THE KIWANIAN HEAR CONVENTION REPORTS

Men Not Making Living in Their Business Advised to Get Out of It.

There were several speakers at Monday's regular luncheon meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club but all were members and delegates who had attended the district convention at Hamilton. Frank J. Hoag, lieutenant-governor of the district, gave an account of the various trustees and governors' meetings and other important gatherings he had attended, with a short summary of the way the convention was run. Harry Wilder reported on boys' work and said that the school at Bowmanville for boys, similar to that at Shawbridge, Que., seemed like an assured thing. The convention had been very much in favor of it. Stewart Crawford gave a short report on the treasurers' meeting and informed the meeting that, as he had taken Vice-president William Moore's place at the convention, and had heard "Bill" say he wanted to see Niagara Falls, he therefore considered it his duty to see the Falls on behalf of "Bill" at the expense of the club. Secretary W. K. Macnee had a good report from the meeting of secretaries. They had found their main difficulty to be attendance. They recommended a monthly meeting of all committee chairmen with the executive and also passed a resolution that Kiwanis be extended overseas. President W. Y. Mills gave a very complete report on the convention. He mentioned the International President, Victor Johnston and International Vice-president Taylor, of Montreal. There were 517 delegates at the convention and the Kingston troupe had nothing but the highest praise for the manner in which it was conducted and the arrangements made by the Hamilton Club. The town of Barrie won the prizes for attendance and efficiency.

Kiwanian R. J. Rodger, one of the original members of the club, who is conducting the sale at the T. F. Harrison Company, was present and was warmly greeted. He was called upon for a few words, and in those few words delivered a splendid message. He advised any man not making a living in his present business to get out of it. "Formerly he had been a jeweler and now he was proud to call himself a professional auctioneer and one of those elevating that profession. "It is not so much what a man is as what he does," said Mr. Rodger, "and I have many opportunities in my travels of putting over an inspiring message." Jack d'Este, of the firm of Kinneer & d'Este, jewelers, was the booster for the day and each guest found a neat thermometer for home or office use at his plate. It was announced that Captain John Donnelly would be the booster at the next meeting.

Professor Andre, the splendid addition to Kingston's musical forces, kindly presided at the piano and also favored with an amusing little song. Jack Elder presided at the Kiwanis song. Canadian girls and the whole club joined in putting over the Kiwanis song, "Builders." Before the meeting broke up it was moved by Murdoch Johnston and seconded by Jack d'Este that the Kiwanis Club frame a suitable resolution of thanks and forward it to the Department of Militia for the re-appointment of Major-General Sir Archibald Macdonell to another year's term at the Royal Military College. "Sir Archie" was given a "rocket" and cheers. Visitors were: H. D. Wightman, Jack Elder, F. E. Deneh, R. J. Rodger, Toronto; and G. H. Hoag, Trenton. The latter resembled his brother Frank so closely as to cause considerable comment.

Their Golden Wedding Day. Rev. Albert L. Geen and Mrs. Geen, Belleville, on Monday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, the event being marked at their home, "Moody Cottage," in St. John the Baptist Church, Madoc, on Sept. 8th, 1874, Albert L. Geen and Miss Sara Ann Consuelo Forneri, daughter of Dr. Forneri, professor of Languages in Toronto University, were united in marriage by the Rev. Septimus Jones, M. A. Rev. Mr. Geen is a druggist. He was ordained a clergyman of the Anglican Church, June 7th, 1885, and has the longest record of any one in holy orders in the Anglican Church in this section. ROTARY MOTOR PARADE STIRRED UP CITY

Welsh Choir Concert at Grant Hall To-night Was Given Big Boost.

The members of the Kingston Rotary Club stirred up the old town on Monday night, when they held a motor parade to boost the Welsh choir, appearing at Grant Hall to-night, under the auspices of the club. It takes more than a downpour of rain to dampen the Rotary spirit, and although Old Jupiter Pluvius did his best to put the parade on the "bummer," fifteen cars turned out in the parade and it was a great success. Blowing horns, and with some of the members acting as "speakers" for the big choir concert, the parade moved off from the British American hotel at 7.30 o'clock, and made a tour of the city, and as an advertising "stunt" the parade was a great success. The residential as well as the business section was invaded by the Rotarians, and it is safe to say that nearly everybody in the city knew what all the fuss was about and it is hoped to fill Grant Hall to overflowing tonight for the musical event of the season. Tuesday was a big day with the members of the Rotary Club, as they not only had the choir concert on their hands, but also had a visit from the newly-appointed district governor, Clarence Williams, and a special luncheon was held at the club's headquarters at the British-American hotel in his honor. Governor Williams was the chief speaker at this event. There are lots of good seats left for the choir concert tonight and citizens who have not secured their seats in advance at Best's Drug Store will have every opportunity tonight to secure accommodation at Grant Hall.

ACTION OVER A CHILD

Mother Refuses to Give Up Daughter And is Summoned For Contempt.

Watertown, N. Y., Times. Mrs. Grace M. Cole who was recently arrested for contempt of court in refusing to obey the order of Judge Harold F. Porter, of the children's court to turn over her seven-year-old daughter, Kathleen Annie Cole, to the custody of the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cole of Cape Vincent, is being held in the custody of her attorney, T. Arthur Hendricks of this city. It appears that after the birth of the child the parents became separated and the child resided at different periods with its mother, its maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rookbrown, its paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cole of Cape Vincent and with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz of Theresa, where the child was placed for care, support and maintenance and where she now resides. Some time ago the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cole of Cape Vincent petitioned for custody of the child on the grounds that the child's mother was not giving her sufficient and proper guardianship and was not properly protecting the child's welfare. An examination of the home of the grandparents and the school which she would attend in Cape Vincent proved both to be of a proper sort and the court ordered Mrs. Cole to turn over the custody of the daughter to the parents of her husband. An examination was also made of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz in Theresa and found to be of a clean and respectable nature, but it was thought by the court that the child would receive better schooling and a better education in the home and school at Cape Vincent. The court therefore ordered the mother to place her child in the custody of her grandparents, but she refused to do so and is at present being held on a charge of contempt of court. No allegation was made that Mrs. Cole's conduct was in any way immoral or improper.
