SOME DELICIOUS POTATO PANCAKES.

Reader Friends have kindly sent in the following recipes in response to another reader's request for a rule for Potato Pancakes: "Constant Reader: Potato Pancakes: Pare and grate six large raw potatoes, not draining after you grate them. Add four eggs, one teaspoon of salt, one large onion grated, and two table-spoons of flour (or enough to hold the mixture together in frying). Beat well and fry in a hot, greased pan, browning on both sides. This recipe may be changed so that only two eggs are used instead of four; but if this change is made, one level teaspoon of baking powder should be mixed with the flour." "Mrs. C. L.: Potato Pancakes: Wash four potatoes, pare and grate them, adding one tablespoon of salt, one peeled and grated onion, a dash of pepper and one well-beaten egg. Drop this mixture by tablespoonfuls into hot fat and fry brown on both sides. Serve with maple syrup, or with a dish of apple sauce." "Mrs. A. C.: Russian Potato Pancakes: Grate six large pared potatoes very fine. Mix with two eggs, six table-spoons of flour, one teaspoon of salt and a pinch of pepper, stirring until a smooth dough is formed. Drop by good-sized tablespoonfuls in hot fat or butter, and fry till golden brown. Serve plain or with preserves. This recipe is enough for six persons." "F. S. W.: Quick Potato Pancakes: Do not make these till ready to serve them, as grate one onion and eight pared, medium-sized raw potatoes into a bowl and add five eggs which have been whipped to a thick yellow foam. Season with a little salt and add enough flour to make a pancake batter (not too thick). Fry at once in hot fat till a rich brown color. (Never add milk to this recipe, as that makes them soggy)." "Mrs. C. M.: Potato Pancakes: Pare and grate six large raw potatoes; add two eggs, one pint of sweet milk, a little salt, one tablespoon of sugar, and one pint of flour sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder. Mix well before dropping by spoonfuls onto a hot, greased griddle as for any pancakes. Serve hot with butter and salt, or with stewed fruit."

"Mrs. F. K.: Potato Pancakes: Mix together six large, raw, grated potatoes (pour off water after grating), two beaten eggs, one tablespoon of flour, one small onion cut fine, a pinch of salt and milk to moisten. Fry in plenty of fat."

PINK CREPE FROCK

An effective way to use the popular maribou banding is shown on this straightline frock of petal pink crepe. It edges the side panels that are fitted so smoothly about the waist. The use of long tight sleeves on dinner and evening frocks is increasing and the absence of elaborate trimming is noticeable.
