

H.P. SAUCE unrivalled with cold meat.

Prince George Hotel TORONTO In Centre of Shopping and Business District

SHOT DEER AND BEAR.

Brain Fell Before Gun of George Brown, Verona.

Parham, Nov. 21.—A party of hunters consisting of Dr. T. S. Genge, George Brown, E. Talon, J. P. Windsor and J. Genge of Verona, and B. J. Snider, T. A. Wagar, Guy Wagar and L. B. Cronk, of Parham have returned from their hunting trip at Windsor Creek Camp in the northern part of the county.

The party gives due credit to T. A. Wagar for securing the largest deer, one of the finest specimens that came from the north country.

One "do" is better than a dozen promises.

THE THIEF OF BAGDAD

BY AHMED ABDULLAH Based on Douglas Fairbanks' Fantasy of the Arabian Nights, by Elton Thomas

"Thief! Thief!" the shouts echoed and reverberated, sharp, grim, ominous, freezing the marrow in his bones. Where could he turn? Where hide himself? And then he saw, directly in front of him, an immense building; saw above him, thirty feet up, the invitation of an open window. How reach it? Hopeless! But, the next moment, he remembered his magic rope.

He reached the window, climbed in, drew the rope after him. The house was deserted. He sped through empty rooms and corridors; came out on the roof and crossed it; leaped to a second roof and crossed that; a third; a fourth; until at last, slipping through a trap door, he found himself—for the first time in his unhallowed existence—in a Mosque of Allah, up on the ceiling rafters.

Inside, below him, a tall, gentle-eyed, green-turbaned Moslem priest was addressing a small gathering of devotees. "There is prayer to Allah in everything," he said, "in the buzzing of the insects, the scent of flowers, the lowing of cattle, the sighing of the breeze. But there is no prayer to be compared to the prayer of a man's honest, plucky work. Such prayer means happiness. Honest, courageous, fearless work means the greatest happiness on earth!"

A sentiment the opposite of Ahmed's philosophy of life. "You lie, O priest!" he shouted from the rafters; and he slid down and faced the Holy Man with impudent eyes and arrogant gestures.

There was an angry growling, as of wild animals, among the devotees. Fists were raised to smash that blasphemous mouth. But the priest raised calm hands. He smiled upon Ahmed as he might upon a babbling child.

"You are—ah—quite sure, my friend?" he asked with gentle irony. "You know, belike, a better prayer, a greater happiness than honest, courageous work?"

"I do!" replied Ahmed. For a fleeting moment he felt embarrassed beneath the other's steady gaze. The shadow of an uneasy premonition pride was immense, and, beside his Arabic title of Caliph, he gloried in such splendid Turkish titles as: Imam-ul-Muslem—Pontiff of all Moslems; Alem Penah—Refuge of the World; Hunkiar—Man-Slayer; Ali-Osman Padishahi—King of the Descendants of Osman; Shahin Shahi Alem—King of the Sovereigns of the Universe; Hudavendighar—Attached to God; Shahin Shahi Movazem ve-Hillulah—High King of Kings and shadow of God upon Earth.

Zobeid was his daughter, his only child, and heir to his great kingdom. As to Zobeid's beauty and charm and surpassing witchery, there have come down to us, through the grey, swinging centuries, a baker's dozen of reports. To believe them all one would have to conclude that, compared to her, Helen of Troy for the sake of whose face a thousand ships were launched, was only an ugly duckling. We choose therefore, with full deliberation, the simplest and least florid of these contemporary accounts, as contained in the letter of a certain Abu'l Hamel el-Andalusi, an Arab poet who, visiting for reasons of his own a young Circassian slave girl in the Caliph's harem, happened to glance through a slit in the brocaded curtain which separated the slave's room from the apartment of the Princess, and saw her there. He wrote his impressions to a brother-poet in Damascus; wrote as follows:

"Her face is as wondrous as the moon on the fourteenth day; her black locks are female cobras; her waist is the waist of the she-lion; her eyes are violets drenched in dew; her mouth is like a crimson sword wound; her skin is like the sweetly scented champaka flower; her narrow feet are twin lilies."

The letter continues with slight Oriental exaggeration that Zobeid was the Light of the writer's Eyes, the Soul of his Soul, the Breath of his Nostrils, and—thence which there is no praise more ardent in the Arabic language—the Blood of his Liver; it mentions such rather personal items that the Circassian slave girl when she saw the desire eddy up in the poet's eyes, was for scratching them out on the spot; and comes down to earth again by saying:

"Never in all the seven worlds of Allah's creation lived there a woman to touch the shadow of Zobeid's feet. Brother mine!—as a garment she is white and gold; as a season, the spring, as a flower, the Persian jasmine; as a speaker, the nightingale, as a perfume, musk blended with amber and sandalwood; as a being, love incarnate..."

(To Be Continued.)

Rude Shocks Follow After Men Die

Even those considered "well-to-do" have left their families in such poor circumstances that they cannot properly "carry on."

Think over the cases you know about—children working, education neglected, homes broken up, dressmaking, boarders—

But what about your own family's position?

Probably you do not know how easily provision can be made under our Monthly Income Jubilee Policy—the product of fifty years of service. For an annual premium equal to $5.78 a week a man age 30 can provide an income of $100 a month ($1,200 a year) to his wife (age 30) to continue as long as she lives after him.

No better or safer investment is possible. None could bring such far-reaching blessings to your wife and family. Arrange it now and make their future safe.

Any one of our representatives will be pleased to assist you in making this provision for your loved ones.

London Life Insurance Company

"Canada's Industrial-Ordinary Company" HEAD OFFICES - LONDON, CANADA

City Manager, C. D. Carr King & Brock Streets, Kingston

Mal-nutrition

Starving, in the midst of plenty. This is the condition of many pale, anemic, bloodless school children who are suffering from malnutrition.

An investigation in the schools of Toronto showed that the highest percentage of malnutrition cases was not in the poorer sections, but among children who came from the best homes.

Not starved for the lack of food, but because of not eating wisely. Too much sweets and pastry. Too little of vitamin laden vegetables.

The appetite becomes fickle. Indigestion is common. Restlessness, nervousness and irritability prevail. Eye trouble, goitre, St. Vitus' dance and other ailments develop.

The anemic child is in no condition to stand the mental and nervous strain of school work and examinations, along with the enormous burden which physiological changes put upon the system at this time of life.

The importance of good, robust health during this critical period cannot be sufficiently emphasized. It may mean the difference between invalidism and health throughout a lifetime.

Fortunately this condition responds promptly to restorative treatment and the results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food have proven beyond doubt its suitability in such cases.

Overwork at School

Miss Irene Grey, 157 Beech St., Hillfax, N. S., writes:—

"Two years ago I was going to school, it was my last year and I worked very hard day and night over my studies. I stayed indoors most of the time and my health was slowly but surely breaking down. I took a lot of medicines, but they all did me very little or no good. When the end of the term came and I graduated, I was a total wreck. I was thin and pale, my digestion was bad, I could not sleep nights, and my kidneys were in very bad shape.

"Cast on my own resources, I had to work, but finally my health broke down and I had to go away for a visit. The lady where I stayed told me of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after using three boxes I felt so much better that I got three more. I steadily regained my health, an new working every day and owe my good health to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Boy had St. Vitus Dance

Miss Rachel Mitchell, Mount Albert, Ont., writes:—

"When my brother was eleven years of age he took St. Vitus' Dance. He could hardly hold anything in his hands and had to go to bed for about a year. Although he had a doctor attending him, he was unable to obtain relief. We read of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and decided to have him try it. While using the first box he began to improve, so we kept on using this treatment with him until he was restored to health, and he is now able to do work of any kind."

Anemic—Very Weak

Miss Blanche B. Hall, Newtown, N. B., writes:—

"I suffered from anemia for about six years, and became so weak that I could not walk any distance without being completely tired out. During that time I doctored with five different doctors, and Perhaps your daughter's health or your son's health has been a source of anxiety to you. Possibly he or she has not been doing well at school.

It is worth while to try a few weeks' treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. While gentle and natural in action this great restorative is wonderfully potent as a means of forming new, rich blood and building up the nervous system.

With the blood thin and watery, there is little chance to fight the germs of contagious diseases. The greatest of germ destroyers is pure, rich blood and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective of blood builders.

The appetite is sharpened, digestion improves, the healthful glow returns to the cheeks and there is soon plenty of evidence of the benefit being obtained from the use of this restorative treatment.

CHLOROSIS

As a result of this bloodless condition girls often develop chlorosis. Appetite is perverted and there is a taste for chalk, pencil lead and such things.

Palpitation of the heart, constipation and other derangements of vital organs result.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies exactly what is required by the system under these conditions and its use brings about complete restoration of health.

took several other treatments. Some of these would help me at the time, but I would soon be back where I started.

"My sister insisted on my trying Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, as she had used this with remarkably good results. I found this treatment helped me, so I gave it a thorough trial, the result of which was that I found myself walking almost any distance without undue fatigue. It is over a year now since I used this medicine and I have had no return of that tired feeling."

Suffered Much Pain

Miss Olive Harbrunn, Desmerton, Ont., writes:—

"I used to suffer great pain periodically, and would be confined to my bed for days. A friend one day brought me Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to try, and this medicine has helped me wonderfully. After suffering for years it was a great relief to be free from pain. I had tried a number of treatments before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but this was the first to give me permanent relief."

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run

- 43. Prefix expressing "direction toward."
45. Point of the compass.
47. To ask for payment.
48. To move.
49. Modern.
51. Non-metallic chemical element.
54. Implement used in writing.
55. Meshed twine.
57. Apartment for a formal reception.
63. State of being incontrovertible.
7. Half of the width of an arm.
8. A rodent.
9. To contaminate.
10. To render less brittle.
11. One of a tribe of American Indians.
13. Man's nickname.
15. A numeral.
17. To deface.
18. A tavern.
21. To search for placer gold.
22. To fasten.
24. A very large tropical bird.
25. The wife of a nobleman.
26. A word used instead of a noun.
28. An eight-sided figure.
30. Woody perennial plants.
33. The seed of any cereal grass.
34. Possessive pronoun.
35. To capture.
36. End piece.
38. A measure for cloth.
44. The capital of a Western state.
46. To think (obsolete).
47. To put on.
48. Tender.
50. To form a texture from threads.
52. To fall behind.
53. Part of machinery.
54. A political league.
56. A bond.
58. A flying mammal.
59. Part of "to be."
60. Angular distance measured on a meridian (abbr.).
62. A rotating or sliding piece in machinery.
63. Japanese coin.
65. Interjection.
66. Religious denomination (abbr.).

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle

through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

Introduction.

Not a very hard puzzle this week but rather tricky. To help the beginners we'll tell you that the horizontal word beginning at 31 and defined as "non-metallic chemical element" is silicon.

Horizontal:

- 1. To drink with the tongue.
4. A pine tree.
9. Greek letter corresponding to "pi."
13. Supervisor of a publication.
14. Swimming (adjective).
16. Drugged.
17. 1501 (Roman numerals).
19. Strong thread.
20. A color.
21. A coloring.
23. Single unit.
24. Preposition meaning "through."
25. A root vegetable.
27. A pipe through which liquor is drawn.
29. A suffix forming the past tense.
30. Twice five.
31. A measure of energy.
32. Interjection meaning "behold."
34. Anger.
35. Conjunction.
37. A compound containing metals.
39. Between different nations.
40. To behold.
41. A mountain ravine.
42. Uctuous combustible liquid.

Vertical:

- 1. Guided.
2. Loved and worshipped.
3. One who plays an instrument made of reeds.
4. A kind of fish.
5. Conjunction.
58. Prohibition made by authority.
59. To be of advantage.
61. A horse drawn vehicle.
62. Carries.
64. To divulge.
65. Bovine quadrupeds.
67. Before.
68. Conservative principles.
69. Monetary unit of Japan.

DIZZY? You need a Laxative

For Constipation, Biliousness, Headache

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

60 cents a box of 60 pills, at all dealers or Edmanston, Estes & Co. Ltd., Toronto