How The War Helped Our Cause. (Crawf. C. Slack.) I have often heard it stated there was good and bad in all.

We built a place of worship, "way back here in ninety-nine; Had a union congregation, everything was working fine.

At first we started passing Deacon Skinnin's castor hat, But after years of patience we did away with that.

Elder Gore had bought an auto; and had paid for it in part, And we all knew well the Elder couldn't buy a kiddy-cart.

This seemed to right the matter, but only for a time, For where we used to get a quarter soon we only got a dime.

Then we called another meeting to select and wisely plan, And shrewd Silvester Skinner of judgment picked the man.

For Silas had been through the war and only had one arm, We're going to build a rectory for we've money in the bank;

Course, we reverence Deacon Skinner but we have the war to thank, It's about the only blessing I off-hand can call to mind.

But I've no doubt there are others of a less important kind.
