

Has Your Husband Got Indigestion?

What the World Is Doing

(As Seen by Popular Mechanics Magazine)

Passing the Plate by Radio

Pessimists say radio broadcasting can not continue indefinitely because there is no way to collect the cost from the ultimate consumer—the listener-in. The Sunday Evening Club, of Chicago, has disproved the assertion by successfully passing the plate to the radio fans when the weekly religious services of the club are broadcast each Sunday night from October to May. The club has never asked the radio enthusiasts to contribute, but each week gets a flood of letters containing donations. "I heard the plate being passed, and here is my donation," is a typical letter. The contributions range from a few cents to as high as $25, and the appreciation of the audiences was proved by the fact that the total amount of their gifts during the eight months of the 1923-24 season was over $1,200.

Touch on Lever Tilts Auto Lights

To eliminate the necessity of dimming automobile headlights when passing other cars, a device has been made with which they may be tilted toward the road by touching a lever on the steering post. In this way a daylight view of the road is given when meeting other motorists without blinding approaching drivers. By dropping the lights while driving in fog or over rough or muddy places where it is necessary to pick the way, all details of the road immediately ahead of the car become clearly visible.

Light Lifeboats for Seaplanes to Save Wrecked Fliers

To aid in saving lives of aviators who might be wrecked while flying over large areas of water, lifeboats so light they can be easily carried on seaplanes have been designed. Strongly built and equipped with oars and rope, the boat is said to add but little to the burden of aircraft. In case forced landings in the sea are necessary, when planes become damaged, it can be easily unshipped from its moorings and navigated by one man. Constructed with a wide beam, the lifeboat can safely negotiate ordinary rough seas.

Compound for Cleaning Paint on Engines

A compound with which engines or other oily machinery can be cleaned thoroughly is made as follows: To 1 gal. of water add 1/4 pt. of kerosene. Mix them thoroughly, forming an emulsion. Rub the painted surfaces of the machinery with the compound and remove it before it dries with a cloth.

Cementing Leather to Iron

To cement leather to an iron surface, paint the iron with a mixture of white lead and lampblack in oil. Then cover with a cement made of the best glue soaked in water until soft, and dissolved in vinegar. This is thoroughly mixed with one-third of its bulk of white-pine turpentine, and thinned with vinegar until it can be spread with a brush. The cement should be applied to the iron hot and the leather put on and quickly pressed into place; the parts should be held tightly in a clamp while drying.

Making Stranded-Wire Cables

Having had considerable difficulty in obtaining good seven-stranded cable for guy wires, a mechanic hit upon the following method of making it himself: He jacked up one of the rear wheels of his car and fastened one end of a coil of galvanized-iron wire to one of the spokes, brought the wire around a fencenop, directly in line with the wheel, and attached it to the opposite spoke of the wheel, cutting it from the coil at this point. Two other lengths of wire were run in the same way and also a single length from the wheel to the post. He then started the engine and put it in gear, which caused the rear wheel to revolve and twist the wires as desired, making a strong cable. With this method he has made cables 150 ft. long.
