The Editor hears

That the governors of the Kingston General Hospital are looking forward to the splendid additions which are made possible through the Campbell bequest. Kingston will be able to boast of one of the finest hospitals in the province.

That a New York note says "Among the new hats designed for women with bobbed hair is one which is no more than a glorified knitted cap. It is a close-fitting cap of knotted ribbons, which keeps the hair in place but allows plenty of ventilation."

That the dismal people who foretold the almost total failure of the crops during the cold weather in May and the early part of June, should hide their heads, for we seldom have seen better fields of grain and as for the fruit crop it is simply wonderful. Such strawberries! And soon the raspberries will be ready for market. It is a pretty good old world after all, and the only person there is no room for is the pessimist.

Making Paper Beads for Portieres. Some time ago one of our readers, "Mrs. M. M.," requested directions for making paper beads for portieres. Here are the results of this appeal. I think it is most kind and generous of these readers to send us these directions.

Mrs. H. A. O.: "I make paper beads by cutting a leaf-shaped piece of wall paper about four inches long and one inch wide, tapering to a point at each end. Roll this closely over a steel knitting needle, beginning at one pointed end, and paste down the other pointed end when you finish rolling, using photo paste. When you have made all the beads, varnish them to keep them in good condition, then let dry and string them on the fishline with a colored glass bead between each two home-made paper beads."

Mrs. C. T. gives practically the same method except that she says: "Cut wall paper into triangles, having the base of the triangle as long as you wish the finished head to be. Roll these over a hatpin, colored side out, beginning to roll from the wide end; fasten tip of triangle down with glue. Remove hatpin when the glue is dry, then paint the entire head with white shellac."

H. McM. says: "Use brightly colored magazine advertisements, cutting these into triangles three inches in length, from point to wide end, and having the wide end one and one-half inches wide (this will be the length of the finished head). Roll the triangle over a steel knitting needle, rolling from broad end to point, and fasten down tip with paste. Dip head into white shellac for a bright effect."

Mrs. I. La R. suggests making these beads 12 inches long for window drapes. She also cuts hers into triangular shape, having the wide end measure 12 inches, and the tip measure two inches (this tip is then tapered gradually to a sharp point). She too uses colored glass beads alternating with the paper ones. A small pen-and-ink sketch in her letter shows a window with straight strings of these beads hanging on either side (over the glass) and shorter straight strings forming a sort of deep fringe, or valance, at the top of the window over the glass. Evidently she suspends this bead curtain from a regular curtain pole.

Two other ladies have also given directions for these beads, but because of space restrictions I shall have to publish them later. Tomorrow—Dishes For Campers. All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.
