A Beruffled Negligee.

By ELEANOR GUNN

Come summer and one loses a bit of interest in tailored things even the mannish bathrobe which has been the latest edition of summer lounging robes worn on beach and in boudoir.

The woman who travels—and she is, everywhere—much prefers a dark robe for steamer or Pullman wear.

DARK AND COOL

When warm weather arrives, practically every woman yearns for a dress that is both dark and cool and may be worn on the street without looking as if the wearer were bound for a garden party.

J. R. Hamilton has resigned from the principalship of Carleton Place high school and will likely be succeeded by W. J. Flach, M.A., recently of Pembroke.

Summer Laundry Problems. The hot weather brings its problems to the woman who does her own laundering.

To Wash an Organdie Dress: If colored and never washed before, the dress must have its color "set" as follows: It must soak for one-half hour in a "mordant" suitable to the color.

The Editor hears

That the Kingston Tennis Club is a live institution with a membership of eighty. The courts are on the old athletic grounds and are in excellent condition.

That a lady who is a boarder in one of the houses now filled with students who are taking a summer course at Queen's remarked on the low-toned voices and pleasant intonation of the girls.

That the Guide camp has proved most successful this year and has been greatly enjoyed by the girls and also by the ladies in charge.

That the last few days of warm weather have sent people out into the country and the summer homes along the lake and river shore are filled with the prospect for additional week-end guests.

That the sing-songs at Dead Man's Bay are greatly enjoyed, but the cheery presence of Mr. Edward Crumley, who last year was the life of the party, is much missed and many thoughts follow him to his home in sunny California.

WITH THE GIRL GUIDES

AT BEAU RIVAGE. The programme for Thursday afternoon was the aquatic sports which had been looked forward to with much enthusiasm.

No one liven up the games more than "Bones," our camp mascot, who is the most energetic one in the contests.

A song "The Lilac Tree" by the regard to drying and washing. After the organdie dress has been washed, squeeze it from suds, rinse it twice in clear cold water, then put it through a third rinse water which contains a piece of gum arabic as large as a nutmeg.

To Launder Muslins: Set colors as described above, also wash the same.

To Launder Gingham Dresses: The same directions for setting colors are used for gingham dresses which are being washed for the first time.

White Dresses of Linen, Gabardine and other heavy materials are starched with boiled starch if liked fairly stiff, otherwise with the cold water starch.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn.

Commandant, Miss Saunders, at the camp fire Wednesday night, was much appreciated.

Officer for the day Lieut. Kathleen Healey.

The tailored frock of this season is not severe, but has graceful lines such as this one. The supple front reveals a tiny front of lace, but that is the only trimming.
