MEMORIAL TABLE UNVEILED IN LANARK

It Was Reared to the Memory of the Late William C. Caldwell, ex-M.P.P.

Perth Courier. Friends of the late W. C. Caldwell, B.A., ex-M.P.P., assembled in the town hall, Lanark, on July 18th, to do honor to departed merit. When Miss Catherine Lewis, granddaughter of deceased parted the veil that concealed the tablet and while the fitting words of the poem "The Inevitable" were motioned from the platform, hundreds of heads bowed reverentially. The inscription done in relief on a bronze base tells the story:

"This tablet is erected to commemorate the long and faithful public service of W. C. Caldwell, B.A., eldest son of Alexander Caldwell, born at Lanark township, May 14th, 1843—died at Lanark, January 7th, 1905. Representative of the North Riding of Lanark in the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario for 30 years."

The hall was filled with friends from Ottawa, Carleton Place, Perth, Almonte and other outside points, countryside and village also being largely represented. On the platform were Robert Robertson, chairman; Dr. R. F. Preston, M.P., Senator Andrew Haydon, T. A. Thompson, M.L.A., T. B. Caldwell, Robert Patterson, David Findlay, Ben Willis and Dr. A. M. Downing. Among the audience were Mrs. W. C. Caldwell, her daughter, Mrs. A. Goldyer Lewis and her sons, Col. A. Clyde Caldwell, Ottawa, Major William R. Caldwell, Carleton Place, and J. Boyd Caldwell, Ottawa. When the unveiling ceremony was seated twenty young girls of the Girls' Guide came in procession carrying maple leaves and singing "The Maple Leaf," also at the chorus in recessional leaving the hall singing "O Canada."

In his opening remarks Mr. Robertson paid high tribute to the memory of the one whom they wished to honor that day, his probity, manliness, and human sympathy made him loved by all classes and creeds and it was one of the fine remembrances of the speaker's life to have known him intimately and to have associated with him so many years.

Benjamin Willis, reeve of the village, commended the friends responsible for the tablet. It was a good thing to do. Long ago Mr. Caldwell had won such a reputation by character and ability. From this platform his voice had been heard on many occasions, and it was fitting that his public record should be marked by this permanent token. The council were unanimous that the tablet be placed in the town hall where it would serve to remind this and future generations of one whose life was an inspiration, whose memory was a benediction. Following the unveiling, Senator Haydon addressed the meeting, reviewing in detail the family history and the political career of deceased. His own life and that of Mr. Caldwell in some respects were analogous. Both were county of Lanark men, one of the east the other of the west. Both were graduates of Queen's University, both of the same school of political thought. Mr. Caldwell's entry into political life had woven itself into and was coincident with great national events. But from the first it had been successful and continued with but one interruption for nearly thirty years.

T. B. Caldwell, the next speaker said that he had never been impressed so much by any ceremony before. In referring to his cousin it brought to mind many incidents of days gone by, but the outstanding feature of such a memorial was the good effect it had on the minds of the younger people who might see in such an example a life worthy to emulate.

Dr. R. F. Preston expressed the pride and pleasure in the Garden of My Heart, and "My Task," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. Campbell. Between speeches Mrs. James C. Currie, president of Lanark village Women's Institute read an address to Mrs. W. C. Caldwell, and at the right moment Master John Affleck presented a bouquet of flowers.

C. M. Forbes recited the poem entitled "The Inevitable." The tablet which is of bronze with the lettering raised in relief, is set in the south wall of the hall. It was selected and placed under supervision of P. McCallum, Almonte, who especially deserves the credit of the community for having such a token placed in this public place. One of the best tributes of the day was the large number of Conservatives present, numbers motoring over from Perth, Carleton Place and other points.

SPARKS' CIRCUS, JULY 31ST.

The Spirit of Youth is Vividly Interpreted.

In her feature dances on a delicate wire in mid-air, little Naida Miller, by the lightness and grace which animates every line of her perfectly formed body, interprets the Spirit of Youth in all its charm and loveliness. She will be seen with the Sparks' Circus when it exhibits here on Thursday, July 31st.

With the Sparks Circus this year are trained elephants, lions, tigers, seals, polar bears and leopards, and over twenty arenic displays by top-line circus performers.

With its mile long street parade, big menagerie of strange animals from foreign lands, and performance in which the highest class amusement is presented by the best acts obtainable, the Sparks' Circus has become the ideal three-ring show.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND VISITED THE ISLANDS

Folger Bros. Gave the Use of Steamer St. Lawrence for Water Trip.

The Observer in the Clayton on the St. Lawrence says:

Although weak and nervous from illness and hardly able to write legibly here is an almost forgotten story of connecting incidents of comedy and tragedy that but few of our present day residents have ever heard of, read of, and that will be of interest to all.

In an editorial in a recent issue of the Watertown Times, it was stated that Grant was the only president to ever visit our Thousand Islands resort, but the facts are that two others, Arthur and Cleveland, have honored us with their presence.

Soon after the marriage of President Cleveland and Frances Folsom, they came by special train, and with a party of personal friends to visit the river and for a tour among the islands.

Motor passenger boats, were unknown in those days, and Mr. Folger turned the steamer St. Lawrence into a private boat for the day, no other passengers being taken.

Our entire village had become informed of the intended visit of the distinguished guests, and all were eager and anxious to be at the railroad station at the time of arrival of the train.

At near the mid-day meal time, when several of the patrons of a boarding house that used to be near the entrance to the village park were awaiting the welcome sound of the bell, several street youngsters were rushing past in wild haste calling out "The president's train will be here in five minutes." Men, women and children along the street and from the residences joined in frantic rush to the station.

The boarding house proprietress ceased preparation of the meal to allow cooking implements to drop anywhere and to fling apron aside started on a run across the park, she being nearly the last, five rods behind her, and also running with hat in hand, came the local Catholic priest.

Some one of the onlookers who couldn't or wouldn't run to see a democratic president, to the great amusement of all within hearing called out—"say! what would a stranger visiting us think of our town if it were a priest chasing a woman along the public highway."

The St. Lawrence, with party on board, crossed Eel Bay to the Canadian channel, when Capt. Milo Estes from the hurricane deck just above the heads of the passengers called out "Mr. Cleveland! as I understand our constitution and laws our chief magistrates are forbidden to visit foreign countries during their terms of office. You are now, and will be for the next half hour in Canada, therefore the United States will have no president in that time." For a minute there were expressions of surprise on the faces of the entire party, when the president good naturedly replied, "Captain, the information you offer us is not terrifying nor entirely unwelcome, but please don't mention it to newspaper reporters as I may be discharged from office for transgression of the laws." Anyway, I have this to say, that if all Canada is like this we are passing through it is a wonderful and beautiful country."

Radio Fans Heard Circus. Kingston radio fans listened in on the Sparks Circus Monday night as it was sent out by the Canadian National station, (CNRO), Ottawa, where the show exhibited Monday.

The Canada Radio Stores reports bearing the entertainment from 7.30 to nearly 9.30 p.m. The experiment was quite successful and even the noise of the animals could be distinguished.

length, stretching over the Middle and Front roads. The oiling of the highway from Montreal street to Cunningham's Corners, which has just been completed, affords the other circuit. R. Fair, County Engineer, recommends both of these to motor enthusiasts.

There is a good deal of work going on just at present on the county roads. Seven more miles of the Middle Road, in the suburban system, has been made ready for oiling, and it was expected this would start on Tuesday. The Back Road is also being built up and made ready for the oil late this season or the first thing next spring. Grading and rolling is now going on on the road between Collins Bay and Westbrook. The Front Road has also been graded and otherwise smoothed. Extensive work has been done on the highway between Verona and Picadilly, where a sandy road has been graded and stoned. Much improvement is also being made in the Woodburn Road, with the assistance of the crusher and grading.
