A PUZZLE

Here are nine squares, each containing a fraction. There are eight rows of three squares: three across. three up and down, and two diagnal. Rearrange the squares so that when the three squares of each row are added together, each of eight rows will make the same total. Example: the top row, 1-2, 1-3, and 1-4 is 6-12, 4-12, and 3-12, making a total of 13-12, or 26-24. The bottom row, however, is only 23-24; and the other rows produce various totals. The squares must be changed so each row produces the same number of twenty-fourths.
