VERY KEEN CONTEST WAGED IN KINGSTON

The Prohibition Forces Have More Women Workers Than the Other Side.

The leaders of the Prohibition and the Moderation League forces figured on Thursday morning that the plebiscite contest would be very keen. Sharp at eight o'clock the workers for both parties were on the job and there were many voters then on hand to cast their votes on this very important occasion.

The Prohibition forces had a fine organization and there were dozens of women among their band of workers. The Moderation League workers consisted in the most cases of men.

The prohibition forces have things so arranged that there was a man and a woman acting as inside scrutineers in all the polls.

Both parties had numerous cars which were kept busy during the whole day.

In the county it was stated that the workers were very active. The fine weather will be a good thing for the county voters.

The polls opened at eight o'clock and will not close until six o'clock so the result of the vote in Kingston will not be known until about 7.30 o'clock.

The day was marked by many stirring arguments and lively scenes around the polls.

Two ladies created a stir at one of the booths. It is claimed that one lady tried to tell the other how she should vote. The lady in question did not like the idea of being instructed. She resented the interference and told the other lady to mind her own business.

Frank Kiah Did Not Get From Under In Time.

Mrs. F. J. Smith, 29 Arch street, has received a letter from the MacLachlan Bros., Ltd., manufacturers of sawn lumber, Arnprior, giving particulars of the death of her son, Frank Kiah.

It appears that he was working on the main road with other men, some of whom were engaged in felling a dead birch tree. As the tree began to fall, the men shouted, as usual, to give warning to others working near, and the men got out of the way, except Frank, who appeared to have moved in the wrong direction, the tree striking him and killing him instantly.

Deceased was thirty-eight years of age and had for many years been engaged in the lumbering business. Much sympathy will be extended to members of the family in their sad bereavement.
