

THE BRITISH WHIG 91ST YEAR.

Published Daily and Semi-Weekly by THE BRITISH WHIG PUBLISHING CO. LIMITED, KINGSTON, ONT.

J. M. Campbell, President; Lenora A. Guild, Editor and Managing-Director

TELEPHONE: Business Office 243; Editorial Rooms 2412; Social 2413; Job Department 2414

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: (Daily Edition) One year, in city $7.50; One year, by mail to rural offices, $2.50; One year, to United States, $3.00; Semi-Weekly Edition: One year, by mail, cash $1.50; One year, to United States $2.00

OUT-OF-TOWN REPRESENTATIVES: F. Calder, 22 St. John St., Montreal; F. W. Thompson, 100 King St. W., Toronto

Letters to the Editor are published only over the actual name of the writer.

Attached is one of the best job printing offices in Canada.

The circulation of THE BRITISH WHIG is authenticated by the A B C Audit Bureau of Circulations

A native-born Canadian doesn't stand in awe of anybody except a head waiter.

Some people are so witless they will accept anybody's judgment except an umpire's.

An orthodox town is a place where everybody thinks the pitching staff too weak.

Another easy way to learn 'good manners' is to have a daughter about eighteen years old.

The unpopular man has one advantage. Nobody gives him free advice when he is sick.

Well, then, let's call things of that kind "Ritzie." The word "refined" is badly frayed, anyway.

Despite a tendency to become more feminine, men persist in getting their bathing suits wet.

Still, hopped hair is much more fair to the suitor. He knows that all of it is fastened at one end.

Pull may help you at the office, but it isn't worth much when you attack the lagn at home.

Here is suggestiveness. At a certain sharp curve there is a sign: "Call 486J for an ambulance."

The world gets better. Now it smokes at the table after meals, where formerly it used toothpicks.

Still, in the age of Pericles, Greece was no more universally respected than cylinder oil in the age of Ford.

It isn't so difficult to get your name in the city papers if you can jump seven feet high in tennis togs.

Correct this story: "I've been in the bootleg business a year," he whined, "and I haven't cleared a thousand dollars yet."

Even after ten years of matrimony and neglect, it is all right to take friend wife a box of flowers unless she has a weak heart.

"Indigestion often affects the heart," a doctor writes. Right! The bride's bad cooking has knocked many a love affair off.

A noiseless typewriter, as one of our friends says he understands it, is one who has learned to chew her gum with the muffler on.

An old-timer is one who can remember when he had to wait for a new pair of pants until Dad wore them thin enough to cut down.

The old-fashioned fairy story began with "Once upon a time." The modern fairy tale starts with "The last time I played this hole I took a masha."

Correct this sentence: "Don't leave us so soon," he said, when his wife's mother was about to end her visit. "You've only been here three short months—and it didn't seem more than a week."

BIBLE THOUGHT: ROAD TO TRUE RICHES:—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew 6:33.

PRAYER:—O God, our God, Thy way is perfect, and when we walk therein, we have all and lack nothing.

"THE MAN WE WANT."

Advertisements which include these words are appearing frequently in the papers. They are wisely distributed, throwing open the avenues of opportunity to the "right man" wherever he may be. Usually they are addressed to young men, but as ability is sought it is reasonable to conclude that fellows turned fifty, who have not lost ambition and possess brains, energy, enthusiasm, ideas and adaptability, would not be barred from consideration on account of age.

The significance of these quests for high class men by large business organizations goes far beyond their affirming the truth that there "always is room at the top." Not only is there room, but there does not appear to be anyone capable of filling the vacancies and getting the big money. Not only are there highly desirable places "going begging" in this time of general business depression, but the managers of big business envisage the approach of better times and are making preparations to meet increased demands, enlarge their sales and improve their service.

Verily, these are golden days for the courageous youth of Canada who have also the ability of which business is so much in want. Golden days, notwithstanding the dark background which has so many scared into inactivity. "The man we want" exists, of course. But it is for him to reveal himself and go after the big job that beckons. It is for the men who know themselves, have confidence in themselves, possess the courage to attempt new things, to come forth and pick up jobs worth while.

A BOOK WORTH WHILE. Society is undergoing a radical change. With the increase of education we have an added sense of individual responsibility for the progress of the world. It is this spirit in the modern industrial world which, held down by old systems, is giving rise to the numerous strikes and disorders which continually interrupt the world's productivity. Those who now enjoy the topmost places in the business world are slowly coming to realize this fact—that the worker demands more from his work than can be obtained from mechanical routine.

In the great company of William Filene & Sons this problem has been faced with courage, foresight and practical intelligence. The workers are now placed in such a position that they add their brains to the business acumen of the firm, and have the power to legislate in the firm management. Mr. A. Lincoln Filene, in "A Merchant Horizon," points out the practical success of this experiment, how it was reached, and gives examples of certain other companies who have taken the same steps toward suffrage in the business affairs of their employees. This is a wise and important book which recommends itself to the business man by its practical philosophy. Mr. Filene states that co-operation pays and only in that justifies itself. Before we get true ideals they must be made practical, or else they have no place in this world.

In "A Merchant Horizon," points out the practical success of this experiment, how it was reached, and gives examples of certain other companies who have taken the same steps toward suffrage in the business affairs of their employees. This is a wise and important book which recommends itself to the business man by its practical philosophy. Mr. Filene states that co-operation pays and only in that justifies itself. Before we get true ideals they must be made practical, or else they have no place in this world. In "A Merchant Horizon" the Filene Co-operative Association is fully described, and some striking results of the work of its unique arbitration board are recorded. Evidence is given of the success of profit sharing, and there is much about methods of promoting physical and social welfare.

IDEAS OF A GOOD TIME. "It takes all kinds of people to make the world," so perhaps we would do well to cease being peeved because a very small fraction of the population wants to regulate the conduct of the whole people. The "blue" ones no doubt are necessary to the complete enjoyment of those who are some other color or a combination of all the colors. At any rate, the world would be a trifle off "true" if they did not exist. In order that there be the greatest amount of satisfaction for the greatest number of human beings all must reasonably respect the predilections of their fellows, however opposed they are to one's own preferences, so long as indulgence does not interfere with the equal rights of others to enjoy what they choose in their own way.

Judging from the conspicuous manifestations of popular choice in amusements or recreations, it appears that the people run much to fads. When dancing has the call everybody dances, or seems to.

another time one might be excused for concluding that cards claimed the time of all people in their moments of leisure. Again the fad is for something else. Actually, though, there is a great diversity of preference in the matter of having a "good time." That is what saves the world from being unbearably dull. If you don't believe there are as many fads as there are kinds of people, look around you and inquire. A reporter did this the other day. He asked five different persons he met in the street "what is your idea of a good time?" He got five different answers. A "home girl" doted on camping; a student longed for mental treats, especially grand opera; a railroad switchman wanted nothing so much as to go into the country in an auto with a pretty girl and fish and loaf; another student would like to have a congenial job and also leisure for healthful outdoor sports, while a salesman declared his idea of a good time was to sit down and drink half a dozen steins of good beer.

Further information is lacking. It is pretty safe to conclude, though, that the desires of these people were centered on things they are least able to have. It is a way with people. Except for the last of them, all can eventually realize their dreams if they work for them and the last need not be disappointed if he manages to journey far enough. There is one moral. Another is that human desires are as a rule not so reprehensible that it is worth while bothering about restrictions, since nature takes care to supply them more than abundantly.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth. In fact the ability to "spit through your teeth" as did one of Mark Twain's heroes, was because you were lucky enough to have one missing at the front, instead of at the side.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

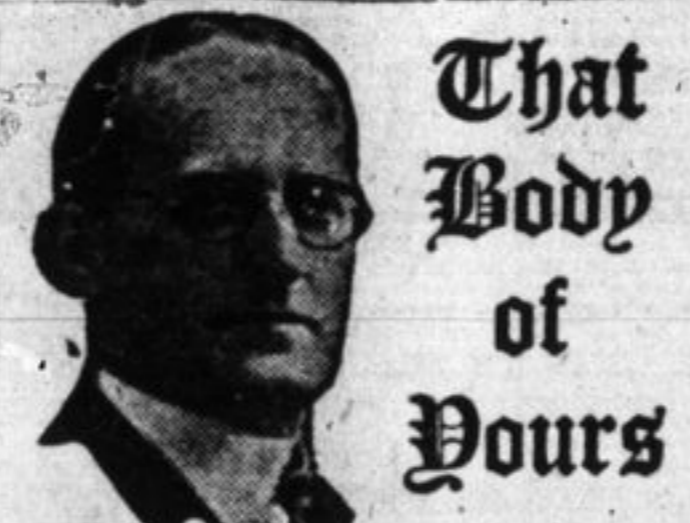

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

By James W. Barton, M.D., the loss of chewing power, and also the possibility of the permanent set coming in an irregular or crooked fashion.

Likewise a tooth that is loose or aching means that the youngster will not do any chewing on that side, and perhaps very little on the other. This means that he will let the food get into the stomach with very little chewing, or that he will eat nothing but soft mushy foods. The best developer of good teeth and healthy gums is just the simple habit of chewing.

The unfortunate thing about it also is that youngsters will lose a number of teeth before they ever go to school.

Now it is generally agreed that up to the age of eight or nine, your first or milk set are just like so many moulds, keeping a place big enough for the permanent set when they arrive.

If then thirty-two permanent teeth are to take the places occupied by twenty first or milk teeth, and a number of these first teeth decay or are lost too early, there will not be the regularly shaped and full sized mould ready for the permanent teeth. They will be crowded, perhaps crooked, with less chewing surface, and the appearance of the child, your child may be changed.

So look after the first set the same as you do the permanent set. Let your dentist clean, fill, and remove decay.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

Children's Teeth. When you were a youngster just starting to school for the first time, you may remember that your school-mates did not always have full sets of teeth.

BIBBY'S SALE OF MEN'S SUITS $14.75 $29.50 $18.50 $33.50 $22.50 $35.00 $27.50 Sale of Shirts TOOKE SHIRTS Regular $2.00 and $2.50 values for $1.35 each MEN'S FINE SHIRTS Tooke, Arrow and Lang—regular $2.50 and $3.00 values for $1.95 Athletic Underwear, $1.25 See Our SPECIAL CLUB BAG At $13.90 Genuine Leather—Black or Tan—made with Strap. See Our Potter's English Shirts at $2.50

MAKE YOUR WORK EASY Have the Hotpoint Electric Goods in your home. We have everything you may need to bring comfort— Irons, Toasters, Heaters, etc., Halliday Electric Co. PHONE 94. CORNER KING AND PRINCESS STS.

Farms For Sale 50 ACRES, close to thriving village with High School; good buildings; 40 acres tillable, some excellent garden land; well watered and fenced. A real bargain at $8,000. Fire Insurance in reliable companies. Money to loan on mortgages. T. J. Lockhart Real Estate and Insurance 58 BROCK ST., KINGSTON Phones 2223 and 1797J.

Rubber Aprons Just the thing to protect the gown. Easily slipped on and off. All colors, with and without frills, 50c., 85c., and $1.25 Dr. Chown's Drug Store 185 Princess Street. Phone 343

WEEK-END SPECIALS Oranges, sweet and juicy 10c. a doz. Crisp Soda.....2 pkgs. 25c. Pink Salmon.....9c. a tin Fresh Rolled Oats.....6 lbs for 25c. Jello, all flavors.....3 for 25c. Cheese.....25c. lb. Visit our Fresh Meat Department. Everything choice. Prices right. Delivery service a specialty. R. R. WALLACE 100 STEPHEN STREET PHONE 1758.

IN MARINE CIRCLES The steamer Mapleton passed down to Montreal. The steamer Rapids King passed down to take over the regular route. The steamer Toronto cleared for Prescott and will return this evening. The steamer City of Hamilton passed down to Montreal with package freight. The steamer Brockville was expected around noon from Picton and way ports. The sloop Granger unloaded hay at the municipal wharf this morning. The steamer Britannic arrived with passengers and freight from Montreal. The government tug Concretia is at the LaSalle causeway.

THE WEATHER MAY SEEM FAIR AND WARM—BEFORE THE COMING OF A STORM! CRAWFORD'S COAL QUARTETTE WHEN the weather seems mild and balmy at this time of the year it may be bluffing. Remember that there is a cloud behind every silver lining and remember our 'phone number when you make up your mind to order coal. CRAWFORD PHONE 9. QUEEN ST.

BANK OF ENGLAND LONDON CIGARETTES 10 for 20¢ 20 for 35¢ Sterling Quality

PRESS COMMENT

Strikes and Public Servants. Nothing can justify a walkout of public servants in a country where the people rule. For to conspire to declare a strike against the Government is to declare war, and if one body of public servants declare war on the Government, then so can any other body, even to the army, and anybody can see what that would mean. The Canadian postal employees should have continued their campaign of educating the public, rather than resorting to force and penalizing the people who must supply the funds, and whose good-will is therefore essential. They may be sure of justice when the people understand.—Detroit News.

Europeans in China. There is, no doubt, a growing spirit of revolt against the foreigner which will need firm handling by the Legations. It is significant, for instance, to read that two hundred and eighty members of the Chinese Parliament are said to have endorsed the decision to send a cable to the British Government the keynote of which, according to a Chinese paper, is this: "Great Britain can bar the Chinese from landing in Australia and Canada, but not from the City Wall in Peking." What these childish intellects seemingly fail to understand is that these regulations which debar Chinese soldiers from being on the City Wall within the Legation Quarter are not the regulations of the British Legation, but those of the entire Diplomatic Corps.—Hong Kong Press.

WHY THE WEATHER?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS Secretary, American Meteorological Society, Tells How.

Fireworks and the Weather. Fourth of July fireworks have often been unjustly blamed for untimely showers which curtail the celebrations of the evening. The belief that rain can be precipitated by explosions has long been widespread and has led to many attempts at rainmaking. Prof. C. F. Talman, of the U. S. Weather Bureau, points out that "the idea originated long before the invention of gunpowder. It is mentioned by Plutarch and other writers of antiquity." Some have suggested that a violent explosion jostles minute cloud particles together into drops large enough to descend as rain. The extent of this jostling might be compared with the result of clapping our hands in a room full of moist air. Another explanation of the supposed effect of explosives is that the increase of smoke and gases in the air affords more abundant nuclei for condensation. The atmosphere, however, has ordinarily more than enough of such nuclei. Moreover, smoky cities like Pittsburgh receive no more rainfall than the surrounding country. Many people have cited the frequency of rain after battles in support of the theory of explosives causing rainfall. As rain in many places occurs normally every two or three days, and battles are usually fought in fair weather, rain soon after a battle is what might be expected.

Strong Objection Is Taken To Drinking Cups in Park

Strong objection has been taken by a number of citizens over the placing of egate cups at a tap in Frontenac park for drinking purposes, the claim being made that it is very unsanitary. It is stated that there are "bubblers" in the other parks and that this park, where the playgrounds are located should also be fitted out with proper drinking facilities. The civic parks committee will be appealed to in regard to the matter.

Canada's Story Day by Day By B. Odwen Davies

JULY 4. His popularity with the people of Canada was a thing very dear to the heart of William Lyon Mackenzie, who in 1837, headed a rebellion against constituted authority. In the elections of 1836 Mackenzie had been defeated at the polls. He was shocked and amazed, and wept like a child in his disappointment. It was then he secretly resolved to accomplish by illegal means what he failed to realize by constitutional means. To this end he founded "The Constitution" on this day in 1837, a paper calculated to inflame its readers against the government of Upper Canada. Then came the armed rebellion and defeat. He retired to the United States but was eventually taken before the courts there charged with inciting attacks on Canada from the soil of