MAXSON FUKHALL JUDGE

Market Interpretation.
Mr. Elliott: "Men's clothes are cheaper now."
Mrs. Elliott: "Oh, goodly! I can have another new dress!"

From Our Children's Garden Of Curses.

Peter was playing at Johnny's house one day. When it was time to go home, it started to rain very hard. Mrs. White, however, gave Peter Johnny's raincoat and rubbers.

"Don't take so much trouble, Mrs. White," said Peter politely. "I'm sure your mother would do as much for Johnny," she replied. "My mother would do more," said Peter. "she'd ask Johnny to stay for supper."

—Winifred Brewster.

The First Thought.
Felix: "Will you say a word to fit the occasion?"
Edwin: "How many letters?"
—Mrs. K. K. Gross.

A Touching Affair.
We sat on the park bench. It was a chilly evening but I wrapped her partly in my fur coat while she told me her story.

She was a little country girl looking for work all alone in a great city. I was touched, but I did not know it until she had gone and I found my bank roll missing.

—William Sanford.

Real Joy.
Alice: "Do you get any pleasure out of Marshall's company?"
Virginia: "Yes, it worries Lillian."

—J. W. R.

Nix.
I asked her twenty times at least . . . If she would marry me, And share my summer cottage by The wide and rolling sea.

"No, no," she always answers me, "No, no, it cannot be." She went to college, that is why. She No's too much for me.

—W. J. Rollo.

Local Color.
Mrs. Newrich: "I don't like this portrait you've painted. It isn't a good likeness."

Smere: "If you wish it to look like you, Madam, let me have your vanity case and I'll touch it up a bit."

—Mrs. Seymour Kaskel.

LITTLE ERNEST'S ESSAY.
Consequences.
Everything you do has at least one consequence, and some things have a lot, such as sassing your teacher back.

Everybody knows the consequences of setting on a tack, and therefore people seldom do it if they know what is happening at the time, and one of the most useless things you can do is to tell somebody else to go and set on one.

Some consequences are different from what you expect, such as when you fite a fellow because you are sure you can lick him and he licks you instead, or when you fite a fellow that can lick you because you can't get out of it, and then lick him, but that misse not happen more than once in a life time and even then not to you.

The consequences of some things are never known by the people that do them such as falling off of a roof.

Tripped.
Horton: "What made you miss your step?"
Clyde: "The stare of a girl."

Ways And Means.
He had proposed and been accepted. After they grew coherent again they began discussing ways and means.

"Will my poor salary buy your hair, my sweet one?" he asked.
"I'll make it do," she answered bravely.

—Florence Woodward.

THE JINGLE-JANGLE CORNER.
Small things at times bring much content:
A Red Cross seal costs but a cent.

Chilly rooms require heat;
Poker players get cold feet.

—N. M. Levy.

You never need fear you'll receive a dun
If Dun reports you AA1.

—Isaac H. Moses.

When this you see, remember me,
Likewise that V, I loaned to thee.

—J. S. C.

Thoughtful Man.
Smith: "Wilkins is a brute."
Jones: "What makes you think that?"

Smith: "A salesman sell him a combined talk, line and radio."

Jones: "Yes?"
Smith: "And he said he wanted a radio combined with a washing machine so his wife could enjoy it."

—Paul S. Powers.

As long as a man says: "This is the worst weather I ever saw," he is still young.

The wisdom of the appointment of such a man has already made itself apparent during his two months here. His thorough and wide knowledge of his subject and the wealth of experience on which he can draw has made a proverbially dry subject vivid, practical and really interesting, while his kindly manner and interest in his students has already won for him an enviable popularity.

Late Miss Menzies, Althorpe.
The death occurred on Saturday, December 6th, at her residence, Althorpe, of Miss Elizabeth Menzies, after a sickness of just a few hours, a stroke being the cause of death.

The deceased lady was held in the highest esteem by the whole community. She was connected with the Althorpe Presbyterian church, and was a most enthusiastic member of the Ladies' Aid. She leaves to mourn her loss four brothers, and three sisters, Joseph, Thomas and Annie at home; James of Chantry, and Vincent, Lamond, Alta; Mrs. J. C. Dowdell, Millet, Alta; and Mrs. R. J. Forester, Westport, for all of whom the deepest sympathy is felt.

The funeral took place on Monday, and in spite of the inclement weather, was very largely attended. The services in the home and at the graveside were conducted by the Rev. J. A. Lytle. Interment was made in Bellingbrook cemetery.

Passed Vote of Appreciation.
The management committee of the Board of Education at its final meeting for the year passed a resolution, moved by Canon Jones, of sincere appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. T. G. Bishop the efficient chairman for the year. Mr. Bishop thanked the committeemen for their kind expressions. It was easy to guide and direct the competent, earnest and thorough going men and women on the committee.
