THE MAN WHO CAME BACK." Advance reports on the William Fox screen version of "The Man Who Came Back," indicate that the picture is more spectacular than the original Brady stage play produced in 1917. George O'Brien and Dorothy Mackaill have the principal roles, played originally by Henry Hull and Mary Nash. The stage play ran on Broadway for 467 days and in Chicago for twenty-one weeks.

Jules Eckert Goodman dramatized the book by John Fleming Wilson and the scenario was done by Edmund Goulding. The picture was directed by Emmett Flynn, It will open a three days' run at the Capitol Theatre commencing Monday. In the cast are Cyril Chadwick, Ralph Lewis, Emily Fitzroy, Harvey Clark, Edward Piel, David Kirby, Walter Wilkinson and Brother
