What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

GREAT TALE OF SEA AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE.

Few of us there are who fail to respond to a tale of the sea. There is a certain fascination about stories of men that go down to the sea in ships that is bound to get under the skin and hold the interest. This is especially true of modern pictures of this type and in the cast of "Women Who Give," the new Metro picture at the Capitol Theatre today and Tuesday, it is forcibly brought out.

Here is a film play that is literally packed, full of drama, thrills and heart appeal, exceedingly well acted, capably produced, with the famous characters of a well-known novel brought to life on the silver sheet. It is an adaptation of Sarah P. McLean Greene's classic of the men who go down to the sea in ships, "Cape Cod Folks," and boasts a truly all-star cast including Barbara Bedford, Robert Frazer, Renee Adoree, Frank Keenan and Joseph Downing. It is a Reginald Barker production. The story is tensely dramatic, so much so that a bit of comedy relief has been injected into the plot by means of roles played by Joan Standing and Victor Potel. There simply had to be a slight let down in some of the more thrilling episodes.

SPORT

PETES IN TROUBLE?

Amateur Association of Their Home Town After Scalps.
A despatch from Peterboro to the Toronto Sunday World states that Secretary Charles Curtin of the Peterboro A.A.A. has filed an official report with the Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of C. in which allegations are made regarding irregularities in Jake Solomon's baseball club. It is claimed that these are detrimental to amateur sport in Peterboro, and a demand is made to have the team suspended until the innocence of the Petes is proven. Other proceedings are understood to be pending.

JUNIOR EXHIBITION.

Spoiled by Rain in the Fourth Innings Saturday.
Circle-Six had a piece of hard luck on Saturday evening when their exhibition game with the Napanee juniors was spoiled by rain in the fourth innings. There was hardly any attendance at the match, the crowd being frightened off by the rain. The locals were leading 4-2 when the game broke up.

Blouse Brevities.

By ELEANOR GUNN

The sleeveless blouse and the one which is all but sleeveless is beginning to be important again, not only for sportswear, but for dress, or perhaps one might better put it the other way round. After all, going about sans sleeves by day is comparatively an innovation, which, by the way, those who make their own dresses, loudly approve.

The shops show sleeveless blouses which are pleated to the neckline and to a hipband with a bit of embroidery on these bands or a colored binding, and find ready sale to top a separate skirt. This may be a wrap-around, some other type or pleated, which carries out the ensemble.

White blouses have the call at the moment, and it has come to be regarded as chic to introduce a black touch, either a monogram or a binding. In one instance, a white crepe blouse with a black edge about half an inch in width around collar, cuffs and on the jabot. Jabots occur at the side rather than the front of some of the models, but only, of course, on such blouses as are not expected to be worn with a coat. The blouse which is a com-

Major D. J. Burke, M.A., of Dublin, is visiting this continent to prepare for the famous Tailteann games, which will be staged in Dublin next August. He has already arranged for the attendance of Canadian Irish members of the Olympic team and for the University of Toronto rowing eight to participate.

Major Burke states that Ireland is going to adopt the same spirit in the Olympic games, which for the first time that country enters as a separate nation.

White flannel suits being of great importance just now, it is pertinent to note that some ultra smart shops sport a black waistcoat with these suits, certainly a striking effect. The scheme may be further carried out by black gloves and shoes. The introduction of jet buttons on white satin vestees and blouses is another fad, as is the use of black silk braid of various widths on white.

Most of the godets and vestees shown are quite capable of misleading one to the belief that they are a complete waist instead of merely putting on a good front. Tiny buttons, the type one used to have on gloves, as well as still smaller ones of steel, play an impressive roll on these tailored fronts, for nine out of ten women want something plain just now, when they choose their neckwear or blouses.

Louise School Closing.
Louise school closed for the summer vacation on Friday, June 27th. After the teachers had announced the promotions in the different classes, the children were treated to cream, cake and lollipops, donated by the Home and School Club. Major McManus also kindly sent a generous supply of ice-cream for the cadets of the school. A liberal donation was received from the retiring president towards the piano fund.

Don't forget St. George's Mission Lawn Social, Wednesday, 7.30 p.m. Postmaster James Stewart received a telegram from the deputy postmaster-general on Monday morning that postal conditions at Toronto and Windsor were now normal. Mr. Stewart wired to ask as to conditions at Montreal.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Campbell was held at Barrfield on Saturday afternoon in charge of the James Reid firm. The services at the home and Catarqui cemetery were conducted by Rev. Mr. Archibald. The pall-bearers were the sons and nephews of the deceased.

A MEMORIAL SERVICE.

For Late Canon Forneri Held in St. Luke's Church.
There was a large congregation present at the memorial service in St. Luke's church, yesterday morning, which was conducted by Rev. J. dePencier Wright, rector, in memory of the late rector, Rev. Canon R. S. Forneri, who died in Peterboro last week. The altar was decorated with white carnations. The hymns were in keeping with the occasion. They were: "On the Resurrection Morning," "Peace, Perfect Peace," "How Sweet the Hour of Closing Day," and "For All the Saints."

The Rev. J. dePencier Wright preached, taking as his text "He is a Chosen Vessel," Acts IX-15. Speaking of Canon Forneri, he said: "He tried to walk worthy of the profession to which he had been called by his ripe scholarship, deep piety and strict attention to his pastoral duties. Before he preached, he practised. He went at the outset of his career to the scattered missionary districts to show he could make the sacrifice in the firing line. Certainly a pastor of such calibre to grace the sanctuary was a great asset to St. Luke's church."

"He being dead yet speaketh! By his holy life, by his many sacrifices, by his spirit of resignation under calamities he bids you go forth and prove to the world you are trying to carry out the lessons he strove to inculcate and striving to be a true servant of Jesus Christ."

During the offertory Mr. D. Couper sang "A Few More Years Shall Roll."

Passed Away at the Age of Eighty-Six Years.
Stella, June 28.—The death took place at Conway, at the home of her son-in-law, F. P. Instant, on June 21st, of an old and much respected resident of Amherst Island, in the person of Mrs. J. Marshall, at the age of eighty-six years and six months. The late Mrs. Marshall's husband predeceased her fifteen years ago. For the last three years she made her home with her daughter and family at Conway, where she was cared for by her only daughter and her granddaughters. All that loving care and attention could be given Mrs. Marshall was cheerfully given by all this family. She leaves to mourn the loss of a loving mother, one daughter, Mrs. F. P. Instant, and four sons, David, of the American Navy; Robert, of Amherst Island; Hugh, of Fort Pitt, Sask., and John, of Ottawa. The funeral was held from her daughter's home at Amherst Island by motor where it was met by a large number of friends and neighbors of deceased, those to St. Paul's Presbyterian church where her funeral service was held by Rev. W. McCree, who in a few appropriate remarks expressed the feeling and sentiment of the many who had gathered to pay their last tribute of love. Afterwards the remains were placed beside those of her husband, and oldest son, William, who died the same years as his father.

A Delightful New England Colonial Home.

For those who like the New England Colonial type—and this type is rich in possibilities for refined houses along simple lines—the house shown herewith will at once offer a strong appeal.

The broad straight front, unbroken roof, delicate entrance porch with benches and lattice, large windows all reflect the old Colonial spirit.

The walls are heavy shingles laid wide exposure and finished in the old "whitewash" effect, while the Colonial blue, the chimney painted white with a black cap.

The interiors carry out the simple refined treatment suggested by the exterior; the house is Colonial throughout. The ceilings are low, giving a cozy and homey atmosphere to the rooms.

A centre hall with a large living-room on one side and the dining-room, kitchen and pantry on the opposite side, comprise the first floor.

The second floor shows a convenient arrangement with three good bedrooms, a bath and abundant closets. An alcove room is also provided which connects with the hall and one of the bedrooms. This little room can be used for a variety of purposes; a sewing-room, a child's room, a writing-room, or it could be used in conjunction with the hall as a retiring-room or lounge, and fitted up very attractively with soft chairs and the like.

A cellar is provided under the entire house; here is the laundry, heater, coal storage and such.

The house is designed to set close to the ground, the first floor being but two steps above grade. This adds greatly to the charm of the house.

Cost about $8,100.

Complete working plans and specifications of this house may be obtained for a nominal sum from the Building Editor. Refer to House A-42.
