ENDEAVORING TO MAKE A WORLD BEAUTIFUL

Jack W. McCallum Addresses Rotary Club on "Sculpture; Ancient And Modern."

That sculpture and architecture came next to the Christian religion in helping to transform the savage into a gentleman, was the summing up of a splendid address given by Kwanian Jack W. McCallum, to the members of the Kingston Rotary Club, at their noon-day luncheon in the British-American hotel on Friday. Mr. McCallum took as the subject of his address, "Sculpture; Ancient and Modern," and in the short space of twenty minutes allotted to him, he delivered an address that was brimful of valuable information and of a very interesting nature. President A. N. Lyster was in the chair and there was a good turnout of the members.

The speaker dealt with sculpture and architecture, tracing it from Egypt, Greece, through the middle ages and also into modern times, giving the names of a great many of the distinguished sculptors, telling of their wonderful work and at the same time giving interesting stories about them. The address was one of the most entertaining the members of the club have had the pleasure of listening to in many a day and was all the more interesting due to the fact that the address had to do with a subject that is not very often referred to in public addresses.

"And after all what is this all for?" asked the speaker. "Sculpture and architecture is something that comes next to the Christian religion in transforming the savage into a gentleman. It is an endeavor to make the outside world as lovely as we have our own homes, just as we try to have beautiful lawns and beautiful pictures. And it is hoped that some day the sun will rise on a world that is beautiful with a happy and contented people."

Prof. Vattier and Fred Taylor paid tribute to the speaker and voiced the appreciation of the members of the club in moving a vote of thanks to Mr. McCallum.

The usual "sing-song" during the luncheon went over with all kinds of "pep." Harold Singleton was at the piano and he had everybody using the song sheets. "Jack" Elder, Kingston's Harry Lauder, was called on for his ever popular selection "It's a Fine Thing to Sing" and was warmly applauded. Harold Singleton also favored with a fine selection and was given a great hand.

The guests of the day included Rotarians E. C. Blairdell, of Portsmouth, New Haven, and Andrew Sawyer, of Manchester, New Haven, who are on their way to Toronto, by motor, to attend the International Rotary convention. They were extended a royal welcome by President Lyster and the members of the club and the members sang "The Star Spangled Banner" in their honor. Other guests welcomed were J. M. Elliott, H. A. Miller, of Ottawa, a former member of the Kingston Rotary Club and also one of the first directors of the local club; M. W. Harlow, the newly-appointed secretary of the Kingston Y.M.C.A.; J. W. Pearson, Toronto; J. T. McCully, of the Lions Club, Hamilton; Mr. Wightman, secretary "Dunc" Wightman's "daddy."

The club received word that Rex Snelgrove was still keeping up his attendance. He is now in Wisconsin.

Most enthusiastic reports were received about the International Rotary convention which opens in Toronto on Monday. All roads will lead to Toronto for the next few days. Rotarians will be hitting the trail for the Queen City via railway, motor car, boat and some of the Rotarians will walk there if they run out of funds, so eager are they to get to the "big doings."

It will be a wonderful gathering. In connection with the convention it was announced that the Imperial Oil company had secured one of the buildings at the exhibition park, where the convention will be held and that this would be given over to the use of the visitors. This company has several representatives in Rotary. "Mac" Thomas is the Kingston representative of the company in Rotary.

Harry Breathwaite spoke to the club about the home to be opened at Bowmanville for underprivileged boys and asked for the support of the members.

FREEDOM IN MARRIAGE.

Laura Wooley Lord Scales in the July Yale Review.

Marriage may be a liberator—pretty much on a par with standing pressure from public opinion, for against the baffling force of public opinion two united are as a whole battery of artillery. For opening up aim and purpose in life along one straight path, there are few more active workmen than the three whom marriage sets to work—ambition, hope, and love, and these, it is found, do especially well when a little child leads them. This is not merely psychological or parabolic talk. The simplifying of desire that comes with marriage brings relief; working, not single-handed, but supported by an ally, brings a sense of power; and so freedom comes.

MANUAL TRAINING EXHIBITION GIVEN

By the Public School Pupils in Macdonald School on Friday Afternoon.

The annual exhibition of manual training of the Kingston public schools attracted busy crowds of young people and grown-ups to the assembly room of Macdonald school on Friday afternoon and evening.

The display of boys work was laid out on tables while the paper articles done by the junior grades was attractively arranged on the walls. The boys' products included everything from fish line winders to elaborate electric lamps, many of which were in actual operation. There were flower and fern stands, tea trays, book and letter racks, tables, cupboards, umbrella stands, picture frames, bird houses, toys, and many other pieces of woodwork that would be both useful and attractive in any home. The paper work, which is carried out in the different schools by the teachers under Mr. Parkhouse's supervision, included artistic designs in harmonious shades, baskets, boxes, toys, trays, and so on.

The work won the admiration of all and for those who saw it for the first time many of the products were not far from astonishing. E. E. Parkhouse, the teacher of manual training, has not only developed to a remarkable extent the ability of boys with a natural bent for such handicraft but has raised the average boy's skill with tools to a creditable level. The articles showed that the young people had a very considerable knowledge of tools, woods, mechanical drafting, woodwork and screws. Mr. Parkhouse was warmly congratulated by the visitors who inspected the display.

All the senior work is done in Macdonald school. 360 boys receiving from an hour to an hour and a half each week in this sort of training. Each day four divisions of boys go to this school for this purpose, excepting Friday, when three divisions attend.

The report for 1923 of Dr. Alfred E. Lavell, secretary and chief officer of the Ontario Board of Parole, gives the following statistics: Cases interviewed and investigated.—men, 823; women, 164; persons paroled—men 215, women 55; disappeared—men 20, women 13; recommended for ticket-of-leave or extra-mural permit—men 86; women 18. The report concludes: "Every year our parole system saves the province directly tens of thousands of dollars net. Many more are added by wages to the economic assets of the province.
