RT. HON. SIR R. BORDEN INSTALLED AT QUEEN'S

but drones or even less in a democratic community. On the ceaseless loom of time have been woven many textures, long since worn out and useless, of government and organization of society. Latterly there has been fashioned this fabric of democracy which has lasted but for a moment of the world's countless ages. Will it be soon outworn, or will it endure? On our conception of duty, our ideal of service, and our fulfilment of both rests the answer.

Following the address of Sir Robert Borden, the conferring of the honorary degrees was then proceeded with, the candidates being introduced by Principal Taylor and the degrees being conferred by Chancellor Borden. Principal Taylor gave a history of the splendid work carried on by the five men who received this honorary degree and all were warmly applauded by the audience.

Premier Ferguson Speaks.
After the honorary degrees had been conferred, Principal Taylor called upon Premier Ferguson, who delivered a short address and was given a lively reception by the students. Just as the premier arose to speak, several banners were dropped from the gallery and the various slogans on the banners caused no small amount of amusement. Among the slogans were the following: "More Beer and Better Babies;" "Vote Dry and Protect the Bootleggers;" "A little brown jug also formed part of the decorations.

Glancing at the banners, Premier Ferguson took the joke good naturedly, and remarked that he would have nothing to say on the question raised—he preferred to remain neutral, and in a jocular way stated that the students would have to refer this question to Hon. W. F. Nickle, attorney-general, who occupied a seat on the platform, and much laughter followed.

Premier Ferguson took occasion to congratulate Sir Robert Borden on the high honor which had been conferred on him by Queen's. He paid a warm tribute to Queen's and the service the university is rendering in the affairs of the university. His father was one of the earliest graduates, having graduated in 1859. The growth and development of Queen's had been wonderful. The university had turned out many eminent men in education.

Premier Ferguson said that he had followed with keen interest the course of Queen's for many years. Kingston as an educational centre, had a feature that no other place had, in that every citizen of Kingston took an interest in the university and the students. The students he pointed out, did not depend alone on the lecture room, as they had the warm support of every resident of the city. "And you do not know what that means," said the speaker, "only the students can tell you what that means."

"As minister of education I am also interested in Queen's," said Premier Ferguson in his closing remarks. "Queen's has always had my sympathy, my co-operation and my assistance. I know something of Queen's and the university will not only have my sympathy but also a helping hand so long as I am in authority."

Premier Ferguson was greeted with loud applause as he closed his address.

A Tablet Unveiled.
Prof. Alexander McPhail had the honor of unveiling a tablet to the memory of the late Prof. J. C. Gillill, for many years on the staff of Queen's School of Science, and made a most touching reference to Prof. Gillill, who for some eighteen years, was on the college staff, and who held the warm esteem of the teaching staff and the students of the university.

Prof. McPhail pointed out that the tablet had been donated by professors and former students of the deceased, in appreciation of the noble service he had rendered the university. Prof. Gillill, he said, was widely known as a mining engineer. He was also widely known for his generosity and for his interest in the students. So long as Queen's had men of the stamp of Prof. Gillill, there need be no fear for the welfare of the university.

Principal Taylor also added his tribute to the late Prof. Gillill, stating that he had been a powerful figure in the university. He was a man who had a great influence on the university.

District Medical Meeting.
The district medical meeting of the Ontario Medical Association concluded its business on Friday evening. During the day clinics were held at focal hospitals and addresses were delivered by Dr. George S. Young, president of the Ontario Body, and Dr. T. C. Routley, secretary of both the Ontario and Canadian Associations. The laying of the Clinical building corner stone and the Queen's Convocation were taken in by the doctors and their official business finished with an address by Dr. Hendry, of the University of Toronto. Most of the members in town for the meeting will be here for the football game to-day.

Every family would be healthier for a green salad served daily with a dressing of oil and lemon juice rather than a mayonnaise sauce. See Tweddell's $22.50 Overcoats. One nice thing about having enemies is you can blame things on them instead of on yourself.

HUGHES AND DAVIS FOR THE UTILITIES

Two Prominent Business Men Who Would Strengthen the Commission.

Two places are to be filled on the public utilities commission at the municipal elections in December, and the people should exercise care in their selection. Men of business ability and good common sense are needed to direct the city's utilities, and two leading citizens who are suggested for membership on the commission are Ex-Mayor John M. Hughes and John H. Davis, head of the Davis Drydock Company. Both of these gentlemen are well-qualified to sit.

Mr. Hughes, when mayor of Kingston for two years, sat on the utilities commission as an ex-officio member and therefore has had a splendid insight into the workings of the water, gas and electric plants. He represented the city council most ably when he was on the commission. It is understood that he will consent to permit his name to be placed in nomination for the forthcoming elections, and the people would be wise in voting for him as one of their representatives.

Mr. Davis is the other leading business man who has been urged to again offer himself for election. When he ran last December his candidature was not pressed and many voters did not know that he was in the contest. Mr. Davis is head of a

RAILWAY SIDING
FOR DYE FACTORY
The Board of Works Gives Permission Asked for by Dr. F. W. Atack.

A special meeting of the Board of Works was held on Friday afternoon to deal with a couple of communications from Dr. F. W. Atack, president of the Dye and Chemical Company of Canada, Ltd.

In his communications Dr. Atack pointed out that it will be necessary for the company to continue the present siding on Orchard street, across River street to a point on Orchard street 250 feet north of the north limit of River street. He asked that the company be granted the necessary permission, and this the committee decided to do, subject of course to the city council and the railway board, and there is not expected to be any opposition whatever.

Dr. Atack stated that it was the intention of the company to place their offices at the corner of Orchard and River street, and asked if the city would make a reasonably satisfactory road to a point approximately 150 feet from the east corner of Orchard and River streets. This matter was referred to the city engineer.

The chairman, Ald. Peters, presided at the meeting, and the other members present were Alds. Johnston and Sargent and Godwin.

See Tweddell's $22.50 Overcoats. There's a new coat model that is most interesting, with a belt in the back, a two-button closing in front and a tailored collar with a manish beaver choker. It is infinitely more comfortable than the more capelike model, which must be held in place. Very fine, pleatings, edge the tunics of some of the most attractive new frocks and sometimes there is a fine stitching of silver or gold thread.

See Tweddell's $22.50 Overcoats. For many years the deceased lived with and assisted her brother, Dr. S. B. Sinclair, inspector of auxiliary classes for Ontario, and her death will be mourned by ex-students and teachers of the Hamilton, Ottawa and Macdonald Training School, and by many other friends. She was an active member of the executive of the Queen's Alumnae Association.

See Tweddell's $22.50 Overcoats. Many metal laces showing a glint of color are used for evening gowns—laces of all kinds and descriptions are quite the rage.
