ADOLPHE MENJOU AND ANNA Q. NILSSON IN "BROADWAY AFTER DARK."

The combination of Adolphe Menjou, Anna Q. Nilsson, Carmel Myers and Willard Louis as part of the all-star cast in "Broadway After Dark," at the Capitol theatre to-day and Saturday, is a guarantee of the good film fare in store for local followers of the silver screen.

In addition to the cast, interest is added by the fact that the picture is an adaptation of the famed Owen Davis melodrama, which long enjoyed uninterrupted vogue on Broadway. It is set in that febrile atmosphere of the white lights, where night is turned into day, and where people live riotously in the effort to jazz up their sensations to the same pitch as the incandescent lights.

The story deals with two extremes of Broadway life, the upper strata and the lower, and the way circumstances interweave them. Tired of the artificialities of his set, Ralph Norton, a typical pampered son of wealthy parents, but with a gentlemanly, decides to discover what life really is, by living it among the almost down-and-outers of theatrical boarding houses. Here he meets Rose Dulane, a young victim of unfortunate circumstances, working as a slavey. She is shadowed by a detective, who won't let her forget the fact that she served time in prison for theft. Ralph decides to find out if clothes really makes a woman, by sending her to his set. Then the plot comes fast and furious, with surprising developments.

OBITUARY

Miss Frances McGrath.
On Thursday evening, July 31st, Miss Frances McGrath died at her home in Carthage, N.Y., at the early age of twenty. Deceased young lady was beloved and esteemed by all who knew her, and possessed many bright qualities. Though ill for the last couple of months, her death came suddenly.

For the young life thus early taken away, great regret is felt throughout this city, where she was born and received her early education in Notre Dame convent, and her family has the deep sympathy of all who learned to esteem her for her many good acts of mind and heart. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her parents, one brother, Daniel, and one sister, Florence. Her funeral takes place on Saturday.

Defence Won Victory.
Chicago, Aug. 1.—Judge John R. Caverly overruled objections by state to alienist testimony offered in mitigation as to punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb. This is a decided victory for the defence as it established the right to give testimony on mental disease, short of legal insanity "not as defence but in mitigation of punishment." "It is the court's duty to hear this evidence," said Judge Caverly.

That which is necessary is doubly grateful if you offer it of your own accord.

Ornamental Handles for Auto Doors
A number of the lower-priced automobiles have the inside handles of door catches made in a very rough style. The crude appearance of these handles can be improved considerably by dressing them down on an emery wheel or grinding stone so that the dust caps used on automobile valve stems will fit over them snugly.

Ten Dozen Pies from One Pumpkin Are Served at Banquet
One pump pumpkin, grown in a California field, furnished joy for scores of inmates in an old people's home not long ago when it was presented to them and made into 125 pies for a dinner. More than sixty pounds of "meat" were extracted from the pumpkin, which weighed nearly ninety pounds as picked and still before being washed and prepared.

San Francisco, and awaiting deportation to Canada. He is the very best cook of hamburger steak in California. He says so himself, according to a despatch from San Francisco to the Toronto Star, whose correspondent there has been interviewing the former Ontario official on lunch counter activities in California, since his departure from Ontario, following revelations before public accounts committee.

"Jack Martin," who sent the telegram to Commissioner Williams of the Ontario Police saying he would give Mathews into custody if a suitable reward were offered, has already received proof that he is entitled to the reward of $1,000 offered for giving Mathews into custody in the United States. There is still a further reward of $1,500 payable when

Mathews crosses the border, and it is fairly certain that Jack Martin or the immigration officers working under his directions will now seek to get the $1,500 for turning him over to the Ontario Police. If such is the case it means that Mathews will be handed over to an officer of the Ontario Police, likely at Windsor, which is the point where he is thought to have entered the United States.
