Felt Hurt.
Mildred: "Why did you break off your engagement to Jack, dear?"
Betty: "Well, any man that thinks more of a few cigars in his vest pocket than he does of me, isn't worth bothering with."
—Herman White.

New Alibi.
Crabshaw: "How is it dinner is so late?"
Mrs. Crabshaw: "I had to wait so long in the barber shop."
—Mrs. P. B. Rogers.

The Female of the Species.
Most women have more clothes on their minds than on their bodies.

When a woman lies about her age, she's kittenish. When she lies about another woman's age, she's catty.

Local color is what most women get at a Beauty Parlor.

The difference between a chorus girl and a society girl is that the one has talent.

Women are like mushrooms. Either they're a delicacy or they're poison.

A society woman's "first aid kit" is her vanity case.
—Violet M. Leroy.

Never Satisfied.
"What a clever woman your wife is, Mr. Neers. I understand she makes all her own gowns, and such beautiful gowns, too."
"That's just it. She makes 'em so durned beautiful that it keeps me broke buying hats to match 'em."
—Mrs. J. C. Gilmartin.

Close Work.
Madge: "I like those hugging dances."
Marjorie: "So does Charlie. He's a regular bear at them."
—Henry Wollberg.

A Question.
A "Jelly" of the present time rushed into a Cafe.
He turned unto the waitress.
And this to her did say:
"Oh, just one real soft scrambled egg."
The Waitress (wicked elf!) said: "It that an order, please sir. Or to announce yourself?"
—D. B. H.

It repairs songs were illustrated.
"No, No, Nora."

Pleasure and Business.
"Mabel is a lucky girl. Every winter her husband takes her south for a month or six weeks."
"Did she marry a millionaire?"
"No, a professional baseball player."
—Isaac Anderson.

Her Fate.
Friend: "What happened to that peach of a stenographer you had?"
Business Man (dryly): "Oh, we had to 'can' her for not getting down here on time."
—Oscar Brockhausen.

Brace Up.
All collars with Summer timidity. Have now resumed Autumn rigidity. They no longer shrink. Or disgracefully sink. As they did through the heat and humidity.
—H. P.

Naturally.
De Style: "What is a hymn of fate?"
Gunbusta: "The fellow who calls on the girl you love."
—E. P. Pitzer.

Saved.
He did everything he thought would aid him in gaining her favor—denouncing anyone she denounced, praising whomever she praised, reading what she read, disapproving of the plays she condemned, selecting the sports she selected, admiring the fashions she adopted, em-

COMMANDS ZEP.

Bracing the fads she embraced, studying what she studied, and even sticking to the dishes that she relished most.

It all grew most monotonous and it rather militated against his winning his way into her heart.

"The trouble with you," she said, "is that you have no views or opinions of your own."

"Oh, I have," he answered, "I think you are the loveliest most charming, most adorable and the dearest girl in all the world."

That was original enough for her and the wedding days had been named.

—Nathan M. Levy.

His Dish.
Lazy Tramp (looking for a free meal): "Gee, lady, I'd chop all that wood for yer, only me clothes is all in scraps."
Wise Housewife: "Scraps, eh? You better beat it before I call the dog. He's very fond of scraps."
—A Van Baren.

Pretty Tough.
"Before we were married," remarked the pretty young woman who had married the aged millionaire, "my husband said he would die for me, and now he won't!"

Readers are requested to contribute. All humor, epigrams (or humorous letters), jokes, anecdotes, poetry, burlesques, satires, and bright sayings of children, must be original and unpublished.

Other Afternoon Events.
The fat men's race (80 yards) was won by A. Pullen. The boy cadets' half mile race was won by Bernard Harte, with Thomas Burns second. The shot-put was won by Sgt.-Major Hodgson, who threw the 16-pound weight 25 feet four inches.

The prizes, including handsome silverware, were presented by J. Sowards. Harry Hauns was in charge of these sports. There was also a hidden treasure hunt, a card, labelled with "hidden treasure" and Mr. Haunt's name and address, being hidden about the grounds, but up till the evening no one had reported finding it and claiming the prize.

The P.V.O.R. band, under Bandmaster Christmas, was stationed in the grand stand and dispensed a very acceptable programme of music throughout the afternoon.

The Evening Programme.
The last night's programme included acrobatic feats and trapeze work, by the Devries troupe, military manoeuvres by the dozen riders of the R.M.C. riding establishment and the closing performance of the Kingston Historical Pageant. While not packed at an early hour as on the other four nights of the fair, the grand stand was well filled, and its occupants were loud in their expressions of appreciation of the evening's exhibit. From the moment that the 49 little Maple Leaf girls marched out till the tontie ensemble joined in the National Anthem, the crowd's interest never lagged and applause was freely given every episode.

The Directors had undertaken to guarantee $100 to each of the two city hospitals from the proceeds of this concluding performance.

The Closing.
As the whole cast assembled at the close, six Sea Scouts carried out in front of the grand stand the big Kingston Industrial Exhibition flag. It was followed by the directors of the fair association. Then Mr. Bushell addressed the pageant people, congratulating them and thanking them most heartily for their services. Then the floral bouquets were presented to Miss M. Going, to Mrs. Holloway Waddell (Britannia), to Mrs. F. H. Macnee (Canada), and Miss Nevada Best (Kingston). Then Mr. Bushell addressed a few remarks to the grand stand. Seven years ago people had said Kingston couldn't have a fair. But the executive had kept at it and he would leave it to the people of Kingston whether or not they had at exhibition. The National Anthem closed the programme.

Later the fair directors gathered at a chicken supper and talked over the success of their big undertaking.

Canada's Wheat King Dies.
Montreal, Sept. 20.—James Carruthers, grain merchant and director of financial institutions, picturesquely referred to in past years as "Canada's wheat king," died last evening at the Montreal general hospital, to which institution he had been taken in the afternoon following a seizure in his office. Mr. Carruthers had during the early part of the day shown his usual interest in business, but after lunch he complained of an illness and, then hurried to hospital. Hemorrhage of the brain ensued and death followed.

Mr. Carruthers was known from coast to coast and beyond the boundaries of the Dominion because his particular activities made him an international figure, and his name was known in the United States and Europe. The late Mr. Carruthers was born in Toronto, August 13th, 1863.

DONALD KIRKE GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

Popular Actor Says Medicine Completely Overcame Stomach Trouble and Nervousness.

That Montreal playgoers are literally packing the Orpheum Theatre at every performance is at once a tribute to the high standard of the entertainment offered and to the finished artistry of the famous Duffy stock players, not the least popular of whom is Donald Kirke.

Mr. Kirke is not only a favorite on the legitimate stage, but in a screen player of note, and it is a further tribute to his consummate acting that, even while tortured with stomach trouble, nervous and other ills, he kept "on with the play" day in and day out until he found relief by taking Tanlac. As he says:

"My stomach had almost failed me and I wonder now how I ever kept up. I ate so little. Nights I would toss and turn for hours in nervousness; piercing sick headaches made me suffer agony, and at times on the stage I was so nervous, weak and trembly that I could hardly remember my lines."

"I would have given a thousand dollars to get the relief Tanlac has given me for less than five dollars. My appetite was never better. I eat everything and have gained 12 pounds. I'm never a bit weak or nervous, never have a headache, and I feel fine. I will gladly confirm these facts by phone or letter."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of T.

Commander J. H. Klein, U.S.N., has sailed for Germany to assume command of America's giant new dirigible ZR-3. It will be delivered to this government at Friedrichshafen.
