The true spirit of Christmas permeated the gathering of three hundred women and babies who on Saturday afternoon were the guests of the Graduate Nurses Association and the Victorian Order Nurses in the big cheerful recreation hall of the Y.M.C.A. It was a pleasure to watch them. Young mothers with little ones, who had cares and worries no doubt, but who had laid them aside in the happy atmosphere of friendliness which characterizes the relations between the Y.O.N. and those amongst whom they work, and the graduate nurses of the city who provide this annual treat, were as smiling and happy as everyone else. The ladies who had come to provide entertainment did not mind a bit that the little ones sang a song of their own, but felt that mothers were enjoying the programme, as a glance at their faces showed. Miss Ardelle Elder played and sang, her simple songs sung in her rich mezzo soprano being most suitable. Miss Anderson, a clever Queen's student, read the famous story of the Little Ruggles being prepared for their Christmas dinner party and the sympathy of every mother in the room was with Mrs. Ruggles. Miss Anderson also sang a charming song. Tea was served from a table centred with a big Jerusalem cherry given by another friend of the Y.O.N., Mrs. Emily Crawford. Cake and sandwiches without limit were handed around by the hostesses and enjoyed by the guests. Then Dr. H. E. Day, the friend of the Kingston babies, who gives free clinics for well babies at the Welfare Station every week, spoke saying that the station had been open for six years now and that some of the children of eight years old who were present had had the advantage of the nurse's care from two years old. He urged the mothers to bring not only the babies but the older children to the station every now and then just to let him and the nurses see how they were getting on. He also wished everyone a very happy Christmas and was cordially wished one in return.

There was a good attendance at the Badminton Club on Saturday and among those present were Col. and Mrs. C. F. Constantine, Obl. and Mrs. Schmidlin, Col. and Mrs. Victor Anderson, Col. and Mrs. A. E. Harris, Mrs. Keith Hicks, Mrs. T. D. R. Hemming, Mrs. B. K. Sandwell Mrs. Brimacombe (Montreal), Mrs. Charles Hanson (Montreal), Major and Mrs. Henshaw, Col. and Mrs. J. S. Sheffeld Bacon, Col. and Mrs. J. S. Skinner, Capt. and Mrs. F. W. Harvey, Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Campbell, Mrs. Hubert Stethem (Toronto), Miss Hora, Miss Florence Cunningham, Miss Amy McGill, Miss Marion Leslie, Miss Mildred Jones, Miss Allison and Miss May Rogers, Miss Nora McKee, Miss Anne Rutherford, Miss Edith Carruthers, Miss Laura Kilborn, Miss Doris McKay, Mr. deL. Panst, Mr. A. N. Lee.

On Saturday afternoon before the mothers' tea at the Y.M.C.A., eighty-four girls of the Welfare Station sewing class had their annual treat. Christmas puddings made of candies tied in colored napkins were provided for every child by the Y.O.N. and a fine programme of carols and recitations was arranged, Lillian Butler being in charge. The children who were unable to be present through illness and some other children unhappily quarantined at this joyous season were sent the sweets and oranges.

Miss Marguerite Hubbell, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Herbert Robinson, King street west, left today for home in Winnipeg to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents. The Editor Hears

That there are only two days in which to do up Christmas parcels and to buy the last minute things we need. The post office has been crowded for the last few days and the postmen, who by the way we must not forget on Christmas Day, have already such laden packs that they look like veritable Santa Clauses and, indeed, they take his place most effectively and it only remains for some enterprising person to suggest that they have a special costume for Christmas.

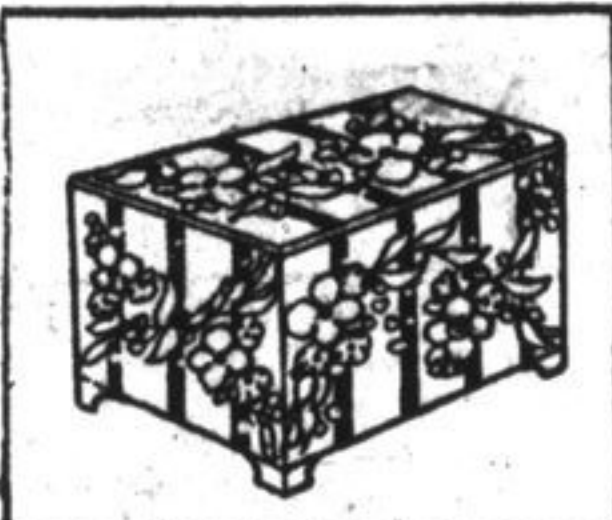

That a reader makes a suggestion that the city get an expert to decide which of the many trees that are so close in some parts of Kingston that they prevent each other from growing to perfection, should be cut down and the wood used as firewood during this time of unemployment. As well as making a decided improvement to the city streets, work would be provided for a number of men.

That the Christmas baskets should be generous ones this year. Baskets that will provide the family for a little longer than the day of rejoicing. The unemployment relief, gladly as it is received, does not run to luxuries and we all feel like enjoying a few good things in the holiday season.

That the red flowers mounted on real cedar leaves have taken the cities of Ontario by storm this year and are sold readily in all the larger centres. On Saturday many people were carrying a bouquet of them home to deck their Christmas dinner table.

That it costs an Oxford student $5 to dance with a girl, that is if he is caught in the dreadful act, which, while not forbidden by the University authorities, is so frowned upon that it is penalized by a one guinea fine. Mixed dances are not barred but all dance rooms are raided every night by the university proctors, and the students who cannot escape down back alleys are regularly fined. As dancing is popular, dance fines are an important source of university revenue.
