Ashes To Ashes.
"When the frost is on the punkin And the fodder is on the shock," That's the time we hunt up Uncle For the overcoat in hock; Then we put away the ice flag; Start again the furnace fire,
And begin to cart out ashes!
Gosh! How that does raise my ire!

Poets do a lot of raving Praising winter's snow and ice;
If they were of my opinion They would not think it so nice.
For when spring at last approaches All it seems that I have done Was to spend nights, noons, and mornings Carting ashes by the ton.

In my soul I am a rascal;
I would like to fight and cheat, Hold up trains and shoot the sheriff;
Robbing banks would be a treat;
But I lead a life of virtue For I fear, when I have died, They would set me carting ashes Over on the other side

Jinks: "You're just like me.

lightly for fear of waking baby." Blinks: "Which baby do you mean?"
Jinks: "Which baby do you?"

The Reason.
Visitor (observing new radio set):
"I didn't know you were crazy about radio."
Henpeck: "Well, confidentially, I'd rather listen to that than to my wife."
—Mrs. Charles Lambert.

Taking A Hint.
All men in swimming he excelled,
He told the maiden he adored,
And so the charmer felt impelled To throw the boaster overboard.
—L. D. Stanbury.

It Can't Be Done.
The humorist was feeling very friendly with all the world. He had just sold a joke to THE FUN SHOP for five dollars and was making happily for a beanery to feed his famished stomach.
Passing the show window of a hardware store he stopped to look at an enormous pair of sheet metal shears fully two feet long. "Manicure scissors?" he remarked to the clerk.

The clerk looked at the humorist in astonishment. "Mercy no!" he replied. "Those are shears used for sheet metal workers. Manicure scissors are little, tiny things!" The humorist hurried on. He arrived at the beanery and seated himself. The place was called "The President's cafe." The humorist eyed his glass containing the ice water. Someone had eaten eggs recently, and the dishwasher was not through.

"The next time the president comes in," remarked the humorist to the blonde waitress, "I wish you would ask him to tell the dishwasher to put in more time on the glasses."
"Why," said the female bean slinger, "he never eats here—he's in Washington."

That afternoon they found the humorist's body in the river. On his stilled and silent features there was a look of great and indescribable sadness.
But they never knew why! They never knew why!
—Leona Bagwell.

The Formalities.
Gene: "Marry me right away." Marion: "Oh, I couldn't do that!
Wait until tomorrow."
—Anne Toohy.

Call the Doctor.
While his mother was dressing him little Russell, five years old, was looking at his hand.
"Oo look!" he suddenly yelled to her, "my middle finger done beat all dem other ones growing." —M. S. Michel.

Misleading.
Dore: "Darling, I want nothing except to make you happy." Anita: "Gracious! I thought for a moment you were going to ask me to marry you."
—Jem.

"Yes," chuckled the beauty specialist, "success in this business depends a lot on rubbing people the right way."

GANANOQUE

Mrs. Lillian Taylor, who left here a couple of days ago for Ottawa, will sail for Europe the end of the week to spend the next few months.
W. Beatty, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beatty, Garden street, leaves today for New York.

Among those who went up to Kingston for the "Dumbells" last evening were—Misses Lola Baker, Rhea Haynes, Margaret Chapman, Marion Watson, Ella Phillips, Nellie Kidd, Hyacinthe Sophie, Mamie McDonald, Rita Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sheets, Fred. Mooney, Merrill Cummings, Leonard Littlejohn, Art Pullaw, John O'Rourke.

The Canadian Club will hold their November meeting at the "Provincial" next Monday evening when W. E. N. Sinclair, M.P.P., Oshawa, will be the guest of honor.

Mrs. John Nalon, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Lee for the past couple of weeks, is expected home from Oshawa today.
Jack LaFrance has returned from Mallorytown where he was visiting friends.

The ladies of St. John's church are working very hard for their bazaar which will open in the Lyceum, on the 17th November and be continued to the 22nd.

A distressing accident occurred on Tuesday night last when Miss Carpenter, Gananoque Junction, fell down the cellar stairs and broke her leg near the ankle. It was a bad break which will require some little time to mend.

The G.H.S. football team will play the K.C.I. in Kingston on Saturday, and as Queen's and McGill battle there the same day this will mean two big events at least interesting to Gananoqueans.

ODDFELLOWS HAVE PARADE IN NAPANEE

Frontenac Regiment, B Company, to Hold Boxing Bouts at Armouries.

Napanee, Oct. 31.—The two local lodges of Oddfellows and visiting brethren formed parade last night and marched through the streets of the town to Argyle Lodge I.O.O.F., headed by their band, the occasion being the initiation of new members. The procession was a very long one. The initiation team of the Campbellford Lodge as well as deputations from lodges at other points were in attendance to take part in the ceremonies.

A successful basar and afternoon tea, yesterday, given by the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, was succeeded in the evening by an excellent concert which gave much pleasure to the large audience in attendance. The cantata, "Penitence, Pardon, Peace," with chorus of forty voices was beautifully rendered. The soloists were, Mrs. E.
Burrill, soprano; Marvin Rathbun, baritone; Miss Helen VanLoven, pianist; Mrs. J. E. Madden, organist, and conductor.

Two new metal smoke-slacks on the post office chimney adding to the height fifteen feet, are now erected. It is expected they will in some measure abate the smoke and soot nuisance from the burning of soft coal during the winter.

Another consignment of new books has been received at the public library. They are now in the hands of the "readers" for approval or rejection. In a short time those favorably commented upon will be put in circulation.

The next meeting of the Lennox and Addington County council will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 9th.

Frontenac Regiment, B Coy., boxing bouts take place at the Armouries tonight. It is said that there will be eight contestants in the ring.
The boys expect to have a big attendance. Numerous visitors will be here from Kingston and Belleville to witness the events.

"KNOTTY" LEE IN LIMELIGHT AGAIN

His Canadian Pro. League Causes Lots of Discussion.

Seeing the futility of aiding and abetting the existence any longer of the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League, George (Knotty) Lee, the Toronto promoter, who was instrumental in organizing the Canadian League in 1911, as well as the Michigan-Ontario League in 1919, now comes forward with a plan to recreate the Canadian League.

The old Canadian League stayed its operation at the close of 1915, owing to the war, and even then was flirting with disaster, owing to the fact that the railway jumps from London to Ottawa were too costly for the volume of business done on the circuit, just as overhead expenses are far beyond the expectations of club owners in the Michigan-Ontario League.

Since 1915 great changes have been wrought throughout centres included in "Knotty" Lee's plan. Amateur baseball and civic pride laid the foundation for many years of summer pastimes, as enclosed parks with seating accommodation and grand stands have sprung up in all the cities where senior baseball has held full sway since Armistice Day.

Senior amateur baseball, as played throughout Western Ontario in the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, aside from creating a wealth of enthusiasm and attracting immense crowds, has not provided a high-class article of pastime, and the organizations behind the game could provide an entirely different order of things with comparatively little additional expense.

"Knotty" Lee's proposal to organize a class "C" league, affiliated with the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues and the protection it provides, is a real incentive.

His plan is to weld into the constitution of the leagues, which has been his dream for years, a proviso that each club carry no less than four Canadian-born players. This departure from the usual in professional ball throughout Canada is not a selfish motive. Aside from creating that local atmosphere baseball harbors for home-bred talent, it should provide an opportunity to develop of the Canadian players to deport for the major leagues. Ability of Canadian players is not questioned, but the development has been retarded because they have not been thrown into competition on the diamond with or against United States players who are capable of retaining berths in the salaried ranks.

The only Canadian-bred ball player developed in recent years, was Babe Dye, who was given his start by "Knotty" Lee at Brantford. Dye has played three consecutive years in the International League at Buffalo, and has been mentioned as major league timber recently.

Pride in Canada for its athletics will not be denied, and there is no reason why United States money should not be poured into Canada for baseball players, just like it is for the talented hockey player. It is a well-known fact that Canada is working overtime to keep up the demand for the latter.

A Canadian league composed of cities in Ontario is desirable, and when these are linked up with London on one end and Hamilton on the other there is again no reason why such a circuit should not prosper.
Applications have been made privately to "Knotty" Lee by promot-

To Blood Their Spears

Nairobi, Oct. 31.—Because they permitted two murderers to escape, two hundred and fifty male inhabitants of the Nihimbiri location, Meru County, Kenya, have been sentenced to "two months hard." They will do forestry and ditching under supervision of the district commissioner instead of being subjected, as is usual, to a cattle fine. The murderers whom they allowed to escape killed a woman, apparently only to
