JAMES FORREST FOUND DEAD IN HIS STORE MAYOR MAKES APPEAL FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

The Gas Was Turned on for Some Hours and He Was Asphyxiated.

The city of Kingston was shocked on Tuesday morning to learn of the death of one of the most prominent merchants of the city, in the person of James Forrest, owner of the Forrest Men's Furnishing Store on King street. Deceased was found dead in his store before eight o'clock in the morning, when his brother, William, who was in the habit of attending to the fires and general cleaning up of the store, went there. William Forrest had just opened the door when he became aware that something was wrong, so dense was the volume of gas fumes that issued from the place. He glanced inside and saw his brother lying on the floor near the front of the shop about a foot away from the gas pipe where it had been broken off. He immediately rushed over to the police station and Police Detective Mullinger and Constable Garrity went to the store and found that Mr. Forrest was dead. Coroner Dr. A. E. Ross was summoned, and after going into the case thoroughly decided that an inquest was unnecessary as Mr. Forrest had come to his death by asphyxiation. The coroner believed that the gas had been on for several hours and an occupant of the floor above stated that he smelt gas about three o'clock. People living over the store were not affected by the gas. After the coroner had viewed the body, a call was sent to John Cornelius, undertaker, and the remains taken to his rooms. The news of Mr. Forrest's death was received with deep regret by his legion of friends in the city, who had known him as one fair in his dealings with everyone and generally well liked by those who knew him. Mr. Forrest had been in business for the past twenty-five years, carrying on his men's furnishings trade. His business had shown considerable progress of late. Deceased was born in the city and resided here all his life. He was a Roman Catholic in religion. His sister, Mrs. Patrick Walsh, predeceased him about three weeks ago, and since that time Mr. Forrest had worried a great deal, as he and his sister had been great companions. He is survived by two brothers, Edward Forrest and William Forrest, and a niece, Miss Anita Walsh, all of the city. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning from the residence, 32 Earl street, to St. Mary's cathedral and thence to St. Mary's cemetery.

He Hopes Citizens Will Give Them All the Odd Jobs They Can.

"I do hope that citizens will do all they possibly can to help the men who are out of employment," remarked Mayor Thomas B. Angrove, on Tuesday. "The city is doing all it can to help out in the way of providing employment, but there is need also for help on the part of the citizens, as the city cannot provide work for all who are out of work." The Mayor stated that citizens who can, should provide work for men out of work, in doing odd jobs and chores around the house. He pointed out that any work of this kind would help out the situation, and he was free to admit that the unemployment situation in Kingston had reached a very serious state. "There are men who refuse to take a dole," continued the Mayor, "and are asking that they be given work, and the city has no work to offer them." The civic stone quarry is in operation, but it cannot provide work for a very large number. At the present time there are twenty-three men engaged in breaking stone. Quite a number of men have been given employment shovelling snow and also in cutting ice around vessels in the harbor.

THE KIWANIS CLUB'S BUSINESS MEETING

The Financial Statement Presented—Chairmen of Committees Are Chosen.

The first meeting of the Kiwanis Club since the New Year was held on Monday at noon at the Frontenac hotel with William Moore holding down the president's chair for the first time. Under his watchful eye, the usual jollity of such a gathering passed smoothly along, and the club singing was brought into action frequently. It was a business session and there was no speaker. The chief matter of importance was the presentation of the financial statement by the treasurer, Stewart Crawford. Kiwanian John D. Boyd moved that the thanks of the club be extended to Kiwanian Crawford for the splendid report he turned out and the members heartily endorsed his motion. A letter was read from Dr. Joseph Andre with regard to putting on "The Gondoliers" by amateur talent, under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club. After Kiwanians Shea and Smithies had given their views on the matter, Kiwanian Mills moved, seconded by Kiwanian Hoag, that the matter be referred to the executive for consideration. President Moore's address was very short and he thanked the club members for having elected him to the honorable post of president. He urged that greater interest in the activities of the club be taken by all. He announced that on Jan. 21st, which is anniversary week, there would be an exchange of speakers in the various clubs. He also announced that Kiwanian Jack D'Estier would be in complete charge of membership for the club. There are fourteen committees in the club this year and the members of each are being selected. The chairmen have been chosen as follows: Athletics, Bert Booth; attendance, Frank Anglin; booster, A. Minnes; benevolent, Alan Stroud; business and public affairs, Harold Davis; classification, W. Anglin; education, W. H. Raney; entertainment, H. W. Newman; house, Eddie Walsh; speakers, Frank Day; transportation, Jack Sutherland; Kiwi, R. H. Fair; sick and visiting, John D. Boyd.

Edward Freeman, Hartington, was a member of the county council some years ago and will represent the township of Portland. William Guthrie, James Haldiday, R. A. Hamilton and W. E. Cordukes, who were members of the 1924 council had to go through a campaign to hold their seat. The remainder of the councillors were all re-elected by acclamation.
