CAPTAIN PLUNKETT'S DUMBELLS HERE

Played to Big Audience at Grand Thursday Evening—Here for Week-end.

Although the Dumbell Concert Party has visited Kingston on a number of occasions during the past six years, and played to large audiences, it is safe to say that this popular company was never given a greater reception than on Thursday evening when it opened a three-day engagement at the Grand Opera House. "Ace High," which is being presented, is certainly a top-notch. It is a difficult matter to arrange a show that will satisfy all, but judging from the applause given by a capacity house, Capt. Plunkett has this year something which meets with the approval of all.

It would be almost impossible to praise one number more than another, as all are splendid. Capt. Plunkett's orchestra certainly met with a great ovation when it made its appearance in the second part of the programme, and was called upon to respond with a number of encores. Capt. Plunkett, "Al" Plunkett and Morley Plunkett received a great hand when they sang "Gee, I Wish I Were a Kid Again."

Since the last appearance in Kingston of the Dumbells, "Red" Newman has rejoined his old company, and has brought all his former "pep" with him. A skit entitled "A Coffee Stall," in which "Red" Newman and Pat Rafferty play the leading roles, is one big laugh. As an opening number the company presents a very amusing sketch, "An Unexpected Arrival."

Stan Bennett of "Archibald" fame, is better than ever, and his impersonation of an English officer in the first sketch, also his songs, made a decided hit.

"Al" Plunkett is as popular as ever, and one of his new numbers, "Shall I Have It Bobbed or Shingled," was received with great applause. Glen Allan gave two dance numbers which proved to be very popular with the audience. Ben Allen, the famous "colored gentleman," lived up to his former excellent acting.

On account of the illness of Ross Hamilton, "Marjorie," Jack Holland stepped into the breach and filled the part in a most capable manner.

Capt. Plunkett, in a brief speech, thanked the citizens of Kingston for the support which they had given him in the past, and said that the members of his company are always delighted to visit this city.

"Ace High" will be presented at the Grand on Friday and Saturday evenings, with a bargain matinee on Saturday afternoon. There is a great demand for tickets, in fact on Thursday evening every available seat was sold hours before the theatre opened. There is a big advance sale for Friday and Saturday evenings, therefore those wishing to see "Ace High" had better "get busy," as record attendances promise to be broken.

FUN AND FROLIC AT ROTARY CLUB EVENT

"Ladies' Night" Provided Very Pleasant Time for Members and Guests.

The Kingston Rotarians had a night of fun and frolic on Thursday evening. The occasion was "Ladies' Night," and as they say in theatrical circles, "went over big."

Everything the Rotary Anns take hold of goes with a bang, and it was truly a bang-up affair from start to finish. There was a very large attendance, with something doing every minute. The Rotary Anns "dressed up" for the occasion, making it a Halloween party. Attired in white cloaks and their identity unknown as the result of their special headgear, which consisted of "pumpkin heads," the Rotary Anns made their way from the parlor of the British-American hotel to the dining room. Rotarians as well as the Rotary Anns, were given numbers, and the Rotarians were called upon to pick out their partner. The Rotary Anns put off their headgear after sitting at the tables for a short time, and then the secret of "Who's Who," was revealed.

Following the splendid dinner, there were a number of very interesting "stunts" were put on, and as a windup to the very pleasant evening, card playing was indulged in. Miss Mullin and Mr. Frank Coates were the winner in the game of Five Hundred, while Mrs. A. N. Lyster captured the prize for bridge. The tables looked very pretty with Halloween decorations and the arrangements were perfect in every respect, reflecting great credit to the ladies in charge.

HOUSE BURNED DOWN.

Neighbors at Escott Able to Save Furniture.

Pool's Resort, Oct. 31.—On Wednesday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. William Fair returned home from Escott, they were horror stricken to see their house enveloped in flames. One of the school children had given the fire alarm, and in a short time a number of men were gathered at Mr. Fair's home trying to conquer the fire. Their efforts were futile, as there was a strong wind. They succeeded in removing quite a few pieces of furniture.

Death of R. H. Smart, Brockville.

Brockville, Oct. 31.—Robert H. Smart, president of the Brockville firm of R. H. Smart Company, Limited, hardware dealers, died suddenly on Wednesday morning at Santa Monica, Cal., where he had resided since November last. He was seventy-three years of age, and was always prominently connected with the business life of Brockville, his native town. In 1876 he became a partner in the hardware firm of Bogue & Smart, which continued until 1882. Thereafter he conducted the business alone, and when the company was incorporated he was elected its president. Besides his wife, formerly Miss Margaret McLaren, of Whitty, he is survived by a son and daughter, at Santa Monica, Cal.

AT QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY
By Our Student Correspondent.

Variety is a note of the Queen's Theological Alumni conference's programme. On its fourth night the graduates were the guests of the Queen's Faculty Players, when they put on two short plays in Convocation Hall.

"The Philosophers of Butterbiggens" by Harold Chapin, one of the plays presented, took the audience to the suburbs of Glasgow where two generations exchange views on education. The other was a phantasy by Dunsany, "The Lost Silk Hat," showing how an innocent piece of headgear was the means of mending a lovers' quarrel. The parts were very ably taken by members of the staff and their families and the audience extended the warmest marks of approval.

At the evening's close refreshments were served. The conference closed Friday forenoon with Prof. MacIver's fourth lecture, his subject being "Civilisation—Progress and Decline."

I. McLachlan won the college singles championship on Thursday afternoon when the men's finals were played between the final year science student and J. E. A. Lind-say, of Meds. '28. Five games were called for, of which McLachlan won three.

The finals of the girls' tennis singles were won by Miss Shore on Wednesday.

The team of boxers chosen for the assault in Napanea Friday night includes W. Bartels, C. H. Ployart, Taylor, Legon, McGowan, Beck and Ellis.

The course laid out at the R.M.C. for the intercollegiate harrier race on Saturday morning covers six miles and sixty yards. Starting at the college it goes down to the causeway and across the commons to the Gananoque Road, which is followed for a considerable distance. The return to the college follows the line of the shore of Dead Man's Bay.

A tea-dance and another Rugby Club dance are after-the-game events being arranged for Saturday.
