Everything comes to him who goes.

Nothing agrees with a grouch, not even when he eats.

Nothing hurts your luck like having it in for somebody.

Some people are so absent-minded that they forget themselves.

No matter how much time a judge gives, he always has some left.

A man who doesn't know where he is going seldom gets anywhere.

It's an unlucky fisherman who doesn't even catch one to lie about.

They made beer in Egypt thousands of years ago, but it's all gone.

Nothing is harder on a woman's new clothes than one of her enemies.

It took six days to make the world, and still some want to change it in one.

The man who doesn't have to work might as well collect his life insurance.

Talent has little chance. Ananias never got to mention his golf score.

"Files talk," says a London scientist. Well, tell them to go swat themselves.

France may have the air if she will begin over here by taking the hot kid.

It is much easier to love all of God's little creatures if you have good screens.

Woman is superior. No more man can brag and make you think he is apologizing.

Our ambition is to be so rich that when we go broke we can call it financially embarrassed.

We have come a long way when Germany doesn't rattle anything except a promissory note.

And so Big Business is stopping the war at last. It is so much easier to stop a thing you start.

Another good thing for the nerves is an axe, if the neighbors are not too fond of their children.

Of course the criminal element should be in jail, but think what it would cost us to build the jail.

Generally a millionaire is one who cannot understand why anybody should wish to travel incog.

Vacuum cleaners are handy devices for men. A woman can't hit her husband over the head with one.

It's a funny world. When cold weather gives you more pep, there are no ants to pick out of the butter.

Add pitiful spectacles: When the Prize Stingy Man has squeezed out too much tooth paste and is trying to put it back in the tube.

BIBLE THOUGHT

PURE RELIGION and unfeared before God and the Father is this. To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.—James 1:27.

DEMANDIN HIS HEAD.

In referring to the two bye-elections in Quebec province, on the day following their occurrence, the Whig suggested that the Conservative defeat would probably furnish an additional reason for demanding the head of Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Tory leader.

It appears that the Whig was not far wrong in its supposition. Wednesday's Montreal Star, which dominates the party's past, present and future in that city, voices exactly the same sentiment.

"The Conservative party is suffering, not from lack of numbers, but from purblind leadership.

"The greatest army in the world cannot achieve victory without competent commanders."

WH Mr. Meighen please note! His own party newspaper in the metropolis refers to his "purblind leadership" and suggests that he is an incompetent commander, if that isn't a notice to quit, one wonders just what would constitute such a notice.

A government cannot intervene at any one stage of the process of production and distribution without upsetting the whole system.

CONTROL. A government cannot intervene at any one stage of the process of production and distribution without upsetting the whole system.

COMPLICATING OUR PROBLEMS. Everything is complicated, to a scientist. The celebrated Prof. A. S. Eddington tells an audience (and the explanatory parentheses are ours):

"Take the simple act of my mounting this platform, which is apparently solid. I place my foot on a platform that is travelling nineteen miles a second (with the revolving earth). My body, which apparently moves easily, is sustaining (atmospheric) pressure of fourteen pounds per square inch.

Nevertheless, we hasten to add, all that's happened is that he has stepped upon a platform.

A scientist, seeing a certain little animal, will say: "It's Mephitis mephitis, a common mammal, allied to the weasels. It can eject a very offensive secretion produced in two perineal glands."

Admittedly, scientific analysis leads to progress. But isn't science making life too complicated? Isn't it responsible for the widespread tendency of the people to view the simplest situations as if they were complex?

THE HOAX FOR THE DOLLAR.

An energetic young man lost his job on a New York newspaper the other day after his editors had convinced themselves that he had hoaxed them into printing as fact a wild and imaginative yarn about the operations of a "rum palace" just outside the 12-mile limit.

The sophisticated will err who suppose that the grief of the newspaper was that its hoax was exposed. The newspaper, be it recorded, did the exposing on its own account.

So it happens that the newspaper that knowingly prints a hoax, or a reporter who devises one, is convicted forthwith of stupidity and dullness. There is so much news to be written, there are so many interesting things to tell about, that the news men who can't fill their waking hours with the finding of them are too dull for words.

A WORLD WEATHER BUREAU.

A movement is underway to establish an internationally-owned observatory and wireless station on the shores of Baffin Bay to furnish weather reports to all the nations of the northern hemisphere.

Government weather reports are not yet absolutely accurate, however, despite the fact that all governments which issue weather reports co-operate by exchanging observations.

It is of no little importance that the station is to be owned and operated in common by all the governments deriving benefit from the service.

Canada's Story Day by Day. September 5. Providence often supplies a nation in distress with a man who is endowed with just the qualities required to meet and solve the problems of the day.

Mountain Sickness. We are adjusted to the pressure conditions, and particularly, the oxygen content of the air where we live.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D., Butler.

In a recent article I pointed out that the profession now thought that too much starch or sugar in the diet was a mistake, in the treatment of rheumatism.

That in the effort to make up for the lessening of the amount of meat eaten, too much of vegetables and bread was given. To overcome this more fat was suggested.

bring on the aviator's staleness. Most visitors who remain on Pike's Peak but a short time, suffer relatively little disturbance; those who stay over night or longer usually develop mountain sickness on the second day, experiencing headache, nausea, and dizziness.

To do nothing is the way to be nothing. Repentance is the May of the virtues.

The "Last of the Samaritans." of Biblical days, a colony living near Jerusalem, is in danger of dying out. Unless the colony, now but 125 strong, permits marriages outside its own members, which has been forbidden for 2,000 years, it will soon become extinct. Cast aside at the time of the building of the second Temple, as not being Jews, these Samaritans lived aloof. They practice Judaism in a simple fashion and their dress is that of the Arabs. The picture is of a high priest. The characters are a mixture of Arabic and Hebrew.
