JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

Under the Circus Tent

Suddenly Jack heard a horn blare forth. And immediately the parade of elephants started. Boscoe led the way, swinging his great ears back and forth and wobbling his trunk up and down. Jack had to hang on to the side of the seat he was in, as Boscoe's back wiggled queerly as he walked.

Into the great main tent the parade went. As soon as Jack and Flip and Boscoe appeared a great cheering went up. All youngsters like elephants and a treat was in store for them. Boscoe went to the main ring of the tent. Then Jack was helped down and the seat was taken from Boscoe's back.

By this time, Jack noticed that Flip was missing. He started looking around for his dog when he saw a clown running as fast as he could. And, hanging on to the tail of the clown's coat was Flip. Everybody was laughing and Jack joined in. Flip was getting to be a real circus dog. (Continued.)

sentiment from the Harding-Hughes proposals sent to the Senate February 24th, 1923. The Lodge plan is both impudent and bogus. It impudently asks that America go before the sixty-two nations now members of a functioning court and demand they destroy it and erect a new tribunal according to Bitter-Ende-blue-prints and specification. It is bogus, in that it is merely another red herring drawn across the trail to confuse World Court opinion and rouse the rancors and hatreds of five years ago. Delay and confusion are its purposes. It means a fight that may spread into the campaign, forcing upon the voters an issue of foreign policy that is and of right ought to be a nonpartisan question.—Philadelphia Ledger.

AT SINGING TIME.

I have a little daughter,
Who's scarcely half past three,
And in the twilight hour
She climbs upon my knee;
And snuggles down within my arm,
With: "Mother, sing to me."

I sing about the squirrels
That frolic in the wood,
About two furry kittens,
One naughty and one good,
And then some tender lullabies—
Just as a mother should.

The light grows faint, and fainter:
The sandman guards the door;
My baby's head drifts slowly
Upon the slumber shawl;
But if the singing stops she cries:
—"O, Mother, sing some more!"

I'm sure no prima-donna,
Adored from East to West,
Feels half the satisfaction,
Or is so truly blest
As I, when singing to my child,
Held closely to my breast.

Not all the fame and glory
Of divas can compare
With that deep thrill of pleasure
While is my humble share,
For precious are the laurel-wreaths
That singing mothers wear!
—Anne B. L. Field.

BE A GOOD LISTENER

The sympathetic listener is the delight of delights. The person who looks glad to see you, who is seemingly eager for your news, or enthralled with your conversation, is the one to whom the palm for the art of conversation would undoubtedly be awarded.

The orange originally was a pear-shaped fruit about the size of a cherry. Its evolution is due to 1,300 years of cultivation. The savings from a railway amalgamation in Great Britain have been put at $125,000,000 a year. Scarlet snow, due to the presence of small and very thin worms, has fallen at Halmstad, Sweden.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS

earn more than they cost

MONEY used for Concrete Highways is not spent—it is invested. Invested in an enterprise that pays handsome returns.

The big dividends a Community receives from its Concrete Roads, are made possible by Concrete's remarkable quality of permanence.

With Concrete as the road material, a highway does not have to be paid for over and over again in maintenance—its first cost is practically its final cost—and thus it has a chance to pay its builders clear profits in reduced haulage costs, increased tourist trade, and the better transportation facilities that go so far toward making life comfortable for both city folks and rural communities.

A Concrete Road, because of its economy, safety and convenience—because it saves time, saves fuel, and saves the wear and tear of vehicles—earns more than it costs. It pays for itself within a short time of its completion. It is truly an investment.

Better than ever

DOMINION ROYAL CORD TIRES
—for years the standard of tire durability, mileage and tire values in Canada—the standard by which all tires are measured,

—now better than ever because of the two greatest features discovered in tire building since the cord tire itself was developed—the Web Cord process and Sprayed Rubber.

These features are exclusive in Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires in Canada.

Dominion Royal Cord Tires, because of these new processes, now have greater uniformity of wear—more resiliency—more mileage—greater value than ever.

Dominion Cord Tires made by the Web Cord process are as much better than cord tires made by the old method, as cord tires are better than fabric tires.

These great advantages come to you without increase in the price—they are extra value—more mileage—which do not add a cent to your cost of Dominion Cord Tires.
