev. George A. MacKenzie, Stratford, a former pastor was the special preacher and gave two very helpful sermons to large congregations during the day.

At the morning service, Mr. MacKenzie took as his subject, "A Godly Post's Restraint of Life," taking his text from Psalm 131. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth." Mr. MacKenzie told of the safety of the godly who trust in the Lord. How He watcheth over their going out and their coming in. He commented on the service rendered by Bethel church in the past fifty years and urged those who served to-day to give of their best to God as did those who in earlier days carried on the work of the church. We need to-day more than ever a people that will stand out for God and who are not afraid to acknowledge Him in word and deed.

In the evening, Mr. MacKenzie took as his subject "A Touching Incident in the Life of our Lord." He based his message on Christ healing the man at the Pool of Bethesda, as recorded in the fifth chapter of St. John. "Christ asked this man" said the speaker, "Wilt thou be made whole, and he is asking us each day the same question. Christ is the only one that can make us whole. He makes a thorough job of it and there is no relapse. It is instantaneous, and we are able hereafter to walk in his ways. May we have that desire to be made whole, and hear the Saviour say, 'Behold, thou art made whole; sin no more.'"

Special music was rendered during the day in keeping with the anniversary. In the evening the choir rendered two anthems, "Worship the King" and "The Earth is the Lords." Dr. A. B. Haffner sang very feelingly "Beyond the Dawn." The male quartette composed of Dr. Haffner, F. A. Haffner, F. J. Wilson and William Thompson also rendered a beautiful selection.

In the evening the choir sang "Hark, Hark My Soul," and the male quartette gave two numbers. Dr. Haffner sang two solos "The Ninety and Nine," and "Lead Me All The Way."

The anniversary services will continue until Thursday night, with the supper and concert on Monday evening, and special addresses by Rev. George A. MacKenzie on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The Fun Shop MAXSON FULLAL JUDILL

Our Own LOST AND FOUND Department.

James Low—There is a poem written by a sailor about "Break, wild waves" or something like that. Do you know what I mean?

Dear Jim: The only poem we know was written not by a gob, but by a guy who had just paid his income tax. It breaks as follows:

"Break, oh, break, thou angry sea! From Alaska's shores to Siam; But however hard you break, Ah me! You won't be as broke as I am."

T. Sims—Can some one give me that selection containing: "When the sands of the desert grow cold."

Dear Brother Simms: Some Sheik has come across with this cold comfort for you:

When the sands of the desert grow cold, and when A sailor's always sober, I shall then have hopes of getting that ten You borrowed last October.

Sayings of Little Socrates. Papa never lies to mamma; he thinks he does.

The Eleventh Commandment. An aspiring young flapper wrote to a physician: "Doctor, will bobbing my hair make me stronger?" "Yes, miss," replied the doctor, "stronger with the boys if it's bobbed otherwise not."

—Roy A. Brenner.

Jingle-Jangles.

Any funny, nonsensical rhyme that will make Fun Shop readers laugh is a Jingle-Jangle. It must be in two lines. For example:

1 After winter comes the spring; Tonsils hurt like everything.

2 Cows have horns and sheep have wool; Dentists have a lot to pull.

You will undoubtedly contribute funnier Jingle-Jangles than these. Address them separately to Jingle-Jangle Department, The Fun Shop, 110 West 40th street, New York City.

The Value of a College Education.

A Harvard chap was on his way home to spend his vacation with his folks in the Middle West.

The oncoming train was but a hundred feet away!

What did the Harvard lad do? Did he clutch the child in his powerful arms and carry it to safety? No! He was from Harvard!

He tackled the train and threw it for a loss!

—Bernard Eisenstein.

Make It Snappy Barber: "How do you want your hair cut?" Customer: "In silence." —Ernest Bold.

Natural Symptoms. "Mother," said little Elsie, "I don't feel very well." "That's too bad, dear," said mother very sympathetically. "Where do you feel the worst?" "In school, mother." —Marion E. Judd.

Far be it from us to encourage elopements—but it is much better to run away with the "right one" than to walk away with the "wrong one."
