City Council ON UTILITIES

Discussion Arose Over Debentures For Gas Extensions. WHERE IS SURPLUS? Commission's Request Granted But the Aldermen Rapped Queen Street Body.

"That the application of the Public Utilities Commission to have the city council apply to the Railway and Municipal Board for permission to issue debentures for the sum of $20,000 required for gas extensions and alterations made during the last five years be granted."

City Council cleaned off all the business on the slate at its meeting on Monday night and adjourned for the summer vacation.

Ald. Laturney Objects.

Ald. Laturney raised very strong objections to the issuing of the debentures for $20,000 for the utilities commission as soon as the report of the finance committee was read. He wanted to know what the commission was doing with the surplus they had on hand and could not understand why the commission would make such a request with a surplus on hand.

Mayor Angrove pointed out that the building erected by the commission would be self-sustaining.

But I want to tell you that the people all over the city are objecting to it," added Ald. Laturney.

Mayor Angrove stated that the members of the commission had considered the matter and had come to the conclusion that posterity should pay for the outlay in gas mains and explained that with the spreading out of the debt for thirty years it would allow for a reduction in the price of gas.

Ald. Nash Speaks.

Ald. Nash said that he agreed with a great deal that had been said by Ald. Laturney. He understood that the mayor had promised to present to the council a report on the work of the utilities commission, but it had not been forthcoming. He had endeavored to find out how the business of the commission stood, but he had been unable to do so. He had been of the opinion that the council should not pass the clause in the report of the finance committee until the council had a report dealing with the three different branches of the utilities, gas, water and electricity. The mayor was the council's representative.
