STORY OF THE ORIGIN HUDSON BAY RAILWAY

Told by Prof. Vincent W. Jackson in Fine Address at Rotary Club.

Prof. Vincent W. Jackson was the special speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon at the British-American hotel on Friday and in brief, business-like and lucid style, explained to the members and their guests the origin of the Hudson Bay Railway scheme, its progress and the reasons for its present state. Prof. Jackson was appointed by the government in 1917, to make a survey of the road and the country about it and report on agricultural and mining possibilities, etc., and therefore knows his subject better than any other man could.

He explained that the railroad's being was a war outcome. The west, with its great wheat crop and long eastern route to the ocean for the European market, desired a closer port and the Northern Route was advanced. The submarine scare was in vogue and a German base off Newfoundland, shutting up the St. Lawrence and eastern coast ports, was feared. With anchorage and icebergs, submarines are impossible in the northern waters and thus the logical way—as with Archangel in Russia—was overland to Port Nelson on Hudson's Bay and through the north passageways.

The overland route was 436 miles long and of this 334 miles of railroad were laid, leaving 92 miles unfinished. The sum of $21,000,000 was expended and when it reached the point 92 miles from Port Nelson it was found that the harbor there was not ready and there was little use completing the railroad. At the present time the road is in that state but from neglect and disuse has deteriorated. It would cost ten or twelve millions more to put it through, but the west's argument is that it is better to invest that amount as a savior than to lose the whole sum previously expended. Port Churchill, a natural harbor, is ninety miles further than Port Nelson, or the latter may be developed.

The speaker said that the real market of the west, is to the west, where over 400,000,000 of Chinese and Japanese form the greatest potential market Canada could possibly have for its grain. The next thing is to get the Orientals to eat bread and Major Strange, grower of last year's world prize-winning wheat, advocates the system of importing some thousands of northern Chinese coolies for periods of three years and sending them back with reward for their labors—plus the bread-eating habit.

Prof. Jackson estimated that the bread-eating habit could be spread throughout the Orient in a decade by this means, and advanced the statement that rice, because of the labor in growing it, could not possibly compete. The west would then have its great market to the west and the two halves of Canada would be functioning in their proper manner for the common good—leaving the Hudson Bay Railroad as a problem unnecessary to solve.

The Rotarians were much interested and enlightened by Prof. Jackson's explanation of the situation and words of appreciation were spoken by H. D. Wightman, L. T. Best, President A. N. Lyster and Rotarian Daniel Fox, of Pasadena, Cal., who is with the Redpath Chautauque. Rotarian Fox pointed out the great work before Anglo-Saxon peoples and in his brief, but forcible remarks said that "those who in any way attempt to drive a wedge between the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack are enemies of the human race."

The big Rotary moonlight excursion to Gananoque on Friday evening next and the luncheon to which Rotarians are invited in Gananoque on the same date were discussed.

Rotarians "Sid" Smith and Harry Fense were congratulated on their birthdays, August first and second respectively. The singing, led by "Jack" Elder, was exceptionally good.

Guests at the luncheon included Prof. V. W. Jackson, University of Manitoba; Prof. W. T. MacClement, Queen's University; A. J. Evans; Rotarian N. P. Yowell, Orland, Florida; Rotarian Daniel Fox, Pasadena, Cal.; W. Burt Jackson, Chicago; H. L. Tanner, Stettler, Alta.; J. L. Chalmor, Chatham, Ont.

A short letter was received from "Rex" Snelgrove, telling of a recent short illness which prevented him having one hundred per cent. attendance at Rotary.

NOW THREATENS SUIT AGAINST THE VILLAGE

Interesting Case May Follow Over Trouble at Clayton Tea Room.

Watertown, N.Y. Times.
Accusing the board of trustees of the village of Clayton with arbitrary and discriminatory action against her business, Miss Theima Churchill, proprietress of the Silver Moon tea room in that community, has taken the matter up with Attorneys Breen & Reeves of this city and threatens a heavy damage action in supreme court unless reconsideration is taken of a recently adopted parking ordinance.

The Silver Moon Tea Room is located on the Main street of the village on the shore side and opposite the town hall. Miss Churchill began business there last year and this year has enjoyed a substantial patronage, much to the discomfort of other restaurant concerns, it was said. During the day and the evening she serves meals and at 9 an orchestra comes for dancing parties which attract people from various points. Light lunches are also served during the evening.

Jealous competitors are now charged with trying to exert an influence in the hope of killing her business, steps having been taken by the trustees to prevent the parking of automobiles in front of or within fifteen feet of either side of the tea room.

While there has never been any trouble of any kind at the tea room, and no claim is made that the street at that point is any narrower than in any other section, the trustees have had the spot marked off with no parking warnings, prohibiting parking at any time of the day or night. The only reason given by the board, it is said, is that it would be easier for the police to properly watch her place if there were no automobiles parked near it.

When the prohibited area was first marked off Miss Churchill's representative took the matter up with the village board at a regular meeting and was informed that no resolution or ordinance had been adopted authorizing the marking of the street. At a special meeting of the board on July 18th an ordinance was adopted prohibiting the parking of cars within 15 feet of any theatre, dance hall or restaurant, the penalty being $3 for each violation.

The claim is made by Miss Churchill that the ordinance was made general in order to be legal and that it is not being enforced with regard to others.

A petition signed by over 40 of the most prominent business men in the village has been procured stating that the Silver Moon Tea Room is a place of good reputation and that the ordinance should be rescinded if the village is to carry out its plan to bring people there instead of driving them away.

Customers of Miss Churchill's place like to leave their cars in front where they can watch them and unless the ordinance is repealed an action to test its validity will be started.

A PLEASANT EVENT.

A Golden Wedding Anniversary Was Celebrated at Mt. Pleasant.

Napanee Beaver.
On July 24th, an enjoyable afternoon was spent at the old homestead, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Fitchett, Anderson, in honor of their golden wedding day. Those who enjoyed this occasion were their seven children, four sons and three daughters, seventeen grandchildren and one great-grandson, making four generations present. The afternoon passed very quickly in the recalling of many past memories of fifty years ago, which both bride and groom enjoyed relating, which was very interesting to all. Supper was served about five, from tables, which were laden with many appetizing good things and prettily decorated with mixed flowers, mostly roses, and in the centre was indeed a cake worthy of mention, being a storey wedding cake, beautifully iced, and decorated with ribbon and hearts in an arch form, made by the bride for the occasion.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fitchett are still very active in doing their own necessary work. Although they retired from farming some years ago, they retain their cosy home on the farm, the birthplace of the groom. Congratulations were received from Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Page, Toronto, and many others, who were unable to be present; also flowers, which spoke for the love in which they were given.

After the supper was served came an abundance of ice cream, made by Mr. Eaton, Napanee. The bride and groom were taken by surprise, when they were asked to accept a filled envelope as a slight token of love
