A PUZZLE

"MA KEPT A LION." Little Willie had a bad habit of picking up everything he laid his hands on; one day he made a trip to the zoo, and brought a young lion home with him, so his mother kept the animal for him in the back yard. "The puzzle, however, is this; rearrange the letters in the statement 'Ma kept a lion,' and you can form a single word which will tell you little Willie's greatest fault.

Yesterday's answers: The first player pocketed the three striped balls, which were numbered 11, 14 and 15, a total of 42. The second player won the plain colored balls, numbers 1, 2 and 3, a total of 6. Six is the lowest possible total with three balls; 42 is the highest, and hence the only possible arrangement by which three balls could produce a total seven times as great as three other balls. In pool, 9-15 are always striped; so the winning player must have won the striped balls.

Captions That Capture

Thank! to the captions that head the different groups of opportunities in the Whig's A-B-C Classified Section, you don't have to read the whole section to find some specific opportunity.

These captions will capture your attention immediately—and enable you to capture your own little opportunity instantly.

But, as the saying goes, "We haven't said the half of it yet."

The captions which designate the main groups are amplified by sub-captions which in turn include a large number of smaller captions known as index terms.

As soon as you notice that captions, sub-captions and index terms are all alphabetically arranged in numerical classifications—you will realize the pains we have gone to in order to assure the reader convenience.

If the A-B-C Classified Section isn't worth your daily attention—nothing is!
