HE TOOK ADVANTAGE OF KINDNESS SHOWN

Sheriff Richardson, Ottawa, Explains Attempt Made by Prisoner to Escape.

Sheriff Richardson, who with Guard C. P. Dawson, of the Ottawa jail was in charge of Charles Geraci, who made his escape at the C.P.R. station but was recaptured, stated that the break for liberty made by the prisoner, followed on Geraci taking advantage of kindness shown him by Guard Dawson while the prisoner was getting off the train and en route to a waiting motor car which was to convey him to the penitentiary.

Sheriff Richardson stated that Guard Dawson had had the prisoner handcuffed all the journey until the train reached Kingston. Thinking that it would be more convenient and add to the prisoner's comfort while en route from the train to the penitentiary, Guard Dawson removed the handcuffs, shortly before the train stopped.

Charles Geraci was sentenced to serve two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Magistrate Joynt, on five charges of false pretences.

According to Sheriff Richardson, Geraci, an Italian by extraction, was a stolid and tranquil prisoner throughout the journey. Handcuffs were kept on his wrists during all train exchanges on the way from Ottawa to Kingston, Bedell and Tichborne, but as he was so quiet and the distance from the train to the waiting automobile so short, the handcuffs were left off his wrists at Kingston. The train from Tichborne to Kingston has only one coach. While Geraci was stepping off Turnkey Dawson had hold of his coat. No sooner had the Italian placed his feet on the ground than he gave a violent wrench, breaking his custodian's grip.

SAID ON THE SIDE

The Kingston Curling Club held a business meeting Monday night and it was almost cold enough to make ice for the followers of the roarin' game.

The month of May will be known as "the sob sister."

Baseball season opens in Kingston Wednesday evening. It is now in order for some person to offer a prize for the first home run.

Judging by the appearance of many of the lawns around the city, it looks as if some people will have to get busy with the mower.

But it does not seem just right to be looking after a furnace the same time as one is running the lawn mower. My, how the seasons have changed.

Some of the baseball scores in the big leagues read more like cricket tallies.

Get an early supper and hustle off to the ball game Wednesday evening.

Everybody should pull hard for the Kingston ball team in the Central Ontario league.

A good ball team is an asset to any town.

"What is home without a radio?" may be a future motto.

They say that radio keeps a man at home nights, but to enjoy the programme he must stay up late.

Radio not only pleases father but mother and the young people, too.

OBITUARY

Late Margaret Doran.
There passed away in Toronto on Monday Margaret McKee, wife of Daniel Doran and a daughter of the late Capt. William McKee, of this city. Two daughters, Mary and Hazel, are left to mourn her loss, besides her husband and two brothers, Andrew and Joseph, of Kingston. Andrew McKee left Monday night and will accompany the remains from Toronto.

St. Mary's Choir Club Social.
A very successful social event was held in the Y.I.C.B.A. hall on Monday evening by the Choir Club of St. Mary's cathedral. John Norris, the president, supervised the activities. Euchre, dancing and music were enjoyed. At the card tables the prize-winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. Arthur Fowler; consolation, Mrs. Johnston; gentlemen's first, Arthur Casterton; consolation, Charles O'Connor. Music was supplied by McGrath's orchestra.

To Practise in Morrisburg.
Dr. Charles A. Loudon, a Queen's graduate of 1923, who has spent the past year with Dr. Madill, the noted surgeon of Ogdensburg, N.Y., in the Hepburn hospital of that city, is visiting in Kingston at present. He has acquired a practice at Morrisburg, and will shortly begin work there.

Miss Lorraine Ahearn, Kingston.

Miss Kathleen Donoghue, Kingston.

Miss Monica Murray, Kingston.

Miss Ethel O'Hearn, South Lake.

Miss Evelyn Finn, Enterprise.

Miss Eleanor Mandeville, Wellington.

The graduating nurses were the guests Monday evening of the Nurses Alumnae of the Hotel Dieu at a very enjoyable dinner and dance in the Belmont dining hall. Forty-five nurses were present at the banquet.

Illness prevented the president, Mrs. Leo Cochrane, from taking part, and her place was taken by the vice-president, Miss McGarry, who made an excellent presiding speech. The address to the graduates was given by the vice-president and replies were made by Miss Finn, gold medalist, Miss O'Hearn and Miss Boyle.

After the banquet a very pleasant time was spent in dancing, music being supplied by Christmas' orchestra. The chaperones were Mrs. W. Elder and Mrs. H. Lawler.
