DRANK OUT OF BOTTLE IN AN ALLEYWAY

Tippler Was Asked to Have a Drink and Could Not Refuse the Offer.

People who happen to get a drop or so too much of liquor and land in the police nets find that the Ontario Temperance Act pinches very hard. For instance a young man who was placed under arrest for being intoxicated on Sunday, was on Wednesday morning in the police court given three months in jail, or until such time as he will disclose where he secured his liquor.

The accused pleaded guilty to being intoxicated, but stated that he did not know the name of a man who gave him a drink out of a bottle. Saturday night he had been drinking near beer in a Princess street hotel. About closing up time he started for home but on Princess street he met a couple of men. They were strangers and he was quite surprised when one fellow called out to him: "Hey there! would you like a drink?" "Well, now, can a duck swim?" said the thirsty one to himself. He accepted the kind hospitality extended to him. The fellow with the bottle led the way to a new alleyway, and the accused had two good drinks out of the bottle. After thanking the man who had the bottle, he then started for home, but from that time on he declared that his mind was a blank, but he had been told that he spent the night at the home of a friend. He was placed under arrest early on Sunday morning shortly after leaving the home of his friend.

Magistrate Farrell pressed the accused for all the particulars regarding how he secured the liquor, stating that it looked and appeared strange for the accused to be stopped by two strangers and given liquor in the way he had explained.

"People don't stop me in that way when I go down the street," remarked the magistrate.

The mixing of drinks has caused the downfall of many a man. A young fellow, who celebrated Labor Day with a few drinks of invalid port wine mixed with extract of lemon, started out to hit the high spots, and like the fellow who got the drink out of a bottle in a lane-way, landed in the police nets. Of course the magistrate had to ascertain how it all happened in order to comply with the O.T.A. The accused stated that he got the wine and the extract of lemon in his own home. This was the first time he had ever taken such a drink but as he could not get real liquor he had to take what he could get. The magistrate remanded him for a day.

INVITED TO JOIN.

The Cast of "The Mikado" for Production in Kingston. Kingston's musical circles have received a notable addition in the person of Prof. Joseph Andre, who has opened a vocal studio at C. W. Lindsay's Kingston store on Princess street, where he will train pupils for concert, dramatic, operatic and church work and the other forms of voice production.

Prof. Andre comes to Kingston with a wide reputation on both sides of the Atlantic. A native of Antwerp he has taught music in England, South Africa, the United States and Canada. He has achieved brilliant success as a director and has been engaged with the leading companies of two continents, conducting operas in the world's biggest cities. Among those for whom he acted as director might be mentioned Hammerstein, Grau, Morosco, Aborn, the Russian Imperial Opera Company, the Castle Square Opera Company, D'Oyly Carte, George Edwards (London), the Imperial Opera House (Berlin), the Antwerp Opera House and Van Lier's Theatre (Amsterdam). For ten years he was the director of the South African College of Music, Johannesburg. He has directed the Wanderer's Symphony Orchestra and he has visited Kingston on several occasions, with "The Firefly," the Boston English Opera Company, "So Long, Letty," Walter Scanlon's "Hearts of Erin," and last November as director of "The Maid of the Mountains."

Dr. Andre has had much experience in producing operas. When he was in Ottawa year before last, besides teaching singing he organized several operas, he produced two in Minneapolis, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Copella," and in Detroit, "Mikado" and "Il Trovatore." He intends to produce three operas in Kingston this coming season at the Grand, likely under the auspices of a local club. His first effort will be "The Mikado," to be given early in November. Work of this kind is both pleasant and of educational value, and ladies and gentlemen with good voices are asked to join the cast, which will include a hundred voices. Applicants should call at his studio for further information.

FORGET ME NOT

Go, youth beloved, in distant glades
New friends, new hopes, new joys to find,
Yet sometimes design, 'midst fairer maid,
To look on her show less 't behind.
Thy love, thy fate, dear youth, to share,
Must never be my happy lot,
But thou mayst grant this humble prayer,
Forget me not, forget me not!

Yet should the thought of my distress
Too painful to thy feelings be,
Heed not the wish I now express,
Nor ever design to think on me;
But, oh, if grief thy steps attend,
If want, if sickness be thy lot,
And thou require a soothing friend,
Forget me not, forget me not!
