JUST THIRTY YEARS AGO

When Ottawa College Defeated Queen's 8 to 7 for the Dominion Rugby Championship.

It will be thirty years the 17th of November since Queen's University team lost the senior Canadian rugby championship to Ottawa College team directed by Rev. Father M. J. Fallon, now the lord bishop of London, Ont. As Bishop Fallon was a native son of Kingston there was at least a little satisfaction that the Limestone City had some share in the victory. Ottawa College, however, would not have defeated Queen's had the game been played on Nov. 22nd, 1894, as Queen's requested, for three of the Tricolor players—McRae, Cranston and Webster (the latter being Charles R. Webster, a local practicing lawyer)—were in bad condition owing to injuries. However, the Canadian league executive would not hear to the change of date proposed by Queen's, and so the game was played on the Rosedale grounds, Toronto.

Ottawa won 8 to 7. It was another of those one-point wins that decide championships. McRae, Queen's great kicker, limped all through the game. Cranston's injury to his shoulder made the Tricolor scrummage weak, leaving the bulk of the pushing to George Kennedy and "Billy" Baker. "Jack" Elliott played in Charlie Webster's place and put up a great game. Edward Gleeson was centre half of the Ottawa team and in the next few years became one of Canada's greatest half backs. Guy Curtis was Queen's captain and left half back. The teams were:

Ottawa College—Full back, Belanger; halves, Shea, Gleeson, Murphy; quarter, Leveque; scrummage, Boucher, Clancy, McCredie; wings, Lee, O'Brien, James, Prudhomme, Foley, McDougall, Vincent.

Queen's—Full back, Wilson; halves, Curtis, Farrell, McRae; quarter, Fox; scrummage, Cranston, Kennedy, Baker; wings, Elliott, Horsey, Ross, Moffatt, Johnston, Rayside, McCammon.

Of the Queen's team who played in that memorable game Dr. A. E. Ross is Kingston's member in the House of Commons; Guy Curtis is still living in Delta; "Chick" McRae is somewhere in the United States; Charles B. Fox is an electrical engineer in East St. Louis, Ill.; J. G. Cranston is a medical doctor in Annapolis; W. C. Baker is a professor of physics in Queen's University; H. H. Horsey spends much of his time in Kingston, although now of Ottawa; J. Stewart Rayside, of Montreal, has just been added to the directorate of the Canadian National Railways; T. H. Farrell, brother of James M. Farrell, Kingston, is an eye, ear, throat and nose specialist in Utica, N.Y.; "Wicky" Wilson is Kingston's market clerk; "Jack" Elliott is a member of the firm of Elliott Bros.; W. Moffatt is a physician in Utica, N.Y.; George Kennedy and W. McCammon have passed away. Kennedy was for several years with Ottawa Rough Riders. McCammon, who was an electrician, was drowned off the steamer St. Lawrence near Clayton years ago.

"Wicky" Wilson was the greatest full back player Canada produced, according to the Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal press. His playing was always sensational.

ONE VIEW.

But Supposing the Play Had Been Reversed?

A writer to the Toronto Star says: Dear Sir: After witnessing the brilliant display of Canadian rugby played between Queen's and Varsity last Saturday I came away rather convinced that something is wrong with the method of scoring in Canadian rugby.

Take this game for example. Unquestionably on the day's play Varsity were entitled to win, but through an unfortunate error on the part of Mills, Queen's scored a touchdown which was converted, amounting to six points. To my mind this was an unearned touchdown and should be scored as such.

In this case, Leadley sends up a punt for sixty yards and the receiver muffs the ball, which is recovered by a Queen's player. This gain was not made through clever running, passing, kicking on the part of the Queen's team. True, Queen's were fast enough to get down under the punt and quick enough to grab the loose ball and are entitled to this score reward.

I think a just reward in this case would be to give Queen's possession half the distance of the total gain from the point of kicker to the point of where the ball became dead. In the event of the play resulting in a touchdown (like last Saturday) I think three points would be ample.

In this way the defending team would not be unjustly penalized through the muff of an individual and the attacking team would receive just reward.

A. G. M.

Note!—We wonder if the same opinion would have been expressed if Varsity had won the game in such a play.

Circle-Six Entered.

There is much interest around the city in the Circle-Six hockey team, junior O.H.A. runners-up last year, who have entered the junior series of the S.P.A. race this year. They should make a good showing in that and it will round them out properly for the regular schedule. The new Jock Hartly Arena should revive hockey greatly in Kingston.

Still Going Ahead.

Ray Marchand's U.S.M.A. team has won another soccer match, defeating the fast Colgate eleven 2 to 1 this week. That makes four victories and a tie in five games for Ray's team with only three more games on the schedule. As a hockey star, Ray is certainly some soccer man as well.

WINNING

Earl Sande, internationally famed jockey, is making the last quarter of the health handicap in fine time. Suffering a broken leg and other severe injuries at Saratoga Track last season the game turler is recuperating at his Jamaica (N.Y.) home and says he'll be in the saddle next season.

FALL SPORT OPENS FOR THIS FELLOW

Toronto Telegram's Paid "Hater" Loses His Wrath on Queen's.

Now that Argos and two Varsity teams have been given the gate, the Toronto Telegram's "Hymn of Hate" composer, under the heading "Snapshots on Sport," is going strong. This writer hates two things—Queen's and Frank Shaughnessy. Here is one of the latest "hymns": Queen's have decided that they need the money and will play their Canadian semi-final game with Tigers at the Stadium. But they're a rather naive bunch these Church Unionists. They calmly intimate that they're not playing in the national finals for the love of the sport or even the joy of winning. They just need the gate and if it is big enough to put them on easy street they'll never do it again. From which it may be gathered that whether the one-time Calvinists are now Unionists or Methodists they still remain distinctly Scotch.

And with this statement before it the good old Globe heads the despatch "Queen's Last Year in the National Series." Well, it probably is, though not for the reason given in the despatch beneath the heading. For Leadley is in his last year in the Kingston school. And with the breaking up of the Batstone-Leadley combination championships and Queen's should hit each other a long farewell.

Queen's have been one of the luckiest if not one of the best teams that ever came to the front in Canadian football. Two years ago they won from Argos just because Dinsmore dropped a ball when Conacher showed him through the line. Last year they ran into the weakest lot of teams that ever lined up on Canadian football fields. Saturday they needed horseshoes hanging all over their corners to pull out a win over the rejuvenated Varsity bunch. Without the famous Batstone-Leadley combination they would never have been heard of outside of Kingston.

And if Queen's are in financial straits just now it surely is not because of those Canadian finals they affect to despise. These four games in the Canadian finals they have played to date have netted them a neat $8,000. On only one final have they lost money.

When they insisted on playing Edmonton in Kingston, the expenses of the Far Westerners ate up the gate and $150 besides. But that was the only time the gate showed a balance on the wrong side. Even against Regina at Toronto last year they walked away with $1,500 as their share. And $1,500 is a lot of money in some Scotch communities.

But it is a fine amateur spirit that floats in from the eastern seat of learning. It will be an inspiring spectacle to see lined up against the lowly Tigers an aggregation of intellectual athletes whose only object in life is to wipe the mortgage off the old farm. Then they may settle down to an old age uncontaminated by contact with vulgar plebeians whose only excuse for playing football is that they like the game.

However, though Queen's are too modest to make this claim, they were probably actuated by much higher motives. The first charge on the gate is to be for a special train to bring 500 students from Kingston. Nobody can estimate the educational value of this pilgrimage.

TO-DAY

This morning Kingston Collegiate and Peterboro engaged in their second match in the interscholastic semifinals at the Richardson Stadium. Peterboro won the first game with a tidy margin but the locals expected to overcome the lead. The score has been settled by now but at the time of going to press was not decided.

This afternoon R.M.C. and Loyola Juniors meet in the second game of the junior finals of the third division of the C.I.R.F.U. Cadets go into the game three points down, having lost 11-8 at Montreal on Wednesday. They should be able to overcome that lead and, if so, will play Varsity Juniors in the finals.

Argos and Ottawa meet in Toronto to battle out for second place in the Interprovincial. It will be one of those games, probably a good one, where teams put up a splendid exhibition after the title is decided.

Balmly Beach will play Hamilton Rowing Club at Hamilton but the Beaches already have the title so there is little interest beyond local in that.

Much interest attaches to the final senior Intercollegiate fixture at Montreal when Varsity meet McGill. Here again the title has been decided but in spite of that the teams, with their old rivalry, will put up a good battle. Varsity should win but it will be interesting.

BOXING NOTES.

(By J. A. W.)

James Figg (or Fig), the first boxer to hold the heavyweight championship of the world, was born in Oxfordshire in 1688, and died in 1734. He belonged to the highest class in society, having for his friends men like Hogarth, Dr. Johnson, Walpole, Swift and Pope, and also members of the royal family. Figg began boxing in 1718 and became recognized champion a year later. In 1727 he fought a rousing battle with a Gravesend pipemaker named Sutton. The fight lasted over an hour and Figg won. Before entering the ring Figg was instructor at a School of Arms in London.

Mike Gibbons is writing a series of articles entitled, "My Eighteen Years in the Ring," for the Philadelphia Boxing Blade. They all do it sooner or later. Even Jim Corbett is at it. Jim's articles are being published at the present time in the Saturday Evening Post.

Queer how modern fighters like to use fictitious names in the ring. Johnny Dundee is really Joseph Carrera, Pancho Villa is Francisco Gullotto, Pete Herman is Peter Gullotto, Kid Norfolk is Bill Ward, Kid Lewis is Gershon Mendeloff, Rocky Kansas is Rosco Tozzi and Battling Siki is Lew Phal.

In boxing, thirty is recognized as the age when a man begins to go down, yet there have been several exceptions to this rule. Bob Fitzsimmons was 35 when he won the world's heavyweight title from Corbett, Jess Willard whipped Jack Johnson at 34, Jack Britton won the welter title from Lewis at 36, Johnny Buff was 33 when he won the bantam crown and Tom Gibbons of St. Paul knocked out Bloomfield, beat Carpenter and stayed fifteen rounds with Dempsey after he had passed the age of thirty. The most noticeable example of a boxer who went down long before he reached thirty is Knockout Brown, who passed his prime before he became 21!

Varsity Hockey.

Examinations and graduations have opened up many gaps in the ranks of the University of Toronto hockey squad and there will be a great deal of competition for the vacant places. Goalkeeper Thomson, Lou Harris, Bert McLeod, George Westman and Ross Dickinson will all be absent this year, but one acquisition should prove of great value, that of Clarence Day, former defense star with the Hamilton Tigers. "Red" Porter will probably team up with Day on the defense when the final line-up comes out for the first game.

Joe Sullivan will be back in front of the net, and he will have as his assistants Goodchild, formerly with the intermediates, and N. McClary, six years with Lindsay. Ned Wright will have opposition on right wing in the person of Roger Plaxton, last year's wing for the Aura Lee Juniors. Ross Somerville and Steve Greay will also probably be available and there are many other experienced newcomers who will be in line for a position. Two of last season's juniors, Mac King and Jack Thomson, look like good prospects for the regular squad.

A professional golfers' league may be formed in Florida this winter, with pros stationed at the larger resort cities making up the league. Only four pitchers in the National League, Vance, Mays, Grimes and Cooper, won 20 or more games.

RUGBY NOTES.

With the Queen's-Tiger game to be played in Toronto on the Saturday following next, Queen City fans will see all the Canadian Union senior Eastern games, as Balmly Beach will play against the survivors in the final. If the Western champions come after the Grey Cup, the game will also likely be played in Toronto. Thus Toronto, with only one championship team gets the classics of the season.—Ottawa Citizen.

Canadian Nationals were on hand to see Brockville defeat the Burghs on Monday. Chick Mundell's squad are of the opinion that they will hold their own with Charlie Lynch's gridders in the first of the home and home games for the Intermediate Q.R.F.U. honors at Brockville on Saturday.—Ottawa Citizen.

Only light workouts are being indulged in by the Hamilton Tigers this week and such will be the order until Monday next when the team will get down to practice in real earnest. Bert Gibb, Tigers' backfield star, will not be allowed to don a uniform this week as Coach Awrey believes the big fellow to be a little "Fine." Cecil Mann is in bed and will remain there for one week at least.

Sweeney Davis and Ernie Broderick will officiate at the Peterboro C.I. and Kingston C.I. O.R.F.U. interscholastic game in Kingston today.

Down in Kingston someone is trying to give the impression that Queen's are "angels" in bringing the western teams east. The story is that Queen's brought two western teams down and lost money both times. Nothing is further from the truth. Two years ago the C.R.U. wanted to stage the Edmonton-

Queen's game in Toronto, but Queen's wanted it in Kingston. They offered Edmonton a guarantee of $4,000. It was accepted and Queen's lost about $200 on the proposition. Last year Regina came east, and after all expenses were paid, including Regina's expenses, each team took away over $1,200, which would show a profit of $1,000 to Queen's on two seasons in games with the west, and not a loss.—Telegram.
