The Canadian Pacific Railway and The Canadian People

IN order that the people of Canada may have a clear understanding of the relation of the Canadian Pacific to the national interest and to the interest of the people individually, we have chosen the press of Canada as the medium through which to make a series of statements in which will be frankly told the story of the beginning and development of the road, and its services to Canada.

We believe the people of Canada will be interested in these statements. We believe when the people of Canada know and understand the relation of the Canadian Pacific to the country that the company will continue to receive its due measure of esteem and public confidence. The Canadian Pacific frankly desires this esteem and confidence because it is good business for a great corporation to be on terms of good will with its customers—the public.

Canada and the Canadian Pacific Railway must continue together the work of nation-building that was begun the day the C.P.R. commenced to fling its steel rails from coast to coast. This co-operation has been in the nature of a great partnership for the advancement of mutual interests.

It is one of the proudest pages of Canadian Pacific history that no government, no province, no community has ever lost a dollar through this national partnership. The record of the railway for forty years reveals one unbroken course of constructive achievement.

The creed of the Canadian Pacific has been to carry its own burdens, and to proceed with cautious and well-measured plans for the steady, forward march of its own and the national progress. Exploitation is unknown in its annals, despite the tremendous difficulties of financing in the lean eighties. For every dollar received from the nation, the Canadian Pacific has contributed an abundant dividend in national progress.

The partnership of mutual advancement must remain unbroken. It must not be weakened nor jeopardized by misunderstanding or lack of knowledge of the facts, so that the Canadian Pacific may continue to do its full share toward the greater development of Canada, as it has so abundantly proven its ability to do in the past.

of sentiment, but, confronted by such appeals, it does ask that its national significance, its record as a nation-builder and its world-wide services to Canada, be remembered.

The Canadian Pacific asks only to be judged by its past record and to be measured only by the service it renders. It makes no appeal for business on grounds
