Triennial Meeting of W. A. in Hamilton.

When the triennial meeting of the Dominion Women's Auxiliary of the Church of England takes place in Hamilton at the end of September, Mrs. Patterson Hall, of Montreal, will, it is understood, preside for the last time. Mrs. Patterson Hall retires from the office of president which she has held with marked success and distinction for several years, at that time it is stated, and the election of her successor will lend additional interest to the sessions. The triennial meeting takes place during a part of the meeting of the Anglican General Synod in Hamilton.

That the two young catalpa trees in Clarence street park are much admired. They are now in full bloom, at least two weeks later than usual, and their large white blossoms, tinged in the heart with violet and formed into clusters, are very beautiful. Next door to them in the custom house garden, deep red roses bloom as if it were June.

That a woman greatly disappointed over the Saskatchewan prohibition plebiscite is Mrs. Gordon Wright of Toronto, National President of the W.O.T.U. Interviewed while in this city on her way to help organize her forces for the fight she was very optimistic. She thought that additional incentive would be given by the no prohibition vote of adjoining provinces. She said, too, that Saskatchewan would be better organized for the vote.

That a note from Paris says that the wide collar, standing straight up in de Medicis fashion, is seen to-day on some of the summer evening wraps. It is made of pleated silk, the pleats being very fine, and often is of white on a black crepe garment.

That some Kingston society girls were as enthusiastic as the small boys over the circus and motored to the junction on Thursday morning to see it come in. Every one who could manage it saw the parade and attended the big show for rain or shine, (and Thursday provided both), there is nothing like a circus to bring out the crowd.

That Toronto girls are now using razors and shaving lotions. Everything from those dainty Nile cream lotions to heavy creams and the ever present tonsorial accessory bay rum is being sold in the smarter drug stores and barber shops to representatives from all classes of the fair sex, says The Toronto Star. Indeed

TOMORROW'S MENU
Breakfast: Pears, Cereal, Coffee, Fried Eggs, Toast.
Luncheon: Baked Rice and Cheese, Wholewheat Bread, Iced Tea, Celery Jam.
Dinner: Vegetable Soup, Hamburg Meat Balls with Brown Gravy, Potatoes Corn on the Cob, Lettuce French Dressing, Coffee, Prune Whip.

Some Good Every-Day Salad Dressings.
Boiled Mayonnaise Dressing: For Fish, Meat, or Vegetable Salads: Put into a standard measuring cup two tablespoons of salad oil, two tablespoons of cornstarch, one tablespoon each of lemon juice and vinegar and one teaspoon of salt, then fill up the cup with skimmed milk (this will be about one-half cupful of milk). Place this mixture over moderate heat and when it reaches the boiling point, let it continue to simmer till thick like sauce. Stir often to avoid lumping. Then cool and add one-half cup more of salad oil, one-half cup of pure olive oil, one-fourth teaspoon of black pepper and one-third teaspoon of mustard. (Note: By "salad oil" I mean a mixture of equal quantities of olive oil and any good vegetable oil such as peanut-oil, cottonseed-oil or corn-oil.)

French Dressing: Beat together the following ingredients: three tablespoons of olive oil, one tablespoon of vinegar, one-third teaspoon of salt, a few grains of black pepper, and a few grains of paprika. Use this dressing on acid fruits and any other kinds of salad which are not too rich and oily in themselves.

Thousand Island Dressing: Rub one hard-boiled egg through a sieve and add two tablespoons of finely-chopped raw onion, one small cooked beet finely chopped, one-half cup of Mayonnaise salad dressing (the manufactured bottled variety is excellent), one tablespoon of Chilli sauce pressed through a sieve, and four tablespoons of whipped cream. (Note: For ordinary use the whipped cream may be omitted, but for guest meals it is delectable. Use this kind of dressing on hearts of lettuce, or on tender romaine.)

Inexpensive Boiled Dressing: Mix together six tablespoons of flour, one teaspoon of dry mustard (or the mustard may be omitted entirely), one teaspoon of salt and one tablespoon of sugar. Put this dry mixture into the top of your double boiler with one tablespoon of juice from a raw onion (to obtain this, put raw onions through a food chopper and catch the juice which drains from it), and also add two tablespoons of butter and the yolks of two eggs well beaten; as it heats, over boiling water, add two cups of sweet milk gradually. Then add one and one-half cups of weak vinegar and stir till thickened again. This may be kept in the refrigerator, covered, for one week. It is an excellent dressing to use on foods which are rich in themselves and which therefore do not need the oil in a French Dressing or in a Mayonnaise Dressing. (For instance, use it on any vegetable or fruit salad.)

Tomorrow—Those Troublesome Household Pests.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.
