TWO LOCAL TEAMS HAVE BIG FIGHTS

Queen's Seniors and Intermediates Battling With Strong Toronto Outfits.

Queen's seniors have started practicing again with R.M.C. and opponents had better watch out.

"Red" Murray's O.R.F.U. team defeated Jack Newton's seniors in the practice game in Toronto Tuesday evening.

The locals think that they will surprise all the experts and defeat Queen's here on Saturday afternoon.

All the tickets have been sold, and yesterday hundreds were clamoring for the pastebards.

Looking over the local line-up yesterday, the impression was gained that, man for man, the Queen's Parkers have little to fear from the champions or any other team.

The local intercollegiate players are great tacklers, and good tackling is just about the most important department in football.

Up in Hamilton they are pretty well subdued now, and they have more reverence for Argos than they did last week.

Montreal will play against McGill University for the city championship on Thanksgiving Day.

locals wait for the attacks they will generally be swept aside by the interference.

Queen's intermediates face an even harder battle on Monday here than their seniors will in Toronto Saturday.

It is reported that "Nig" LeBel will be with the intercollegiate seniors for Varsity game but, unless we miss our guess, he'll not be used.

PIGSKIN PRIMER

What are the powers of the football officials with reference to darkness? Can they suspend play like a baseball umpire when they are of the opinion that it is too dark to complete the game?

When a game is started late for some reason and the referee is of the opinion that darkness may settle over the field before completing the four full 15-minute periods, he shall arbitrarily shorten the four periods to such lengths as to insure four equal periods being completed.

RUGBY NOTES.

Harry Hobbs, formerly quarter and captain with University of Toronto, has turned out with Balm Beach and will be at the keystone position.

It is not likely that "Gordie" Hughes, the McGill kicker, will be used again until the Varsity game in Montreal on the 15th.

Queen's always have Leadley and Baistone. They're a hard pair to tie up, but if McGill could do it for three quarters there's no reason why Varsity should not do it for the entire game.

New Edinburghs and Brockville will fight it out for the championship of the western section of the Quebec Union at Montreal on Thanksgiving Day if arrangements now being made do not go astray.

Frank "Shag" Shaughnessy, the McGill coach, says Warren Snyder, the Varsity captain, is the best individual player in Canadian football.

Up in Hamilton they are pretty well subdued now, and they have more reverence for Argos than they did last week.

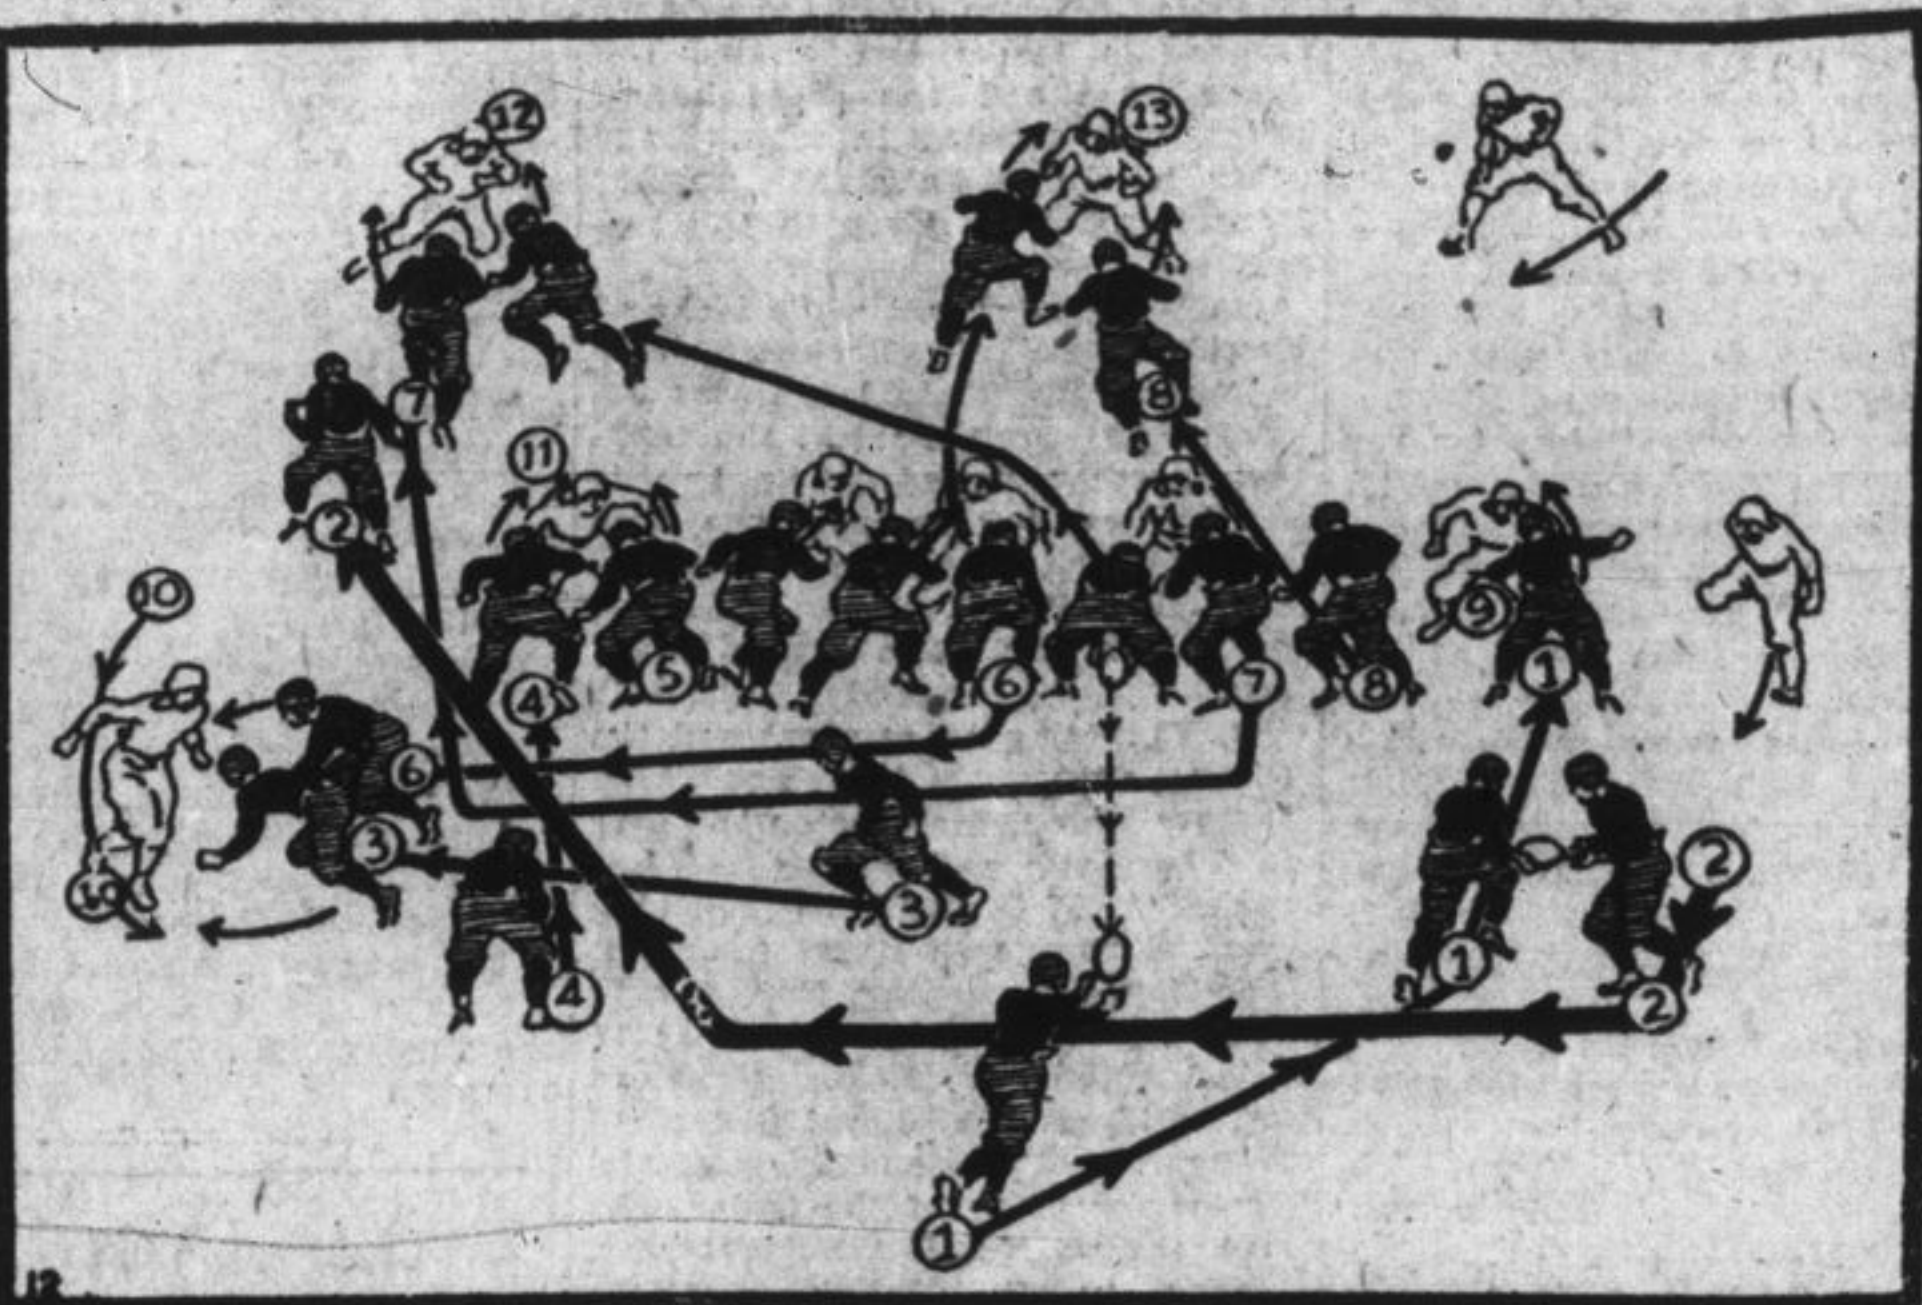

If the Queen's seniors win here on Saturday they will be champions for the third consecutive time and will also be able to take a two week's rest before going into the Dominion series against the Interprovincial Union winners at Kingston.

Montreal will play against McGill University for the city championship on Thanksgiving Day.

Hamilton newspapermen admit that Argos defeated Tigers on their merits, but maintain that Tigers could defeat the Double Blue on any field if Cecil Main and George Tuck were in the line-up.

Officials for rugby games are a bad crop this year. They seem to come few in a hill, with the few nothing to write poetry about.

FAMOUS WINNING FOOTBALL PLAYS

Meehan's Syracuse Criss-Cross. The criss-cross formation developed by Coach John (Chick) Meehan gains many yards for Syracuse because every player has definite assignments and nothing is left to chance.

As shown in the accompanying diagram ball comes direct to No. 1 who runs to the right. After taking a few steps he passes ball to No. 2. Fullback, No. 4 pivots and checks right tackle after the criss-cross.

The two guards come out of line and join the interference. Left guard, No. 6, helps the inside halfback, No. 3, block right end, who must be completely shut off from the play.

Right guard, No. 7, clears the path for the runner and with the centre blocks defensive halfback.

No. 2, carrying the ball, delays to left the fullback reach the line and then must get away very fast.

The secret of this play is the successful blocking of defensive right end and right tackle.

the Varsity-Queen's game, are the best of the lot. They're a few grades above the mill run of officials.

But the others don't seem to realize that football is played on a gridiron in preference to an official.

Some great coach might spend his time to advantage if he'd give the lot of them a few secret practices behind closed doors.—Telegram.

POSSIBLE LINEUP.

Bill Kirkpatrick May Catch Flying Wing Job.

The Mail and Empire says: The Varsity team started off with Kirkpatrick at flying wing.

Joe Kirkwood will play in all the winter tourneys. Some time back the trick-shot artist said he was through with tournament play.

Wanderers still have hopes of securing Bill Phillips of the Soo Greyhounds.

Ottawa Senators will be called together for indoor practice this week and they will likely get out on the Auditorium ice Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

The Calgary Tigers, who have been selected as the team to come East for an exhibition series, will be very strong.

Fred Lowrey, signed by the Montreal Wanderers, is not the same boy who was with North Bay juniors as stated in yesterday's paper.

COBB IS FEEBED.

Says He Needs No Advice From John McGraw.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—Tyrus Raymond Cobb rises to remark that he seeks no fatherly advice from John McGraw.

"I am fifteen years younger than McGraw," says he with a show of feeling, "and I know my own business better than he does."

MARION VICTOR

English turf followers got their biggest thrill of the season from this sight as Aga Khan's Charley's Mount, paying 100 to 1, romped home first in the Caesarswitch-feature.

HOCKEY CLIPS

Leo Dandurand, of Canadians, made an effort in August to secure Pete Bellefeuille, of London, last season with Iroquois Falls, even going to London to interview the player.

Harold Darragh and Hib Milks, of Ottawa, are said to be back in Pittsburgh.

Dunc Munro's jump to the pro-hockey ranks will net him close to $9,000 the first year and $24,000 for the three years.

Wanderers still have hopes of securing Bill Phillips of the Soo Greyhounds.
