Through the glorious September sunshine on Friday afternoon a party of returned men, who are still suffering from the results of the world's war, were motored to Loughboro Lake. Through a farm lane belonging to Mr. A. J. Smith, they found their way to the lake where boats were procured and the afternoon spent on the water. Some of the party fished most successfully and others rowed the ladies of the party on the lake to their great enjoyment. A sailboat in the hands of some skilful sailors was experimented with, and the crew declared they had the best of it when they reached the anxious ones on the shore who were afraid to trust themselves in the rather ancient craft. Then a sumptuous tea was cooked and enjoyed in the splendid maple grove. Long shadows fell across the grass and the last rays of the setting sun dyed the red leaves of the big maple a deeper hue. The lake was lovely in its stillness and the reflection of the trees on the north shore of the lake was touched with red and gold. "Hot dogs" made to perfection by the camp cook and garnished with mushrooms gathered by one of the party, and corn boiled on the convenient stove, were the main features of the tea. A game of baseball on the field was brought to an abrupt close by the arrival of the cars and the people who had spent a happy afternoon drove home in the shading light pitying their friends who had spent this long golden days in the heart of the city. Among the ladies assisting Miss Isabel Ross, convener of the hospital committee of the Red Cross, were Mrs. T. G. Smith, Mrs. H. F. Richardson and Miss Jean McFadyen.

Ross, of Vancouver, B.C., whose marriage took place a short time ago in Kingston to Mr. John Wingate McLimont. The house was decorated for the occasion with flowers and foliage, the former being chiefly white gladioli. General Hospital Tag Day, Saturday, Oct. 4th. Be generous.

The Editor hears

That Mr. R. J. Bushell was most generous in the matter of passes to the returned men who are still under medical care. They enjoyed the big fair and the historical pageant free of charge.

That the people who were brave enough to remain in their cottages, and not be driven in by the first cold snap, are rejoicing. This is one of the loveliest seasons of the year in the country, and the slight frost has touched the maples with red and gold.

That the Conway Woman's Institute has shown a good example by giving prizes to the boys and girls at the school fair for sight reading, writing and public-speaking. Only scholars who came from school sections in which Institute members live are allowed to compete for these prizes.

That Miss Edna Lockett has taken over the work of general secretary of the Kingston Y.W.C.A. for the present, to everyone's delight. Miss Lockett is a Canadian and as such is sure to have the support and co-operation of the members of the board and the various clubs of the "Y," as well as the boarders in the building.

That the belt line, when there is one, is creeping upwards and we are threatened with the old short waist which we used to think so smart some years ago.

St. John's School Club. There was a very good attendance at the meeting of St. John's Home and School Club Friday evening and several new members joined. Arrangements were made for a tea and sale in October. The business over, refreshments were served and all enjoyed a pleasant social time.

Last Sunday George Methuen commenced his engagement as organist and choir master in Knox church in Perth. Mr. Methuen went to Perth from Carleton Place.

TOMORROW'S MENU. Breakfast: Grapefruit, Cereal, Griddlecakes, Sirup, Coffee, Toast. Dinner: Roast Chicken, Brown Gravy, Potatoes, Spinach, Pineapple-Tomato Salad, Ice Cream, Coffee. Supper: Potato-Egg Salad, Quick Biscuits, Tea, Preserves, Cake or Doughnuts.

The Care of Your Sink. The inexperienced housewife is likely to neglect her sink through ignorance of the proper preventive measures which keep it in good condition.

To prevent clogging of the sink drain by grease, to say nothing of the needless labor in caring for it, it pays to scrape all soiled dishes and cooking pans into a pail before washing them. A rubber-edged plate-scraper is excellent for this task.

Enamel or Porcelain Sinks are kept clean by washing with soapy water and wiping occasionally with a cloth moistened with kerosene oil. The dishpan should be mounted on rubber feet to prevent scratching the porcelain. Or, better yet, buy a rubber mat to lie in the bottom of the sink, for all pots and pans to stand on.

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE.

Conway. The September meeting of the W.I. took place at the home of Mrs. Norman Galt on September the ninth with an attendance of nineteen members and the president and vice-president in their places.

The meeting opened in the usual way with the opening ode followed by the Lord's prayer. The lady who was expected to give a temperance address sent her regrets that she was unable to attend.

Mrs. W. A. Brown, Detroit, Mich., has returned home after visiting her mother, Mrs. R. W. Allen, University avenue.

Mrs. W. D. Soles and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Craig and children have returned to their home in Ellsabeth, N.J., by motor after spending the past two weeks with Mrs. R. W. Allen, University avenue.

Y PRETTIER GIRLS.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—America boasts of a hundred pretty girls today where there were only ten two decades ago, declared Emily Lloyd, well-known beauty-specialist, in an address here. The modern girl is no more shapely nor has she lovelier hair or skin than her mother, but she has learned to care for the accentuate those things which enhance her appearance, the expert explained.

"Beauty is a matter of taking thought," asserted Emily Lloyd. "Nowadays a girl not only thinks about being attractive, but she thinks about the things which will make her attractive. A healthy, well kept skin is one of the first requisites of beauty. So she cares for her skin by nightly applications of cream as religiously as she cleanses her teeth or brushes her hair."

"She gives attention to her nails, to her hair, to her clothes, to her health. Where the pallid anemic mid-Victorian belle pined languidly for the fairy prince, the girl of 1924 hastens his coming by making herself fair to behold. In spite of the criticism of this age, the modern girl is probably far less artificial in the use of cosmetics than her prototype of the nineties."

some unknown stain it is often necessary to use the following cleaning agent: Buy from a druggist a little muriatic acid (this is a poison, so should be carefully handled). To one part of this acid add ten parts of water. Apply this mixture with a swab of cotton tied to a skewer (never with the hands). Then rinse the porcelain well with ammonia and water. The ammonia, which is an alkali, will check the action of the acid on the glazed finish of the porcelain.

Slate and Iron Sinks require an occasional cleaning with some form of abrasive also. Kerosene is also useful here to remove greasy deposits. On an iron sink kerosene will remove rust. Steel wool, moistened with linned oil, will keep iron sinks smooth and clean.

To Clear A Sink Drain when Stopped: Dissolve one-quarter of a pound of copperas in two quarts of boiling water, and pour this down the drain, then flush with clear, hot water. Or, if preferred, use one pound of lye dissolved in six quarts of boiling water, to flush the drain, followed by the boiling water. Another method is that of pouring one gallon of boiling water down the drain, followed by one cup-full of kerosene to form an emulsion with the grease in the pipe; after ten minutes flush with boiling water. Never use washing soda (sal soda) to clear a sink drain, as it combines with the grease to form a hard soap.

Scientific Frankness on a subject known as woman's oldest problem THIS is a subject which vitally interests every woman. A subject every woman will understand. Modern science has found a better way—safer, less embarrassing, more hygienic—than the old-time "pad." It is called KOTEX. Discovered in wartime France, now 8 in 10 women in the better walks of life have discarded makeshift methods for it. KOTEX is far more absorbent than ordinary cotton. It absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture. All leading hospitals today use Kotex. KOTEX

Women who seek daintiness, peace of mind, exquisiteness and security under all circumstances, use it. Once you do, no other method will ever satisfy. And millions will tell you this. KOTEX is sold in all department and drug stores; two sizes—Regular and Super (extra thickness). Each box contains twelve immaculate, snowy white folds, ready-for-immediate use, simply by asking for KOTEX.
