WHY THE WEATHER?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS

The Last Heat of Summer. Raiph: "There is only one thing Although September is officially a fall month, there is still plenty of chance for hot, summerlike weather. Before the sun passes much beyond the equator, cloudy nights followed by clear days can produce temperatures worthy of mid-summer. At this time of year the day is as long in temperate latitudes as it is at the equator, and in dry weather the sun may shine as intensely. For, though the oblique rays here must pass through a longer atmosphere, this may be offset by lack of shielding moisture in the air. At the equator humidity is high; there are no cloudless, dry days such as ours. September hot spells may be long.

Readers are requested to contribute. All humor: epigrams (or humorous Lottoes), jokes, anecdotes, poetry, burlesques, satires, and bright sayings of children, must be original and unpublished. Accepted material will be paid for at from $1.00 to $10.00 per contribution; from 25c. to $1.00 per line for poetry according to the character and value of the contribution, as determined by the Editor of "The Fun Shop." All manuscripts must be written on one side of the paper only, should bear name of this newspaper, and should be addressed to Fun Shop Headquarters, 110 West 40th Street, New York City. Unaccepted contributions cannot be returned. as there is a tendency for "highs" to stagnate over the cool valleys of the Appalachians. Day after day south and southwest winds with clear skies - may prevail over a large part of central and eastern North America. With moderate to high temperatures over a wide range of latitude, and with ocean and lake temperatures about up to the average of the day and night air temperatures, there are few daughter, who have been visiting marked contrasts at such times to Neighbor (meeting the little boy friends in Rome, N.Y., for the past surge the pressure systems eastwards or to produce storms and Thomas Baker and Ralph Orser, strong winds. But this last heat of who have been visiting friends in summer is mitigated by the nights, which are longer and usually cooler. than earlier in the season.
