MISSIONS DISCUSSED BY ONTARIO SYNOD

Appeal Made for Better Support of the General Mission Fund.

Missions, home and foreign, formed the main subject of discussion at the business session following the bishop's charge to the Ontario Synod on Tuesday afternoon.

It arose out of the Archdeacon Dobbs' report for 1923 of the general missions fund. This showed that while fifteen parishes exceeded their apportionment and thirteen fulfilled their obligations, eighteen gave three-quarters of what was asked and thirteen gave less than one-half. If an improvement could be made this year there would be a deficit of about $2,000. The banner placed in the diocese was won by St. Paul's Brockville, which gave $430.30 in excess of its apportionment. St. James', Kingston, was among those giving more than was asked. The total apportioned for this year is $19,320.

Archdeacon Dobbs made an earnest appeal for better support of this fund, especially by those in arrears. Canon Woodcock, Trinity church, Brockville, rose to speak strongly in the matter, moving that a visiting committee be appointed to investigate and overcome the shortages, if possible. Besides claiming that the laymen and not the clergy should be held responsible for this task of the parishes, he said that it was not fair that some parishes should have to make up for shortages of others, some of the wealthier parishes being among the latter. It was also unfair that the M.S.C.C. (Foreign Missions) cheque should be left to the last. I. J. Carson seconded Canon Woodcock's motion.

In the lengthy discussion which followed, some of the delegates argued that the M.S.C.C. should not be left to the tail end of the list, while other stressed the importance of home missions and the funds for widows, orphans and superannuated clergy, which also come out of the general missions fund.

How Brockville Did It.

On being asked how they did it, Judge Reynolds, of St. Paul's Brockville, gave the credit to Archdeacon Dobbs and to his present pastor, Rural Dean Davis, also to frequent missionary meetings when addresses were often given by missionaries. The church also had a special officer to look after this work. While complimenting St. Paul's, Canon Jones pointed out that it was a city church and was not selling milk or raising pigs to get the money. Rural delegates present spoke of the difficulty of getting missionary speakers and missionary material.

Dean Starr, Rev. T. W. Savary and Rev. A. L. McTear also urged the importance of missions.

The Bishop, speaking on the question hoped that if a committee were appointed it would see its way through. He said that most of the parishes which were short were not individual defaulters. He hoped also that the clergy would do their part as well as the laymen. He had often thought that the M.S.C.C. apportionment was so high that the diocese could never reach it, but he preferred to have it so and have the diocese do its best. He also stressed the importance of the widows' and Orphans' Fund and the clergy superannuation, neither of which could be neglected.

A revised motion, moved by Rev. C. E. Clarke (Belleville) and Rev. A. F. C. Whalley (Brockville), leaving the matter and the committee to the executive committee, was carried without opposition.

Certain missionary literature recommended by Archdeacon Dobbs and Rev. Mr. Savary, is to be printed for use in the Diocese. The report of the Special Committee investigating the expenses of the Synod office, presented by R. J. Carson and adopted, said the office was being so economically managed as advisable, recommended that assessments of the different parishes should be paid on or before December 31st and that the secretary's assistant's salary be increased.

The Divinity Students Fund report, presented by Canon FitzGerald, was adopted.

Regarding the A. F. M. it was reported that $753 had been collected and forwarded to the head office (May 8th to Nov. 7th, 1923) and $411.05 received from head office, this being added to the capital of the Synod fund.

A resolution regarding deceased members was introduced by Rev. A. O. Cooke. Several items in the executive committee's report were taken up. Regarding the memorial to the late Bishop Mills, Bishop Bidwell explained that a brass tablet is to be placed in the cathedral in that for the Right Rev. John Thomas Lewis, D.D., the first bishop of the diocese of Ontario.

Dean Starr presented the report of the committee appointed regarding the stipend of the chaplain of

A resolution of appreciation of the bishop's charge to synod, with the recommendation that it be published in the Journal, was carried. Dean Starr invited delegates to the annual Trinity luncheon, Wednesday noon in the Frontenac Club. Canon Jones informed the delegates that arrangements had been made enabling them to visit the new Masonic Hall here.

Synod Service.

The value of the life of holiness was stressed by the Rev. Montague Cyril Bikersteth, M.A. (Community of the Resurrection, England), in an eloquent address before a large audience at the Synod service in St. George's cathedral Tuesday evening. His text was from the last words of Christ found in Acts I, 8, "Ye shall receive power" and "Ye shall be witnesses."

The preacher said that never had the world longed so for the coming of the kingdom and for lasting peace. How was the kingdom to come? Not by waiting but by working with Him, not by genius and statecraft, but by the consecration of wills even unto death. The original Greek word for "witness" meant "martyrs."

He spoke strongly against an individualistic religion, dissociating oneself from the Church. If a religion were to have any effect on other people it must be of the social type. The advantage of the synod lay in reminding the delegates that they were members of a great triumphant host. By baptism they were members of one holy, Catholic, apostolic church. All Christian folk should pray for unity, which talked of to-day, but which is not coming to-day or to-morrow. Unity and holiness were inseparable. Meanwhile let each do his part, let each return home determined to offer a more faithful and consistent witness to the faith as a whole, which was more important than witness to an orthodox creed.

The lessons were read by Canon Woodcock, of Trinity Church, Brockville, and Rev. C. E. Clarke, of Christ Church, Belleville. During the offertory the choir rendered an anthem in which the solo was taken in excellent voice by Arnold Fair.

At Watertown, N.Y., on April 17th, the death took place of Jennie Gardner, wife of D. J. Austin, after a long illness. She was born in the township of Front of Yonge and was a member of the Lya church where she sang in the choir. Saturday evening Clifford Place, young son of Manford Place, Brockville, was run over by a Chevrolet car, driven by M. M. Whitmore, Athens.

"Number—Number?"
"Hello Central, give me Circle Sixty-Seven."
"Number?—Number?"
"Say, by Thunder, I said Circle Sixty-Seven!"
"Line is busy—out of order. Were you calling Sixty-Seven, Or did you say Four-Eleven?"
"I said—"
"Wait a minute."
And again I must begin it.
"Give me Circle Sixty-Seven! Do it quickly or, by Heaven—!"
"Number?—Number? Were you calling?"
"Oh confound it! she is stalling; This is most exasperating! One full hour I've been waiting. Here's your number Sixty-Seven."
But she gave me Four-Eleven!

Eyes Right!

A small boy observed to his mother that "there are just as many in our family with brown eyes, as there are with blue eyes."
"How do you make that out?" inquired mother.
"Well, you and I have blue eyes," replied the lad, "and papa and the dog have brown eyes."
