ATTEMPT BY BURGLAR TO ENTER RESIDENCE

Tried to Force Window of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hambrook.

About midnight Monday a bold burglar paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hambrook, 102 Bagot street and made an attempt to gain entrance to the house by forcing a back parlor window, but the inmates of the home were awakened by the noise and the burglar made his escape.

Mrs. Hambrook heard the noise at the window and without losing any time she switched on the electric lights and this no doubt frightened the burglar. When Mrs. Hambrook reached the window she could see the figure of a man making off along the laneway at the rear of the house and leading to the cricket field. On an investigation being made, the tracks of the man were found leading to and from the window.

There were no new developments reported by the police on Tuesday in regard to the burglaries which took place on Friday night last when three homes were entered.

AN ELECTRICIAN'S MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Receives Full Voltage Over Street—Prompt Action Saves His Life.

Campbellford, July 8.—While engaged in adjusting electric light wires, on the roof of Birk's drug store, Ronald MacPherson had a terrible experience. He was changing a switch box on the third flat and had occasion to change the wiring. Going to the roof, he leaned out with a pair of pliers to cut the wires, while hanging to the metal cornice with his left hand. He received the full voltage and was held out over the street in the most precarious position.

His cries for help brought dozens of people to the spot and at first none realized what the trouble was. Some one turned in a fire alarm.

The prompt action of Harry Anderson and James Gay probably saved his life. They rushed up and pulled him to the roof but not before the victim was badly burned across the chest, and Mr. Anderson himself, was given a bad shock.

First aid was rendered and the patient is reported to be doing nicely.

THE BRITISH PREMIER MAKES TRIP TO PARIS

To Settle Misunderstanding Which May Exist Between France and Britain.

London, July 8.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, accompanied by two secretaries and Sir Eyre Crowe, permanent undersecretary of foreign affairs, left for Paris this morning for his conference with Premier Herriot. Prior to his departure Mr. MacDonald talked with newspapermen regarding his visit, which, he said, must be taken as evidence of his desire for the settlement of any misunderstanding which may have existed between Britain and France. The premier looked worn and ill, and said himself that he was not fit to travel.

BRANIGAN'S DRUG STORE OPENING ON WEDNESDAY

As Fine as Can Be Seen Anywhere—Very Latest Idea in Fittings and Decorations.

Tomorrow another new business will be established in Kingston when Branigan's Drug Store, 268 Princess street, next to the Strand Theatre and in the premises formerly occupied by the Public Utilities, will open its doors to the public.

It is a fine store, seventy-six feet in length and of ample width and combining all the most modern ideas in drug store layout. The front shop is a picture. The visitor is first greeted by splendid windows, fashioned in the Richard Hudnut color scheme of orange, cerise and blush pink, which scheme is carried all through the store with touches here and there and attractive pedestals with clusters of small roses and other attractive flowers.

Beautiful plate glass show cases, with finishings of solid quarter cut oak and wall cases and fixtures of the same wood, line the sides and at the rear the latest idea, the combination show case and wall fixture, completes the circuit, with a telephone booth handily situated in a quiet corner and finished to harmonize with the general scheme.

The walls are done in tasty grey and white marbled tone with a border of blue and gold and the ceilings in plain white to give the bright and clean air which at once strikes the visitor. A large clock with a quarter-cut oak finish and a white dome light with hand-painted flowers in pink, are touches which add to the arrangement.

Another modern touch is the large dispensary, almost as large as the main store, with its splendid equipment, double sinks, etc., and its roomy private office in one corner. Still further back is the warehouse, equally as large, and fitted with a staff bathroom which is the equal of that in a private home and with a large freight entrance connecting with the side driveway.

Branigan's Drug Store will be operated by George W. McGlynn, for thirteen years with Mahood's Drug store of this city, and Harry L. Branigan, for several years with L. T. Best and a graduate of the Ontario College of Pharmacy. Both young men are life long Kingston residents and well-known to all.

The phone number is 18 and a prompt delivery service will be featured. A small Richard Hudnut sample will be given to each lady visitor on opening day. At night attention is attracted to this fine store by a large electric sign in blue and white with a red border showing when illuminated, the finishing touch to one of the finest drug stores in the city. The opening is on Wednesday and all are invited.

Wait A Minute

Yes, we know that Moore's advertisement of yesterday's issue advertised tires, 30 x 3 1/2, Endurance, at $2.50, but that was our fault. The price should have read as $3.50 and those tires are certainly a great big bargain at the price. If you don't believe us, walk around to Moore's store on Wellington street and prove it. We also called Moore's splendid "U" Cords at $13 by the name of "H" Cords, but we take it all back. Don't forget Moore's big sale.
