"HIS HOUR" OFFERS GREAT LOVE STORY

New Elinor Glyn Production at the Capitol Theatre.

The rare combination of an Elinor Glyn story brought to the screen with her two favorite screen lovers playing the hero and heroine is the promise of "His Hour." Mrs. Glyn's latest production, which will come to the Capitol Theatre on Thursday for a run of 3 days.

In the first place, John Gilbert, as a romantic Russian Prince, is said to come up to all expectations as to just what Elinor Glyn's ideal hero should be like, and Aileen Pringle, who demonstrated so definitely her ability and charm in "Three Weeks," is again the beautiful heroine.

"His Hour" tells the story of a fascinating English widow, brought up in a straight laced manner, meeting informally, at the Russian Embassy, a Russian Prince whom all women adore. She is instantly attracted to him, but knowing him by reputation, she resolves she will not follow the trend of all women and become his slave. Therefore, the wall of aloofness, freezes about her and the Prince, who has fallen in love with her, cannot win her. She tantalizes him by her indifference, yet she goes to every means to win her. Finally, as a last resort, he kidnaps her, and then follows a series of love scenes which are said to surpass those in "Three Weeks." The climax, when the Prince and Tamara realize they love one another devotedly, is one of the most beautiful and realistic scenes ever brought to the screen.

NIX ON CORNWALL

Belleville and Kingston refuse to allow Easterners of O.H.A. Group. Cornwall, after doing the independent stuff early in the year and generally treating intermediate Ground No. 1 of the O.H.A. with disdain, is now beginning to get back in, but without result. Brockville, on account of the short jump, might take them in, but Belleville and Kingston are emphatic on the matter. On the night the schedule was drawn up here with J. S. McDonell as convenor, the meeting waited for over an hour to give Cornwall a chance to say something, but no message of any kind was received. Therefore the two western members say Cornwall can go and fish for a group as they have no intention of rearranging their schedule.

How About Gellay?

Since the Kingston intermediates have been having quite a lot of trouble getting a permanent coach and Professor Gellay has been doing all the work anyway, it would be a great thing if the R.M.C. mentor would consent to act as the steady coach. It is likely that R.M.C. would give permission and there is no doubt but that Prof. Gellay would get results.

The "Y" girls are also playing a preliminary game with the K.C.I. girls. The fight is scheduled for seven-thirty. The Five-Nines have been practicing for several months and ought to be able to hand the Belleville quintet a good trimming. All basketball fans can be sure that there will be a real good exhibition of the game. Seating accommodation for about a hundred has been arranged. It will be best to be on hand early to get a good seat.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

Held At St. James Hall on Tuesday Evening.

The annual Christmas entertainment of St. James' church Sunday school was held on Tuesday night, and it was a most enjoyable event. In addition to a couple of very fine comedies of moving pictures, there was an excellent programme of songs, recitations and readings, and every item on the programme provided a fine treat. Mr. William H. Dauby acted as chairman. A very pleasant feature of the proceedings was the presentation of a fountain pen to Miss Lilian Gilbert for securing the highest number of marks in her Sunday school examinations, she having obtained ninety-two per cent. The fountain pen was donated by Mrs. W. M. Linton. The programme included a Christmas card by Orman and Cecil Siles; songs by Kathleen Robins, Doran and Irwin McPherson; glee solos by Jennette Bins, Doris Bolton, Lilian Gilbert, May Bird, Miss Jean Graves; readings by Gertrude Lawson, Ruth Lyons, Augustine Holman, Marjory Lyons, Ethel Twiss, Thelma Barker, Bessie Dean, Bobby Partridge. The pictures shown were "Miss Winter" and a comic reel, "Furner Afters." At the close of the programme, refreshments were served.

Miss Kathleen O'Shaughnessy, B.A., of Campbellford, who assisted the bride, wore a blue dress with gold trimmings and had to match and carried American Beauty roses and the groom's gift, a bracelet.
