

LOST IN BUSH TWO NIGHTS

Ten-Year-Old Boy Had Terrible Experience Near Sudbury.

SUFFERED FROM FLIES

His Feet, Arms And Head Attacked While He Was Stranded In The Woods.

Sudbury, July 31.—After being for fifty-three hours lost in the bush, Pasquellino Galardo, the 10-year-old son of Emelio Galardo, Sudbury photographer, has turned up safe and sound, little the worse for his experience.

Search parties, headed by Provincial Police and including expert bushmen and scores of friends of the missing boy's father, had been out two days and two nights, but the little fellow accidentally came across a farmer's son, Jack Williams, in a runaway in the bush, who took him home. The lad still had his mother's basket of blueberries.

Two nights Pasquellino prayed and cried himself to sleep, only to start out at sunrise next morning on what seemed to him a forlorn hope—to again see his mother and daddy. Tonight he is tucked safely under the sheets at the family home.

The bush in which the boy was lost is mostly second growth and slash and is a veritable blueberry paradise. The youngster's face was swollen from crying, while his feet, arms and head had been badly bitten by black flies when he was found. The Galardo family, father, mother, and children started out in their auto at daybreak Sunday morning and an hour later reached a spot where they started to pick blueberries. The mother sent Pasquellino with a full basket of berries to place in the car at the roadside, a half-mile away. He drifted onto a wrong trail and became lost. He walked and walked, and yelled until he was hoarse, and then cried. He came upon a small clearing, he said, and waited a while to see if anybody would turn up. Then he started out again, only to return hours later to the same spot.

Amalgamation of Income War Tax Branch With the Customs And Excise Departments

Amalgamation of Income War Tax Branch With the Customs And Excise Departments

An amalgamation of the income war tax branch, located at 83 Princess street, and the customs and excise departments is shortly to take place. Under this arrangement four revenue collecting branches will be placed under the minister of customs and excise, Hon. Jacques Bureau. These branches will include customs, excise, consumption or sales tax and business profits war tax and income war tax.

It was only a short time ago that the inland revenue department was amalgamated with the customs department. Now another step toward the co-ordination of all revenue collecting departments has been made. Yesterday the following memorandum was received by the local authorities, dated at Ottawa on July 29th:

"Herewith is printed for your information and guidance an Act to Amend the Department of Customs and Excise Act passed at the recent session of parliament and assented to on the 19th July, 1924.

"By this Act the business Profits War Tax Act, 1916, and amendments, and the Income War Tax Act, 1917, and amendments, are placed under the administration of the Minister of Customs and Excise.

"Due notice will be given when

DOCTRINE OF FARM ALWAYS TO THE FRONT

Hon. W. R. Motherwell at Ontario Agricultural College

Guelph, Ont., July 31.—Hon. W. R. Motherwell, federal minister of agriculture, gave a short address to the rural leaders in session at the Ontario Agricultural College. After expressing his regret at being unable to take part in the jubilee of the college, of which he is a graduate, the minister addressed all present as missionaries who were going forth to preach the doctrine of agriculture, itself a kind of religion.

Mr. Motherwell stated that other things might change, other occupations become unnecessary, but the task of agriculture would always be needed.

Forty-Seven Murder Cases in Canada With Convictions in Only Fifteen

Ottawa, July 31.—Forty-seven cases of murder were tried in the courts of Canada last year, and of this number convictions were secured in fifteen, according to criminal statistics made public here yesterday.

Prince Edward Island has a clean slate, with neither charges nor conviction. In the other provinces the statistics follow:

Nova Scotia, 3 charges, 0 convictions; New Brunswick, 2 charges, 0 convictions; Quebec, 5 charges, 2 convictions; Ontario, 9 charges, 4 convictions; Manitoba, 5 charges, 0 convictions; Saskatchewan, 5 charges, 3 convictions; Alberta, 9 charges, 4 convictions; British Columbia, 3 charges, 0 convictions; Territories, 6 charges, 2 convictions.

In 1922 there were fifty-six charges and nineteen convictions.

Drunkenness Less In Quebec

Convictions Hardly More Than Half Those of Dry Ontario.

Ottawa, July 31.—Federal statistics on drunkenness seem to bear out the contention that prohibition does not prohibit. In 1922 the convictions for drunkenness in Ontario, where there is prohibition, were 10,063, and in 1923, these had increased to 11,370.

In Quebec, where there is government control, the convictions for drunkenness in 1922 were 7,103 and in 1923, had decreased to 6,260. In operating illicit stills in Ontario of 245 and in 1923 the convictions were 339. In Quebec on the same charge in 1922, there were 115 and in 1923 the number had increased to 281.

Conviction for driving an automobile while intoxicated rose in Ontario in 1922, from 50 to 144, and in 1923, and in Quebec from 33 to 104. Convictions for offences against liquor, prohibition and temperance acts in Ontario, in 1922 were 3,246 and in 1923, were 3,958, while in Quebec in 1922 they were 954 and, in 1923, were 1,724.

Review Case Canadian Under Sentence Death

London, July 31.—Efforts have been made recently by certain Canadians towards inducing the Home Secretary, Arthur Henderson, to further review the case of Georges Coderre, a lieutenant in a French-Canadian battalion that was overseas in the war, who was sentenced to death for murder in England during the war.

Lord Darling, who was then a judge of the High Court of Justice, King's Bench Division, and presided at the trial of Coderre, in pronouncing the death sentence, spoke very sternly with regard to the crime of the young French-Canadian lieutenant had been found guilty, nevertheless the Home Secretary of that time commuted the sentence to penal servitude for life.

The Canadian Press understands that Mr. Henderson is considering the matter of reviewing the case, as requested.

The Booth Memorial Will Be A "University of Humanity"

London, July 31.—On September 6th, 1912, General Bramwell Booth, the present Chief of the Salvation Army, announced in a letter to The Times the inauguration of a fund by which it was proposed to build a new International Training Home as a memorial to his father, the founder of the Salvation Army, William Booth.

One of General Booth's latest and dearest objects was the foundation of a home—"the University of Humanity," as he called it—which would give a far more complete training and equipment to Salvation Army officers than the Army's resources then permitted. The training in sociology was indeed to be of the widest and the most comprehensive possible. The scheme now in progress, which carries out at least the greater part of his object, will, it is calculated, cost approximately 250,000 pounds. This sum includes the cost of the site, the erection of homes for 500 students, with lecture halls, classrooms, and apparatus, and a funded sum to meet the cost of keeping the buildings in a state of good repair.

No British Workers Wanted In Alberta

Edmonton, July 31.—There will be no more complaints from British harvesters in Alberta this year, for the reason that no harvesters are to be brought in from Great Britain to help gather the 1924 crop. The supply of workers will be secured nearer home, the majority coming probably from British Columbia.

Walter Smitton, Labor Commissioner for the province, reported on his return from the harvest employment conference in Winnipeg that an estimate of 27,000 men required in the three provinces for harvesting operations had been agreed upon, and that Alberta's quota of 10,000 still held subject to change about the middle of August, when it would be revised in accordance with crop reports on hand at that time. Of these about 4,000, it is stated, would be found within the province.

WEDDED FIRST; TRIAL AFTER

Judge Allows Man Up For Manslaughter Time For Ceremony.

CANNOT FIGHT CUPID

Case In Quebec Court Was Adjudged For a Week To Allow For Nuptials.

Quebec, July 31.—That justice is sometimes tempered with mercy was demonstrated in the local courts this morning when a defendant who appeared to answer to a charge of manslaughter was allowed to postpone his case until next week in order that he might be married. Judge Choquette realizing the futility of trying to pit the law against the wiles of Cupid, granted the request willingly when it was preferred by the attorney for the accused. The defendant, whose trial had already started, left the court with the knowledge that the law is not vindictive but is always willing to extend mercy in deserving cases.

The defendant in the case, and the prospective benedict, is Lionel Pouliot, of this district, who was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of a boy named La Roche, of St. Louis de Courville, who was struck down by the car which was the defendant was driving.

Two witnesses were heard when the case was opened in the Court of Sessions this morning. There were Mrs. Ulric Latouche, aunt of the victim of the accident, and Miss Marilda Latouche, his cousin. Both gave their versions of the accident.

Following the hearing of those witnesses the attorney for the accused asked for one week's adjournment in order that the accused might get married. After consideration the court willingly accorded the desired extension of time.

STATEMENT MADE IN VANDENHECKE CASE

No Reason to Interfere With the Death Sentence of Renfrew Man.

Boston, July 31.—Governor Cox to-day denied a request for an eleventh hour respite in the sentence of death imposed on Cyrille Vandehecke for the killing of Gislain Schureman, in Lawrence, six years ago. He said there were no circumstances that seemed to warrant interference with the finding of the jury and the sentence of the court.

Vandehecke was arrested at Renfrew, Ont., where he had gone, after fleeing to Belgium. He had married a woman in Montreal, while his wife was still living at Lawrence. It was a quarrel over his relations with Schureman's wife that led to the murder. The condemned man had addressed to the governor a letter asking for respite that he might have further opportunity to prove his innocence, which he has protested. John P. Kane, his counsel asked the governor in person that the appeal be granted, in a conference to-day, at which he said that although there was no new evidence now at hand, he hoped to uncover some that would support Vandehecke's contention.

The governor, in announcing his refusal to grant the request, said: "To the case of Cyrille Vandehecke I have given most serious consideration. I have examined all the court proceedings, including the appeal to the Supreme Court. I have read material parts of the evidence carefully, have read the statements recently made by the condemned man to the committee of the parole board, as well as various communications which I have received. I have conferred at length with Vandehecke's counsel and with the attorney-general.

"I am unable to find that there is any reasonable chance of producing any additional evidence which would be beneficial to the condemned man. After a fair trial a jury found Vandehecke guilty of murder in the first degree. The Supreme Court has decided that sufficient evidence was presented to warrant a finding of guilty. Nothing has come to my knowledge which controverts the evidence presented in court; no other circumstances have arisen which seem to warrant interference with the finding of the jury and the sentence pronounced by the court."

Cyrille Vandehecke, formerly of Lawrence, Mass., and Renfrew, Ont., was executed in the electric chair at the Charlestown state prison at midnight.

At Ottawa it is rumored that Col. Obed Smith, immigration official in England, will be pensioned soon.

At Ottawa, Reddick knocked out Edwards, Cleveland, in eight rounds.

CANADA'S TRADE WITH THE UNITED KINGDOM

Ottawa, July 31.—Canada's imports during month of June from the United Kingdom totalled $11,995,842, while exports from Canada to the United Kingdom totalled $28,426,774. The value of Canadian imports from the United Kingdom during the twelve months ended June, 1924, was $150,441,599, as compared with $149,682,724 during the twelve months ended June, 1923. Canadian exports to the United Kingdom during the twelve months ended June totalled $337,478,714, and during the comparative twelve months of the previous year were $387,587,179.

AN OBJECTION IS OVERRULED

Alienists Will Give Evidence in the Murder Case At Chicago.

A LIVELY ARGUMENT

Judge Caverly Stated He Wished To Know Mitigating Circumstances.

Chicago, July 31.—The state closed and the defence started testimony yesterday in the hearing which is to determine the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks.

Frank A. Sheer was the last witness for the state. He testified merely that he took Loeb's confession the night of May 30th.

The defence called as its first witness Dr. William Alanson White, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D.C.

Judge Caverly overruled an objection by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, to testimony by any defence alienists.

"If your Honor gave these defendants a term of years satisfactory to them and their attorneys," argued Mr. Crowe, "I could not appeal and they would not. I insist if this question of insanity is raised, it is your Honor's duty to impanel a jury and determine that fact."

Judge Caverly shook his head and said "Overruled," but Mr. Crowe continued on the argument on the legal point he had raised.

At one point when the argument waxed warm, State's Attorney Crowe heatedly remarked to the court: "If you hear this evidence as to insanity and you sentence these men to life imprisonment and Mr. Darrow takes the case to the Supreme Court, I'll confess error."

As Mr. Darrow broke in with: "No, no, there'd be nothing," Judge Caverly interjected: "I do not care what you gentlemen do when I get through."

"Oh, that's ridiculous," the court remarked with asperity when Mr. Crowe's remark was made. The judge's query: "If a man comes here and puts on a witness who says 'This man is insane, must I call a jury?'"

During the argument Judge Caverly declared that the defence could not be permitted to go into evidence of insanity and intimated that he would favor hearing evidence as to the state of mind or in mitigation.

The argument reached the stage where it was a squabble with five or six attorneys, and the court all talking at once and the official stenographers in despair.

After the argument had lasted ninety minutes and got back to the state's accusation that the defence was trying to plead both sane and insane at the same time, Falter Bachrach suggested that "an hour and a half had been wasted."

"No," said Judge Caverly, "it has not been wasted. The court will take a day and a half on this if necessary."

He repeated that he was not going to admit any testimony at this hearing to show the defendants insane, but that he would certainly wish to know just what mitigating circumstances might have had an effect on their actions.

Every Bed In Hotel Dieu Filled Unusual For This Time of Year

The need of the proposed new wing at the Hotel Dieu Hospital is made strongly evident by the report this week that every bed is filled, a most unusual occurrence at this time of year. Doctors are holding back patients until accommodation can be provided in the hospital. In two days this week there were twenty-two operations, some tonsils, but the majority serious abdominal cases. In one day there were eleven in the main operating room.

The new wing which is talked of will be an extension of the present "new wing" on Brock street, and will double its size. The hospital at present has 175 beds and last year admitted 2,096 patients. The new wing would add over 50 beds. Lack of funds is the main impediment to this enlargement of the institution.

In the 79 years of its operation in Kingston the Hotel Dieu, founded in 1845, has shown a remarkable growth. For many years it occupied the stone building on Brock street near its present location. In 1891 the Regiopolis Hospital was purchased to become the hospital's present home. In 1895 the new chapel was opened.

In 1899 a modern and thoroughly equipped surgical theatre was erected at the northwest wing. In 1909 the new wing on the Brock street corner was begun, to provide much needed private room accommodation, laboratories, X-ray and clinical departments. On the upper corridor is situated the perfectly equipped eye, ear, nose and throat operating rooms. To-day the Hotel Dieu holds a foremost position as a thoroughly up-to-date hospital, equipped in every respect for the service of the sick and the afflicted.

In its lifetime the Hotel Dieu in Kingston, founded as an offspring of the Montreal institution, has itself been instrumental in founding three hospitals, one at Cornwall in 1897, St. Bernard's Hotel Dieu at Chicago in 1903 and a third branch at Polson, Montana, in 1916. Until the work was taken over by the St. Mary's Orphanage in 1910, the orphanage were also looked after by the Hotel Dieu Sisters. In connection with the Hotel Dieu, St. Joseph's Training School for nurses was opened in 1913 and has since sent out a noble band of graduate nurses.

ON "DOLLING UP."

SOME GIRLS are always "DOLLING UP," trying to make themselves look pretty. Or PRETTIER. This is NATURAL; CHILDREN often dress up their DOLLS for THE SAME REASON—This, TOO, is natural; But as the YEARS go by, People IMAGINE that they "grow up." But DO THEY? For, instead of DRESSING UP DOLLS, men AND women, When they LOVE, Dress EACH OTHER up in beautiful QUALITIES; A MAN often drapes his ideal Of a FINE WOMAN around A quite ORDINARY GIRL, then Sometimes she sees herself Through his eyes and lives UP TO IT; whilst WOMEN are continually dressing THE MAN THEY LOVE in the Fine qualities of DEVOTION, FAITHFULNESS and RELIABILITY. Yes, the things we DESIRE MOST For OURSELVES, we LOOK FOR IN ANOTHER.
