Another proof is in the fact that slipping ladders cause more accidents and kill more people than any other thing. Yet a ladder is 100 per cent. safe, used cautiously.

CURE FOR EVEN LEPROSY.

It is said that there are in India three hundred thousand lepers These unhappy creatures are segre gated and die slow and horrible deaths. But at last there is hope for the leper, as there also is for those who suffer from tuberculosis cancer. The "lepra bacillus," the microbe which has baffled science 2614 for three thousand years, has met its master, for a British doctor in that eastern land, with the help of an Indian chemist, lately found a soluble salt that could be injected into the leper's veins. This salt will cure thousands and give relief to ever the worst cases. So the lepers the far east are reported to be joicing over the great discovery. But it will be the generations yet to come who will be benefited most leprosy will be completely mastered and that India in a few decades will no longer have this terrible blot upon

HOSPITAL BEQUESTS.

In these days hospitals are most costly institutions to maintain and their governing boards have a difficult time in squaring their accounts. Kingston's General Hospital has been conducted with the utmost for the remedy of this abuse, Terms economy and at the same time high state of efficiency has been One of the strange things about maintained. The same is true of the lege of Surgeons among the stand-Aeroplanes are becoming more po- ardized hospitals of the American maintenance, but as the institutions expand the more costly is their upkeep. No doubt it is because of the heavy tax demand on all sides that a lessening of gifts, to educational and charitable institutions has taken place of late years, but there is nothing to prevent men of large means making bequests in their wills to universities, hospitals and refuges, as the late Charles Sandwith Campbell did in the case of the Kingston General Hospital. Quite naturally, therefore, we concluded that the province of Ontario was entirely outside the realm of these natural disturbances which ever brought death and destruction in their wake. It came, then, as something of a shock to learn that on Monday evening last this province was shaken by an earthquake. The seismograph at the Toronto observatory recorded the quake; is was distinctly felt at Ottawa, while in Renfrew hotel guests were so alarmed that they rushed into the streets in hight attire. Luckily for their peace of mind, Kingstonians neither felt nor sensed the shock.

Perchance we are not as secure as from the same car. we assumed we were. Many unusual things are happening these days, and we are gradually becoming accustomed to them. But an earthquake -that is something we never expected to experience. It was only a largely, for there is now hope that few days ago that a noted scientist ly of the coal. His house was never predicted that New York city might any day be destroyed by an earthquake, due to the shifting of the rock strata beneath the city. The weight of the numerous large buildings, erected there during the past few years, was said to have effected ropolis. Only the future can determine the truth of such predictions.

The forces of nature cannot be controlled or mitigated by man. They may be released to our undoing at any minute. Yet this part of the world has for so long been free from earthquake shocks that we can rea sonably look forward to many more years of immunity.

PENITENTIARY ITEMS.

June 23 .- (From the Annual Report.) We last year reported to Your Excellency that we had hired out 50 convicts to be employed as shoemakers; also that we had hired out the labor of 50 cabinet-makers; also that we had hired out the labor of 50 tailors to Mr. George Brown, of Kingston; and we have since concluded a contract for 50 blacksmiths to be employed in hames-making, edged tool making and general blacksmithing. The labor in all our contracts is paid for at the rate o 1s. 6d. currency for each day's labor.

The system of hiring out convict labor we have found to produce its never-failing attendant under similar circumstances in other prisons,-the clandestine introduction of tobacco and other articles as bribes to the convicts for extra industry, in violation of the prison rules.

The total number of punishments was 2,782, chiefly solitary confinement and the substitution of bread and water for the ordinary rations -From the time of our assumption of office we have been impressed with a sense of the injurious and debasing influence which the association of military convicts, sentenced for mere infractions of discipline, with felons convicted of the greatest offences is calculated to produce on the minds of the former. An earthquake in Eastern Ontario a few minutes later! Thus without the shedding of a single drop of blood, Canada acquired a post vastly important in the campaign to follow. The importance of the event lay not alone in the material benefit, but also in the increased respect from the impressionable Indians, for the British force which could achieve so amazing a success without even a show of resistance from the enemy. It was an example of the bold style of Brock's warfare, and after his death. failure to tollow his example proved costly at times to British interests.

He discovered that the furnace had not been cleaned out after the previous winter's use, that the pipes were heavy with soot, and that the smoke pipe had been pushed too far into the brick chimney.

After these things were corrected the man got real satisfaction from his furnace and coal.

I often think that when diets are laid out for sick and well people that it is taken for granted that as they all have the same kind of bodieshuman in shape—that food acts exactly the same in every kind of body. and under every condition of health. And yet even in health, two men, one thin and the other fat, can eat exactly the same food for one whole month, and the thin one will be exactly the same weight, perhaps even less, and the stout one has put on five pounds. This shows that even in health
