MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast. Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to its cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all hurts. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. Get it in the house today. $1.25 at your druggist's.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

Under the Circus Tent

The cover of the box flew shut and the rabbit was out of sight. Flip came to a sudden stop, so sudden that it almost threw Jack out of the little cart. Then a clown came running up and he told Jack to drive his dog back to the clown's dressing tent. And away went Jack and Flip.

The dog was unhitched from the cart and a clown told Jack that he was a great success as a clown. "How would you like to take part in the elephant act now?" he asked. "Oh, that would be fine," replied Jack. So he started taking the paint off his face. Several clowns helped him.

"What clothes will I wear in the elephant act?" Jack asked. And a clown brought him a white silk waist and some plush trousers, and a pair of black oxfords. "Put these things on," said the clown. Jack did, and he was all ready to take part in the elephant act that came next. (Continued.)

Question.
M.B., Must there be seven pairs of tiles in the Dead Wall throughout the game? For instance: If the two loose tiles are drawn by reason of two "Kongs" being declared, must an addition of two tiles be taken from the Live Wall and added to the Dead Wall so that seven pairs are always in the latter?
Answer.

The original Dead Wall is the first fourteen tiles to the right of the break in the wall. If no Kongs are declared in the course of the game, and the game is a draw—the Dead Wall will be just those fourteen tiles. But if Kongs are declared, and you wish to keep the Dead Wall separated from the live tiles throughout the game you must add one pair of tiles to the Dead Wall for each Kong as declared.

The Chinese arrive at exactly the same result but without bothering to add pairs of tiles for each Kong as declared. When the number of live tiles is getting low, they look around the table, and for each exposed Kong they add one pair of tiles. Note that an odd tile does not count in this arrangement. For instance: If three Kongs have been exposed, three loose tiles would have been drawn so the dead wall would start with an odd loose tile. In making off the dead wall, you would ignore that odd tile, and count seven pairs as the basic dead wall, and then add three pairs of tiles (one pair for each Kong)—making the dead wall in that particular hand 21 tiles (that is: 14 + 1—21).

Question.
If your hand is set to go "Mah Jongg"—except the necessary pair must you draw the required tile from the wall or can you "pung" a discarded tile to make the required pair?
Answer.

If your hand is complete all but one tile to make up your necessary pair you can claim any just discarded tile to go Mah Jongg. If you draw the tile from the wall it will count you extra bonus points, according to what the tile happens to be. (There is one limit hand, consisting of closed three-of-a-kind, or Kongs, which, to count as a limit-hand must be complete by drawing the necessary tile from the wall. This is one of the hands which hardly ever happens, so do not think too much about it!)

Question.
H.F.M., Will you kindly give a definition of the term Farn, in your Mah Jongg article, which I read with much interest?

Answer.

The word Farn is applied to any combination of tiles which doubles the value of the players' score. Example: Three Red Honors or 3 Green Honors you might say "Farn for Red Honors" or "One double for Red Honors"—the meaning would be exactly the same. (The proper pronunciation of the word is "fan" sounding the "a" very short as in the word "fat.")

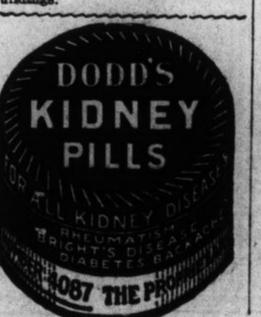

Question.
M. R., In breaking the wall, suppose East Wind gets 10. The South Wall then is to be broken. Now if South gets 9—this makes 19, so the 19th pair of tiles is the break. South Wall having only 17 pairs, should he continue counting on two pairs into the East Wall, or should he start over again on his own wall?
Answer.

In the example you submit, South would count to the end of his wall, and would then count on into East's Wall to reach the required number.

Question.
Certain Mah Jongg sets have dice on which the "4" is printed in red, and where the "one" usually is, there is just a blank. Is this just a fancy of the makers, or do these have special value?
Answer.

There is no special value in connection with these markings, you have the idea exactly in your own expression.—Just a fancy of the makers."
