Approximately six miles of streets were treated with road oil this year, and though the cost exceeded that of last year, better satisfaction was received in many ways. The roads up to the present time, are in excellent condition, and it is noteworthy that not one complaint was received by reason of the oil tracking into houses, although thirty cubic yards less of sand were used for covering than in the previous year. The cost this year was $3,-670.33, against $3,339.82 in 1923. About two years ago when the township hall at Sunbury was destroyed by fire, it was thought that it would be very difficult to erect a new one on account of the amount of money which would be needed The members of the Sunbury Woman's Institute had a vision that a new hall would be built and after holding a number of entertainments and raising some money, the executive committee went to the township council and made a proposition to the effect that the Institute would be responsible for a certain sum if the township would pay the rest. The council accepted the suggestion of the women who went shead and secured their portion of the money needed. The new hall, which cost about $3,500, is certainly a credit to the township. It is equipped with hard wood floors and also a kitchen, and is an ideal place for social
